It will be a couple of months yet before the Pennsylvania terminal work will be ready for active operations by the general contractor, the George A. Fuller Co. The list of engagements of this company is the most considerable in the history of the city. On the new premises of the United Realty Co., 115 Broadway, and the addition to the Trinity Bldg., the foundation work has been so rapidly put down that the work will be ready for the structural iron in the course of a week. Work on the Plaza Hotel is now proceeding without any more difficulty with strikers.

The Phoenix Bridge Co., of Phoenixville, Pa., has agreed to supply Ryan & Parker with the 42,000 tons of steel necessary for the completion of the bridge. This company has supplied the material for elevated railroads in Greater New York on both sides of the East River, and is supplying the steel for the cantilever bridge that will span the St. Lawrence at Quebec, the biggest bridge of its kind in the world. The Bridge Commissioner said this week that he had every confidence in the Phoenix Company and in the contractors. "Barring strikes, I should walk over the new bridge before my term of office expires," said Mr. Stevenson.

During some weeks there has been a decided decrease in the amount of new building going on in Manhattan and the Bronx, and architects report not so large a number of plans under way as during the months of May, June and even July. The turn that has been taken is not surprising, for the building situation all through these summer months has been indeed remarkable. This is usually the dull season with architects, and many expect that as soon as the vacation period is over plans for many new buildings will be called for. In most cases architects are busy completing work which has been started, while a number report quite a little new building coming for propositions which it is expected to complete in the fall season. During the summer months a few high priced one-family residences were erected, but they are only for the occupancy of their owners or for rent to a certain class, a very limited one, who can afford to pay the high rental charged.

John H. O'Brien, Fire Commissioner, has asked for an appropriation of $7,979,778 for next year, an increase of about $1,000,000. Much of this increase, Commissioner O'Brien says, is required for Brooklyn and Queens. He wants to add five companies to the Brooklyn service and replace the volunteer service in Queens with paid companies. Commissioner of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity William B. Ellison also asks for $6,020,391, an increase of more than $1,000,000, to increase the size of the staff of water registers and increase the salaries of the deputy commissioners each from $4,000 to $5,000. The Commissioner of Parks has submitted his estimate for 1907 as follows: Manhattan and Richmond, $1,933,771.01; Bronx, $934,987; Queens and Brooklyn, $1,093,101.25, and $27,800 for Board expenses, a total of $3,989,659.26. Among the estimates are: Manhattan and Richmond—Maintenance of museums, $448,368.99; Aquarium, $45,000; Zoological department, $33,520; Harlem River Drive, $2,175; care of Grant's Tomb, $5,000; ambulance service in Central Park, $2,500; Jumel Mansion maintenance, $10,000. The Bronx—Botanical Gardens, $97,160; Zoological Park, $154,572.

Court House Too Gay.

The Municipal Art Commission, to whom the plans for the new Queens County Court House were submitted, have refused to approve them, giving as their reason that it has too many styles of architecture and too much coloring.

The plans were prepared by Pietro Coco, a resident of Queens, with offices in Manhattan. They were authorized by Borough President Bermel and met with his approval and it was hoped that work could soon begin on the new structure.

Now, however, the matter will have to be deferred for awhile, as the law requires that plans for all public buildings must be approved by the Art Commission.

President Bermel, when asked about the action of the commission, said:

"The design was actually too handsome. That is the whole reason. It was too beautiful."

The commission's criticism of the new $300,000 building which it is proposed to erect on the site of the ruins of the old court house which was almost totally destroyed by fire three years ago, is that it contains too many styles of architecture for one structure. The design in the Municipal Art Commission's room in the City Hall shows a building with a Greek facade of four columns and two pilasters.

There is a Greek pediment with allegorical sculptural work in relief. But on either side are two pillars with lamps, all four of the same design but of modern abstraction from a possible Renaissance original. The top of the edifice is a kind of pergola, but almost wholly of glass, which, it was pointed out, is not in keeping with the Greek facade. There are in front of the Greek entrance two lions on pedestals.

Too much coloring is another criticism. There are in the design shown brown, white, red and green, while two flags of red, white and blue show at either end of the front.

Mr. Bermel said that the building is really a very handsome one, but what he objected to, he said, was that Mayor McClellan was overruled by the Art Commission in disapproving the plans.

"Mayor McClellan told me before he went to Europe," said President Bermel, "that the plans could go through without the approval of the Municipal Art Commission, and now the Art Commission takes it on itself to disapprove them. Of course, I went to see about it. I asked Acting Mayor McGowan how it was. He said that it was through an oversight. He told me that the plan was put in with a number of others that were brought before him to sign, so that they could be sent to the Art Commission. He did not see that the plan for the Queens County building was among them, and he inadvertently signed it, thus formally bringing it before the commission for approval."

• "Will you insist that the plan shall go through as it is?" Borough President Bermel was asked.

"Of course," he said, "when Mayor McClellan comes back from Europe I will see him about it. But I think we shall make a few changes anyway. It certainly was too handsome for the commissioners. A man named Cook objected. Said the plans were too varied."

Walter Cook is the sculptor on the Art Commission.

Edison's Molded Houses.

Thomas A. Edison, the wizard of invention, has announced that he is working on a plan to mold houses whole in a single casting out of concrete, and that the total cost will be $500 a house, with the probable lower prices when the invention is developed.

Men interested in cement and its allied lines comment on the announcement with various feelings, but generally doubt is expressed as to Mr. Edison being able to invent a method of molding houses that will reduce the cost to such an extent as he says. There is usually a large difference between promise and performance in such matters. Moreover, it would be no new thing. Concrete walls are essentially being "poured" and molded already, and the principles of steel reinforcements have recently been developed in a high degree without Mr. Edison's aid. An 8-story concrete hotel is about to be "poured" in 30th st, Manhattan. A great printing house for the McClures is being even now "molded" over in Queens Borough; it is announced this week that an armored concrete building of three stories, for the Packard Motor Car Company, is planned for the northwest corner of Broadway and 61st st. With or without Mr. Edison's assistance concrete construction will be studied and improved up to the point where it costs no more than real masonry, of which it is an avowed imitator; and at or near the place where the cost of imitation equals the real thing the rivalry will, as heretofore, pause.

Chiefly responsible for the new birth of concrete was the cheapness of cement in comparison with the high cost of brickwork and stone masonry. However, it is to be said that for one sort of work under the head of "masonry," concrete should henceforth always be preferred. Reference is made to the sort of "stone work" that has usually passed muster in house foundations, bridge abutments and retaining walls.

"I can't see where Edison can save in cost, time and energy," said an expert in concrete blocks. "Now, the way concrete constructions are put up is this: First, a cast is made for the walls, say four feet high. The concrete is poured into this cast and is allowed to harden. Then the cast is simply moved up another four feet and that much more of the wall is added. This system is rapid enough for anybody.

"I do not think it can be done. Of course, the name of Edison carries great weight, and we have seen him defy everything we thought a natural law with success so often that no man can safely say such and such a thing cannot be done.

"But I can see no reason for Edison's wanting to cast houses in one casting. To-day whole concrete houses are being built to some small extent in other communities out of cement blocks, just like brick or stone. Why should a man want to cast a house whole when it can be built piece by piece at the same price? But, then, as I said, Edison can achieve the impossible, and he may perfect machinery that will give us a house that is entire, all at one fell swoop. But what execrable taste! You call up the 'Edison Whole House Company' on the telephone and say to the clerk: 'This is A. B. Smith, and I want a concrete house at once. Build me one immediately. I'll call for it at 4 o'clock.' The clerk asks whether you want one like Class A, No. 6, or Style C, Pattern 8. Of course, they only have to shift the casting to change the position of the parlor, make an extra bedroom, attach more closets, etc., and there you are, concrete house, modern, bath, plumbing, fireplace, a brass doorknob and a dog house besides, all ready by 4 o'clock. All you have to do is to send for the expressman and move in before supper!"

A contractor who has built many concrete walls said: "This idea is one of the insanities of genius. Edison is crazy. He wouldn't be a great inventor if he were not. But this thing is the limit. I admit concrete has only come into use during the past ten years, and new uses are being discovered for it every day. For instance, a little while ago, it was learned that concrete incorporates itself with steel rods put into it when it is soft and when it hardens the concrete will not break until the steel itself breaks. Concrete flooring will stand 600 pounds pressure to the square foot, and this beats anything but solid stone. But as for Edison's idea it may be done some time.

"A man who can solve the automobile question with cobalt batteries for electric machines can do almost anything else. I expect to see concrete used in building houses a great deal more in the future than it is at present. It wears for ever, and can be made to look very pretty. Concrete can be made to imitate any kind of stone, and no one but an expert can tell the difference between a concrete house and a genuine brown front, granite or marble.

"If Edison does perfect a machine for casting concrete houses whole in a single casting, it will be a great boom to the poor man and will stimulate home building. Also it will mean that concrete houses will then be built wherever it is possible to transport cement in 100 pound sacks."

REAL ESTATE NOTES

John D. Karst & Co., for twelve years at 2051 8th av, have moved to 194 Broadway, where they will do a real estate brokerage business.

The Hudson Realty Co., 135 Broadway, is about to open several tracts of land in Queens County, and will have contracts to let for doing the work.

The Wyoming apartment house, on 7th av, which was illustrated in this paper last week, though yet unfinished, is already an assured success, though the rents range from two thousand to five thousand per annum. There is evidently an unsatisfied demand for rooms of good size, well lighted and elegantly fitted. In the Wyoming apartment house the other day leases aggregating $15,500 per annum were closed in a single hour.

The American Bank Note Co., which has been established in Trinity pl for more than fifty years, has decided to move from the city, and to build a model manufacturing plant, where abundant light and air will be obtainable for the engravers and pressmen. The plant will most probably be in Westchester County, just outside the city lines. A new site for city offices has been bought recently by the company, so that the Trinity pl property will be placed upon the market. It occupies about 22,000 sq. ft., with a frontage of 125 ft. facing Trinity churchyard, and extending to Greenwich st. This being one of the largest plots in the financial district, is likely to become the site of another giant skyscraper.

The Bronx.

CHISHOLM ST.—William Loeb & Co. sold 1342 Chisholm st, a 3-sty dwelling, near Freeman st.

TRINITY AV.—Isidor D. Brokaw sold for the Tremain estate a plot, 75x109, west side of Trinity av, between 156th st and Westchester av.

Fredk. Fox & Co. leased from the plans for the Master Builders' Realty Co. to Becker Bros. & Co. the ground floor and basement in the 12-sty mercantile building being erected at 10-12-14 East 12th st, for a term of years, at an aggregate rental of $35,000.

J. S. Corning sold to William Fisher a tract of 30 acres with a water front of 1500 ft. on the Hudson River, at Esopus, N. Y., adjoining the property of former Judge Alton B. Parker.

CONVEYANCES

Whenever the letters Q. C., C. a. G. and B. & S. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it. The street or avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

4th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

5th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

6th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

7th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only, and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagees. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as head lines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

WHEN the amount of cumulative bull material at hand is taken into consideration the stock market continues to act in a "safe and sane" manner. The failure of the Real Estate Trust Company of Philadelphia this week is a misfortune generally, and not only to those individuals immediately interested. It will serve to accentuate the increasing fear that exists with reference to the so-called real estate speculation. There is probably, on the whole, no unreasonable speculation in real estate any more than there is in securities. The temper of the financial and business world is conservative, and most people are managing their affairs with excess of caution. As to this particular failure, the institution was regarded as one of the strongest financially in Philadelphia. Its late president, Frank H. Hipple, since its incorporation in 1885 had placed it in the front rank of the city's financial concerns. The immediate effect was naturally a sharp reaction in the stock market on Tuesday afternoon, which interrupted the advance, but nevertheless there is still confidence that the advance will continue with renewed vigor. The local character of the collapse of the company was manifest, and the stock market effect seems to have passed, and really was entirely what it deserved to be, for the reason that this failure was not a notice of unsound intrinsic business conditions. With regard to the money situation there is a growing feeling that our banking interests have it well in hand. They know that they can command ample gold supplies from Europe whenever required. Further, if necessary, Secretary Shaw has ample funds at his command to come to the relief of the money market. Reverting again to this Philadelphia Real Estate Trust Company's failure, it may be said that it is already almost forgotten, an evidence of the strong underlying fundamental conditions and the general prosperity of the country. Whether the receivership is to be only temporary and the company to shortly resume business at an early day is not yet determined, but certain it is that Wall Street has resumed its usual normal conditions and the market cannot be said to have been hurt much. There were individuals who suffered, of course, as there always are on such breaks, which play havoc with lightly margined accounts, and is apt to make the victim believe that the bottom has tumbled out of the market. It was surprising indeed to see how stocks thrown on the market were snatched up, and the attempt to break the list to any great extent proved futile. The Record and Guide does not assume to possess the gift of prophecy, but the course of the stock and money markets for some time past has been very much as has been anticipated in these columns.

FOR the last week of August the real estate market has been reasonably active and interesting, and it is noteworthy that, as regards conveyances filed, the record of the whole month of August compares creditably with what was done in the corresponding period of 1905. This is true of the whole city. The conveyances filed in Manhattan this week are fifteen in excess of the number filed a year ago, and in the Bronx the difference in favor of this year is 31. Manhattan's record for the whole month also surpassed in number of filings for conveyances the record of the similar period in the previous year. Presumably for reasons based on the new mortgage tax law, the filings of mortgages continue to exceed in number the business done in this line last year, but they have not been nearly so numerically large as some authorities expected. In fact, in most particulars, if an exception is made for speculative tenement house operations, the aspect of the real estate field is quite normal for this season throughout the whole city. It is to be said, however, that the public appetite for investment property has been somewhat appeased, and the buying movement may on this account be less strong than in the spring. In Brooklyn brokers are expressing expectations of a "selling" movement in the fall, in contradistinction to the prolonged "buying" movement they have had there, the sellers in this event to be owners and investors rather than builders. Prices have advanced and hardened to such an extent in Brooklyn, that Queens has derived a great benefit therefrom. For those for whom real estate and building interests have a fascination, a run through Queens is a thrilling recreation. All the signs and symbols of a boom can there be viewed. Not since the elevated railways were opened in Manhattan has there been such a field of excitement in and around New York City. Many new and not a few old city firms of brokers have opened offices in Queens, while of operators new and old in the trade the number is incalculable. Perhaps it is because that so much professional and public interest has been carried over to Queens that a lessened amount is left for the older boroughs; but whatever the effect of the exodus to Queens, there is no denying that another great city is being erected there—a city for middle class homeseekers, semi-rural and highly respectable. Probably not enough account has been taken in Manhattan, the Bronx and Brooklyn this summer of what has been transpiring in Queens and on Long Island when explaining general conditions.—Builders in Manhattan continue busy with the great works that were laid out in the spring, but the building projects for the future are much shortened compared with last year. Since the decline in brick, there has been no special movement in building materials, except in painters' supplies. Painters are furiously busy everywhere. Labor conditions are tranquil in all trades without exception.

BRYAN'S reception in New York was impressive, and if the Democratic convention which will nominate that party's next Presidential candidate were to be held within the next three months, there can be little doubt that Bryan would be nominated. Moreover, in case he is nominated when the time comes, it is entirely possible that he will be elected; and if such should be the case, it would only be another illustration of the truth that a politician cannot recommend himself to the American people better than by standing for a definite set of principles and convictions. Bryan's strength is due to the fact that he has gradually impressed the American people as an honest and able man, who can stand firm in defeat, and who is neither cowardly nor self-seeking. It is true, of course, that he no longer insists upon the free coinage of silver, and that we do not hear as much as we once did about the crucifixion of mankind upon a cross of gold; but if Mr. Bryan no longer emphasizes the earlier phase of his public policy as exclusively as he once did, that is only because the whole course of the economic development of the country plainly proves that he was mistaken. He has certainly sacrificed in the past as much as anybody can reasonably ask to his convictions on the money questions, and if he is willing to drop them now, public opinion should not quarrel with him. Mr. Bryan is to be accepted or rejected at the present time according as his present policy is or is not calculated to advance the national welfare. There can be no doubt of his moral integrity and his patriotic intentions, and, of course, he now looms up as a moderate, conservative and "safe" candidate compared to his most conspicuous Democratic competitor. It is not Mr. Bryan's honesty or his patriotism which can be questioned; it is rather his fundamental good sense. He means well; but he thinks badly. His opinions are in some respects too conservative, and in other respects too radical, and it is difficult to tell in advance just how his mind will act. He is liable to the aberrations of a quick and easy but undisciplined intelligence, and it is this characteristic which may again betray him into a mistake as fatal as his earlier attempt to trace all the ills of our country to the gold standard.

GENERALLY it is not known that New York has 750 miles of unpaved streets, mostly in Queens and Richmond Counties. There are only two completely paved or almost completely paved cities in the United States, and both are in New England. Boston, with 500 miles of street surface, has only six miles unpaved, and Providence, with 230, has but 15 unpaved. The test of physical perfection in a city, according to the New England standard, is the number of miles of paved streets. A city which has, according to this test, its streets paved is a city in which there is much travel and therefore much intelligence, much traffic and therefore much business, much money to pay for the paving, and therefore much credit, and much attention to the subject of paving, and therefore much public spirit. Chicago has 2,700 miles of unpaved streets—more unpaved than paved. About one-quarter of the streets of Philadelphia are unpaved, though this fact lends no support to the popular notion that grass grows in some Philadelphia streets. The unpaved ones are chiefly in the suburbs recently annexed to the Pennsylvania city. St. Louis has 2,000 miles of streets, of which 400 are unpaved; Baltimore has 1,500 miles of streets, of which 55 miles are unpaved. Many Western cities have adopted the plan of establishing driveways leading from each city, and the condition of use of these driveways is that they should not be paved. Denver is one of the cities in which this plan has been extensively adopted; Cleveland is another. In New York, the one Borough of Manhattan is practically "all paved," but it is likely to be many years before the exigencies of population will require all Queens Borough streets to be paved, and that division of the Greater New York would lose many of its present unique attractions if all the streets available for pavement were to be "citified."

The Grand Circle and Its Future.

LITTLE by little it is becoming apparent that the Grand Circle and its vicinity is destined to be one of the two most important amusement centers in Manhattan. Already there are three theatres on the circle or in its neighborhood; and during the past year the plans for three more have been announced. With one exception, all of these theatres will be devoted to light opera or vaudeville, but that exception is of some importance. The so-called National Theatre that is to be built on a subsidized basis and under the direction of Mr. Conried will be situated on Central Park West within a block or two of the Circle. The selected design for this building indicates that it will be the most imposing and beautiful structure of its kind in New York City, and its presence near the Circle will add dignity and prestige to the surroundings. It is probable that hereafter the majority of the new theatres erected in Manhattan will be situated near the Circle rather than near Long Acre Square, because the Circle will gradually become to an increasing extent the square which will be most conveniently located for the larger part of the theatre-going population of Manhattan. We do not mean, of course, that Long Acre Square will be superseded as an amusement centre by the Circle. It is probable that for another generation the neighborhood of Broadway and Forty-second Street will present a more lively and brilliant spectacle at night than any other locality in the city. We simply mean that the Circle will gain in relative importance until it gradually reaches a degree of popularity for such purposes equal to its neighbor on the south.

For the present the Circle undoubtedly suffers from certain disadvantages. A great deal of well-situated property in the vicinity either remains unimproved or else is improved with insignificant buildings. And this fact makes it look second-rate by day and somewhat dismal by night. Furthermore, it is cut off from the active and brilliant part of Broadway near Long Acre Square by a section of that thoroughfare which is improved mostly by garages and apartment-houses, and which offers nothing interesting and amusing for pedestrians at night. The present importance and popularity of the Circle is due not so much to the fact that it lies north of Long Acre Square along the line of Broadway as to the fact that it is situated at the southern end of the great West Side. Little by little, however, the section of Broadway between Forty-ninth and Fifty-ninth Streets is bound to be opened up, and to become available for amusement purposes. Hemmed in as it will be by the Circle on the north and by Long Acre Square on the south, it cannot long keep its present sombre appearance. Shops, restaurants and theatres will creep in until it becomes a good imitation of the present condition of Broadway between Thirty-fourth and Forty-second Streets. Such a transformation is necessitated by the fact that the district known as the Tenderloin is destined to be pushed farther north. The whole section between Broadway and Eighth Avenue south of Thirty-fourth Street which is now included in the Tenderloin will during the next ten years be transformed into a dull but respectable business district, and during the succeeding decade a similar transformation will take place between Thirty-fourth and Forty-second Streets. Greeley Square will inevitably become chiefly a business centre, and Broadway as far north as Forty-second Street will obtain a similar character. The purveyors of amusements will be pushed up into the district between Forty-second and Fifty-ninth Streets, and there they will remain during the lifetime of the present generation. The amusement centre will run from Forty-second Street along the line of Broadway and Seventh Avenue to a few blocks north of Fifty-ninth Street, and the Circle will rival Long Acre Square in the amount of electricity which it needs to support its peculiar industries. It is probable, for instance, that during the next ten years the home of the Grand Opera in New York will be moved almost a mile farther north, and this move when it takes place will symbolize and accelerate the whole transformation.

The great advantage which the Circle enjoys will be, as we have said, its convenience to the theatre-going population of Manhattan. A comparatively small fraction of the people who support the theatres and restaurants on Broadway live in the overcrowded districts on the lower or the upper East Side. These people come rather from the private residential district to the east of Fifth Avenue or from the West Side, and they will continue to live in the neighborhoods mentioned, at least during the next twenty-five years. The Circle is more convenient to these districts than is any other available square in Manhattan. The residents of the fashionable East Side can reach it quickly either in carriages or by means of a transfer at Fifty-ninth Street. The residents of the West Side can reach it still more conveniently either by the Subway, the elevated road or by several different surface car lines, and it is the thrifty residents of the West Side who make the prosperity both of the theatres and the department stores. During the next twenty-five years that whole district, including Washington Heights, will become more than ever the abiding place of ordinarily well-to-do people. Washington Heights will be settled by families who can afford to pay a rental of from $500 up, while on the West Side many of the existing dwellings will be superseded by big apartment houses. Indeed, a larger number of comparatively well-to-do people will soon be living on the West Side than were ever collected before within a similarly small area, and these people are precisely those who support places of amusement.

Neither will the Circle be any less convenient to the outlying boroughs than are the squares farther south. Of course, it will not be at all as accessible for a resident of one of the New Jersey suburbs as Greeley Square will be, and both Greeley and Long Acre Squares will, on the whole, be more easily reached from Brooklyn and certain parts of Queens. On the other hand, the Circle will be more accessible from the Bronx than will any centre farther south, and it will have the additional advantage of the most direct and capacious connections with Queens. The Blackwell's Island Bridge will be the next one thrown open to public traffic, and as it will be the only bridge spanning the East River with a terminus in the central part of Manhattan, it will eventually have an extremely important influence. The great advantages of a bridge over a tunnel are that it affords a means of transit for all kinds of traffic, and that its capacity is immensely greater. The day will come when as many people will travel daily over the Blackwell's Island Bridge as now travel over the Brooklyn Bridge, and when the time comes its effect upon the whole line across Manhattan at Fifty-ninth Street can well be imagined. The only difficulty is, that Fifty-ninth Street itself will not be wide enough to satisfy the demands which are made upon it, and it will not only have to be widened, but Fifty-seventh Street, also, the nearest wide street, will have to be pressed into service. Of course, we are now peering far into the future; but the people who make most money in New York real estate are those who buy property situated along the great necessary routes of travel and business, and are content to wait. The whole section just south of the park is bound to possess some day a peculiar strategic importance from the real estate point of view, precisely because it is situated south of a park which cannot be crossed, the consequence being that property just south of the park will be much more valuable for business purposes than the property east and west.

Rosendale Cement Industry.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Referring to the article by L. L. Kimball in your issue of Aug. 25. He speaks of the natural cement industry of America and speaks of its decline. While it is true in about all sections the decrease was heavy, our company increased over 1904 nearly 30 per cent., which goes to show that the demand for the well-known brands of genuine Rosendale cement is still heavy.

Merchandise Transportation at Night.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Dear Sir—As a reader of your paper for many years I have been very much interested in articles published in your issue of Aug. 18, and must say that the article on skyscrapers in Manhattan was one upon an entirely new subject, which I think very many people have never thought of. Your article on railway spurs for R. H. Macy & Co. brings up a subject which is now attracting considerable attention, and that is the increasing difficulty of transportation of merchandise through the streets of New York.

Why should we not transport more merchandise at night? Why should we not send all our heavy iron beams at night, as we know the mere transportation of a load of long scaffold poles is a general nuisance; and when the driver turns around the corner he blocks the whole traffic for a couple of blocks.

WHY SHOULD WE NOT HAVE A CITY ORDINANCE THAT ALL LOADS MEASURING A CERTAIN LENGTH SHALL BE SENT THROUGH THE STREETS AT NIGHT?

The hours of daylight are not long enough now to attend to our business, and should we not in a general way follow the example of some of our large banks who have three shifts of clerks, and are obliged to work 24 hours a day to get through their work?

Does not the erection of so many skyscrapers make larger crowds in the streets and congested districts? Therefore, should we not relieve the streets as much as possible, and will it not pay to move merchandise of various kinds at night?

I communicated my ideas to the general freight agent of one of our largest railroads and he agreed with me that it would be perfectly feasible to work the receiving and delivering of merchandise for 24 hours, and that he did not see any possible solution for the difficulties that are now being encountered unless that idea was carried out.

Yours very truly,

Halesite, L. I.

Christian Science in Business.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Christian Science would be very superficial indeed if its results in business or in other departments of human experience depended upon the thinking of other people. Such, however, is not the case. I speak of this because of a paragraph credited to the Lumber Trade Journal in your issue of Aug. 11. This paragraph says, "If you take the Christian Science view of business, that is, if you believe that business is going to be good, then it will be excellent the coming fall."

Such a line of reasoning, if carried to its logical conclusion, would mean that disaster could be brought about if everybody or even a majority of the people believed in it. This notion, followed out, would develop two active opposing factions (of belief) on practically every question, the state which prevails pretty much among men to-day. But this does not suggest Christian Science or its fruits in the least.

Christian Science, as its name implies, is the science of Christianity by means of which one may arrive at the correct solution of all the problems of existence, whether they relate to business, morals or to bodily health. The standard to be attained being perfection or truth—as in mathematics—and the means to the end being Christian or spiritual as opposed to material, nothing short of a right or "good" answer can be the outcome if in our work we adhere strictly to the unfailing Principle which governs all cases.

The optimism so often ascribed to Christian Scientists is not predicated of the selfish interests of men. It is founded upon the irresistible action of divine Principle, Truth, which is always right and governs the universe, including man, harmoniously. A reason for the optimism felt by Christian Scientists is to be found in the fact that they have discovered a positive rule by which they can successfully work out their salvation in accordance with the Principle that works together for the good of all.

Thanking you for your courtesy in using this letter to correct the erroneous impression of Christian Science conveyed in the original paragraph,

Yours truly,

H. CORNELL WILSON.

Pushing Forward the Tubes.

EXPERTS FROM THE SIMPLON TUNNEL—HOW DANGERS OF UNDER-RIVER WORK ARE OVERCOME.

DAY and night, week days, Sundays and holidays, hundreds of men are at work boring the under-river tunnels in and around New York. Down under many fathoms of water and yards of mud and rock, the steel tubes, through which the Pennsylvania Railroad will soon land passengers from East and West in the heart of New York, are pushed steadily forward, with no more waste of time than it takes to change "shifts." Except where the great terminal is building, little of the workings are to be seen above ground, and the curious wayfarer, unless accredited, is likely to see very little of them.

However, all the sections except the Manhattan side of the East River are getting along famously, and there, now that the contractor understands that he is up against, not solid granite, or even mud, but a mixture of filling material consisting in part of "old shoes" and "tin cans," as is said, the problem is more definite, if not easier. The works on the Hudson River side of Manhattan are being carried on in a noticeably expeditious and orderly manner.

Under-water work has a fearsome sound—to those who have never seen it going on. Talk to men who have been engaged in it for years and you get another idea. There are a plenty who can speak with authority, for the world has been searched for men of experience to build the Pennsylvania tunnels. On the crosstown shafts 60 Austrians, who got their training in the Simplon tunnel, are employed. There are engineers and foremen here who have tunneled Egypt, South Africa, England and America, and who look for other subterranean regions to conquer.

"What do you expect to do when this job is finished?" one of them was asked.

"Get a harder one," was the short answer.

All the excitement was taken out of one novice's visit back of a tunnel shield by finding "Tom" Brown, the oldest foreman on the contractor's staff, seated on a pile of river-bed silt, gravely squeezing mud balls, for the purpose of finding how much water the sand carried at that spot. That nothing but the air pressure kept the whole of the East River from descending on his head worried him not the least.

DAYS WORK OF THE TUNNEL MAN.

Skilled labor in the tunnels is in a minority, however. There are the engineers, who keep the lines straight, inspect and devise ways and means of overcoming difficulties; and electricians and pipe fitters, who look after the light wires, air and water conduits, but the majority of the workers are in the unskilled class—the men who put in place the iron plates that form the tubes. Each plate weighs a ton or more, and eleven of them with a key-piece form a complete ring of iron 2½ ft. wide. Hydraulic erectors lift the iron into place, and hold it while it is bolted to the ring that has gone before; hydraulic rams braced against the newest ring force the shield forward another yard, and so make way for still another ring. This is the routine of the tunnel worker. The record is five rings—12½ ft.—in eight hours.

After all, there is not much to be said about tunnel work. In past times, with crude tools and methods, it seemed a great and costly feat to build any kind of a tunnel; but in this age there are a lot of things in the construction line more difficult and costly than tunnel building. But the dangers of the work? Dangers there are, or a certain risk of injury, but not enough to worry any man in good health who will observe the rules that stare him in the face from every wall.

For to make it as safe under the bed of a river as it is on the land's surface is the aim of the Pennsylvania tunnel builders. The old Hudson River tunnel, which crosses the Hudson at Morton st, was abandoned at one time because so many lives were lost. The main difficulty was to keep the river from coming into the tube and drowning the workmen. The air under the heavy pressure required to keep the water from sweeping in, sometimes blew the roof off the tunnel altogether, and then the water poured in in such volume that there was little or no time for escape.

EMERGENCY CURTAIN FOR "BLOW OUTS."

But nowadays the life of the "sand-hog" is at least as safe as that of the surface worker. Except at times, when it is necessary to send a few men out back of the shield, the workers are protected by the massive rings of iron which form the tube, and in front is the still more massive shield. Still there remains the possibility that the water will break in, and so wherever this disaster is at all likely to occur, steel emergency curtains surrounding an air lock, are dropped from the roof of the tunnel. They reach from the roof to a point just above the center, and the emergency gangway running from the heading of the tunnel to the curtain makes this isle of safety available at all times. The theory of the curtain is the same as that of the diving bell. Once the men get behind it they know that the water will not rise above the edge of the curtain, and so, while they may be wet to the waist, they will always have breathing space.

Recently in one of the East River tunnels a pocket of wet sand suddenly dropped upon the back of the shield, and, given this avenue of escape, the air at a pressure of 34 lbs. to the inch, burst through the bed of the river. Within a few minutes the tunnel was flooded to a depth of 17 ft., but all the workers except two, who wedged each other in one of the shield compartments, made their escape without difficulty to the emergency curtain.

There remains the fact that hard work under high air pressure produces inside the workers a danger that is perhaps more to be feared than the dangers from without. Medical men are still disputing over the exact nature of "caisson disease," or the "bends." Some of them say that the disease is nothing more than bubbles of air in the veins or arteries—more air than the blood can absorb. Others say that the "bends" is congestion of blood produced by coming out of high pressure too quickly. What everybody admits is that the "bends" is a disease not to be trifled with, although it is by no means necessarily fatal. On the contrary, the medical staffs of the Pennsylvania tunnel builders now have such thorough knowledge of the disease and such excellent facilities for treating it, that not a man has been lost on the North River tunnels, and very few on the East River—none in recent months.

What complicates the difficulty of safeguarding the tunnel worker is that a man to labor with absolute safety in compressed air should not use liquor or tobacco excessively. There are only a small number who can be induced to give up drinking while they are working in compressed air. Another trouble that the tunnel builders have to deal with is that workmen, unless they are very carefully watched, will not obey the rules.

The most important of these rules is one that requires the men to come slowly through the air locks. The rule is to take a minute for about 2 lbs. of pressure; in other words, in coming out of a pressure of 34 lbs. a man should spend not less than 15 minutes in the lock. Finding that this rule was ignored, Henry Japp, managing engineer of the contractors who are building the East River tubes, has devised a valve which enables the lock tender to regulate the change of pressure with mechanical exactness.

THE "RECOMPRESSION" CURE.

But notwithstanding all the precautions taken to safeguard the men, illness now and then develops, and thorough provision is made for the care of workers on the sick list. The most effective remedy for the "bends" is to put the patient into an air lock, raise the pressure as high as that under which he has been working, and then reduce it very gradually. The medical air lock is a part of the office equipment of the medical staffs which are maintained on both sides of North and East Rivers wherever any subaqueous work is going on.

Coffee is the mainstay of the tunnel worker, and it is to be had at all time and at all places. Every tunnel is equipped with a coffee machine, and the hot beverage is on tap at all hours of the day and night without charge.

As the case stands, the death rate in the tunnels that are being bored under East and North Rivers for the Pennsylvania Railroad is no greater than that among the skyscraper iron workers. This is due largely to the fact that no precaution or remedy that can be thought of is neglected in order to reduce illness among the workers to a minimum, and to provide quick means for cure when illness does occur.

Builders Who Rose From the Ranks

Stories of Vigorous Workers Whose Efforts Lifted Them from Labor With the Hands to Business Success, Which Show That Opportunities Yet Exist in American Life

IN the early eighties a 15-year-old boy named Walter H. Clough supplied many people in Leavenworth, Kan., with Kansas City newspapers. His father had bought him a pony. "When the parent died the boy turned the animal to profit and began carrying papers, for the family was left without its principal bread winner. The boy went to school, too. When he was 16 years old he got a position as time keeper for a large local building contractor. He had to keep the time of more than a hundred men every day. He was so accurate and did his work so well that one day his employer, who had a large stable, made him supervisor. He was at his post at 4 o'clock every morning and saw that every team was fed, that the harness was well cared for, and that the wagons were not handled carelessly. At first the men laughed at the idea of a boy being in charge, but young Clough was so firm and energetic that he soon had their respect. His employer was impressed.

"If you can do all this," said the old man, "you can do more." The boy, who was now 17, was made inspector of the contractor's brick yard, where, in addition to all his other work, he supervised the making and counting of 50,000 bricks every day. But he managed to do this work, giving a hint of that unusual capacity which later won his success. He was frequently called upon to arbitrate trouble between the men. "He's got a long head," said the laborers.

One day the old contractor asked young Clough to estimate the cost of some masonry.

"But I don't know how," said the boy. The contractor whipped out his rule, made a few motions with it and mumbled some figures. "That's estimating," he said. It was the old way. The incident set the boy to thinking. "If I am to be a contractor and builder," he said, "I must know how to do this thing properly."

In those days, as now, Mr. D. H. Burnham, of Chicago, was one of the foremost architects of the country. Young Clough had heard of him. Chicago was not very far away. He decided to study under Mr. Burnham. He had saved a little money and the old contractor promised to take him back. Within a month he was a tracer in Mr. Burnham's office. This work got him in touch with building plans, and that, in turn, with the builders. Every night he took plans home with him and studied until late in the night. When he got back to Kansas his old employer put him in charge of a $100,000 opera house job at Pueblo. He was resourceful, energetic and the strenuous training of his boyhood was now of great service.

When Mr. Clough was 20 years old the World's Fair at Chicago was planned and all the leading contractors of the country hurried there to try to get the contracts for the big buildings. Young Clough's ideas had always been on large things. He now saw his chance. He persuaded his employer to go to Chicago and enter the competition.

"All right," said the old man; "but you have got to make all the estimates."

Clough made an estimate for the Agricultural Building, and was third. Undaunted, he made one for the Fisheries Building, and was second. In seven more competitions he entered his bids and was unsuccessful. For the tenth, Machinery Hall, he was awarded the contract. "It is much too low," said the old contractors, "and you can't get the lumber." But the 20-year-old boy said, "No."

The autumn had come and the price of lumber had gone up. He went up to the timber country, bought his timber in the rough, and had it shipped down at once before the heavy winter set in. Then he installed his own sawmill on the exposition grounds, saved his lumber all winter, and when spring came was able to rush up the building. It was the first of his great successes, for the building was erected before contract time, and the contract proved to be very profitable.

One day while Machinery Hall was being built a young man named Paul Starrett came over to inspect it. He represented Mr. Burnham, who was the supervising architect of the Exposition. Young Starrett was a Kansan, too, and had been successively stenographer, life insurance agent and architect. The young men became friends. Once Starrett said, "I wish we could get into business together some day." To-day they are the principal officers of the largest fireproof building construction firm in the world, whose offices are located in one of their architectural triumphs, the "Flatiron" Building, in New York; who have more than $35,000,000 worth of work now under way or contracted for, and who keep 10,000 men on their pay rolls. After his success at Chicago he got a position as superintendent of construction for the company of which he is now first vice-president. He erected the New Willard Hotel in Washington so quickly that even the officers of the company were surprised. He was made manager of the Philadelphia office. One day he got a long distance message from the office in New York stating that the three vice-presidents were ill and asking him to come over and do their work. He came and has been in New York ever since.

Mr. Clough has introduced a system which has revolutionized the building of "skyscrapers" and other huge construction enterprises. When he is engaged on a big job he calls a meeting every week of every one actively interested. For instance, if it is a great metropolitan hotel, such as he is now constructing, there gather the architect, the owner, or representative, the manager, representatives of all the contractors working on the building. Every man is cross-examined and every detail of the work is canvassed. Each contractor is called on to tell just where his work stands; if there are delays, he must explain. Stenographic minutes are kept of the meeting. In this way the chief builder keeps his finger on the pulse of construction. This system has made it possible to rush up more than one "skyscraper" in New York and elsewhere.

Mr. Clough has also helped to perfect the plan by which the large fireproof construction companies now undertake to finance as well as build huge buildings. If a man has $2,000,000 and wants to put it in a big office building that will cost $4,000,000, the company simply says to him: "We will do the rest and turn over your building to you in a year." Thus a young man

(Mr. Clough is now 35) has already achieved a remarkable success.

FROM MASON TO CONTRACTOR.

Frank E. Gilbreth, head of a large contracting firm, carries a scar an inch long on the thumb of his left hand. It is the brand of his early days in the ranks—the healed wound of the trowel which he used when he carried his union card as a mason in Boston.

He left school and the hope of an education at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology when he was 17 years of age, to earn his own way and to help support his widowed mother. He apprenticed himself to Whidden & Co., an old Boston firm of builders, and served his three years at every sort of masonry work, work beside which "carrying a hod was play." Then from 1888 to 1895 he worked for Whidden & Co., rising to be their general superintendent. He was known to the men with whom he worked as a "fellow you can't knock down hard enough to make him stay." Incidentally, as solutions of the problems he confronted in his work, he invented several devices for use in the erection of structural steel. The first steel frame building in Boston—the addition to the United States Hotel—was put up under his supervision.

In 1895, according to one of his friends, he went into business on a capital consisting mainly of his "nerve" and of his good name among the dealers in supplies. But he soon had contracts that made him an independent contractor. He became interested of necessity in concrete and its uses in building, and in the course of his work has invented a portable concrete mixer, a new concrete floor block, special types of concrete pillar construction, several new types of stationary concrete mixers, and a corrugated concrete pile. All of these inventions are in use today.

From being a building contractor he now, as one of his men expresses it, "takes anything that looks like a contract"—whether it be to build a complete factory town in Maine in six months or to dig a big rice canal in Louisiana in 100 days, both of which feats he has recently accomplished.

The qualities of ingenuity and decision that have accounted for his rise from the ranks of labor are illustrated in a story of a contract he undertook in Houghton, Mich., to construct some large buildings on short notice. He went out himself to start the job, intending to stay a week. He stayed four months. The laborers were Poles, and ready for trouble on any pretext. The superintendent of the job thought he saw a chance to get double pay, which he demanded under threat that he would go back to New York if he did not get it. "All right," said Mr. Gilbreth, "the next train East leaves at 5 o'clock, and don't you miss it." Then the Poles struck. He secured other laborers and went ahead. The Poles came down to the camp the next night to ruin the job. Mr. Gilbreth and every other responsible man in camp met them, each with a six-shooter in each hand and another one in reserve. That broke the strike.

In his New York office, every employe has a typewritten copy of the general rules that are to guide him in his particular work. Each copy of these rules is preceded by a preface, which says that the rules were made because at some time, at a coroner's inquest of what had gone wrong in the business, somebody on the job attended in the uncomfortable role of the corpse, and that each rule is intended to prevent later obsequies for the same cause. It is the fact that he has so often learned his business by rude knocks which taught but did not down him, that he has risen from the mason's union to be a large employer of men. —World's Work.

Building Materials in the San Francisco Fire.

A NEW YORK ENGINEER'S STUDY OF THE RUINS AND HIS COMMENTS.

As soon as it was possible to visit the burned district of San Francisco, Mr. A. L. A. Himmelwright, of the Roebling Construction Company, made a detailed examination of the fireproof buildings. He personally examined every building of fireproof construction within the burned district, first scrutinizing the exterior and then studying each story from top to bottom. Copious notes were made on the spot of any fact that was of special interest, and he used a convertible architect's level to plumb the walls and level the foundations.

The result of his work is seen in a cloth-bound book of 370 large pages, an advance copy of which is at hand.* While ostensibly only a report to the directors of his company, in reality it is a most valuable public record of the effects and lessons of the great disaster, from the standpoint of the builder, architect and engineer—the best side of any for accurate observation. The volume consists of photographic pictures of large dimensions, with descriptive remarks and comments underneath. The volume is extremely valuable to all who build and design fireproof structures.

In a preface Mr. Himmelwright says that the successful manner in which the tall, steel skeleton frame buildings withstood the effects of the earthquake and the fire is most reassuring, in fact wonderful, and proves conclusively that the best modern practice is directed along correct and efficacious lines. He adds:

"The interesting developments and the lessons of the disaster are set forth in detail in the report. As in the Baltimore fire, the contents of many of the fireproof buildings would have been preserved had the openings in the outside walls been properly protected. Immediately after the fire I urged the necessity of protecting the openings in the strongest possible terms. The National Board of Fire Underwriters also pointed out the importance of these safeguards and fixed the insurance rates accordingly. Yet, strange to say, in the new building code of the city of Baltimore the protection of the openings in fireproof buildings is not made mandatory!

"The utter disregard of this important detail in the design of fireproof buildings is further illustrated by the fact that 95 per cent. of these buildings that are now being erected all over the country have no fire-resisting appliances or protection for the openings. This means that their entire contents and finish are in constant jeopardy and liable to be totally destroyed if an adjoining building should be attacked by fire.

"The San Francisco fire has again clearly and unqualifiedly demonstrated the dire necessity of protecting the openings of the fireproof buildings. If fire-resisting barriers are not provided for the openings in these buildings in the future, the gross neglect will assume the proportions of a national disgrace, and every conflagration will but serve to reveal the incompetency and stupidity of the designers."

THE NON-FIREPROOF BUILDINGS.

Regarding this class of structures, Mr. Himmelwright says that wooden buildings completely disappeared, leaving nothing but fallen chimneys to mark the site. Buildings with brick or other masonry walls and wood beams fared little better. Nothing was left of the interior, and the exterior walls were generally overthrown while the structure was burning. Occasionally portions of the walls remain standing, but in a weak and tottering condition.

The Class B buildings developed even less fire resistance than those without metal frames. When these buildings were attacked by fire they were totally wrecked. The burning of the wood floors in all cases caused the failure of the metal frames which collapsed into a twisted, tangled, shapeless mass in the interior of the building. The metal frame being anchored to the walls usually pulled them down when it collapsed, or pushed them outward, when they fell on adjacent buildings, causing enormous damage and destruction on account of their great height.

The general failure of the walls of the non-fireproof buildings filled a large portion of the burned district with brick and mortar debris to an average depth of about 4 ft., completely obliterating street and property lines and obstructing the streets so that they were impassable except for pedestrians.

Occasionally buildings of superior workmanship and materials showed better fire resistance. A few non-fireproof buildings escaped destruction in the burned district by fortuitous circumstances. One other (the California Electrical Co.'s Building), built in accordance with the rules of the Massachusetts mutual fire insurance companies, was equipped with a sprinkler system and fire-resisting barriers at the openings, and thoroughly demonstrated the value and efficiency of these safeguards.

THE FIREPROOF BUILDINGS.

The only buildings in the burned district that retained any semblance of their original condition after the fire were, says Mr. Himmelwright, the fireproof buildings. In these, the walls, floors, roofs and partitions are of incombustible material, and the floor loads are supported by protected steel framing. These buildings stand out prominently amidst the ruins and destruction of all the other buildings. Their exteriors are seared and scarred, but all of them remain standing and intact, mute monuments to the superiority of modern methods of construction.

Fire was communicated to the interiors of the fireproof buildings, without exception, when neighboring combustible buildings were consumed, the flames entering through the unprotected window openings and spreading upward from story to story by the burning of the wood frames and sash.

The wood finish and all the combustible contents of these buildings were generally destroyed. Much of the incombustible finish and ornamentation was also irreparably damaged. All exposed metal work, such as elevator framing and fronts, stairway strings, piping, ornamental iron, mail chutes, etc., was permanently deflected and buckled out of line. Debris consisting principally of plaster and hollow tile blocks frequently covered all the floors to a depth of from two to eight inches, and in many cases the impact of the blocks and the abnormal loads wrecked the stairways. The material employed for the fireproof floors in these buildings was of two general classes: (1) the burnt clay products, such as hollow tile, brick, etc.; and (2) concrete, with either cinder or stone aggregates. The former materials were used in 15 buildings, and the latter in 61.

(The lessons of the fire and earthquake, as set down by Mr. Himmelwright, will be noticed more particularly next week.)

THE REALM OF BUILDING

Recent Examples of the Metal Worker's Art.

Architectural bronze and iron work is playing no inconsiderable part in the adornment of New York's public buildings, as well also of private residences. The many beautiful examples to be seen abroad illustrate how great was the skill of workmen in olden times in producing the most delicate details of forged iron work, and amid the multiplicity of wants them for another article, when we will treat this building as a whole.

We are indebted for the various illustrations shown above to the Hecla Iron Works, of Brooklyn, New York, who also executed the work referred to.

Building Operations.

The New Barnard Dormitory.

In January of 1805 the trustees of Barnard asked for a competition for a completed scheme for the college property, which extended from 116th to 120th sts, and included on the northern end the three present buildings of Barnard College. The designs of Mr. Charles A. Rich were accepted and were exhibited at the yearly exhibition of the Architectural League. They called for twelve new buildings, including Library, Auditorium, Chapel and five dormitory buildings, and the whole scheme facing a large open quadrangle called Milbank Quad. The dormitory system was grouped around the chapel and three of the buildings faced 116th st. The building at present under way is the central building of this group on 116th st. It is a building 120x42 ft., and consists of a high granite basement 17 ft. high on 116th st, containing a large kitchen which will be available for the whole dormitory scheme of five buildings. The ground floor is level with the Milbank Quadrangle to the north and entered under a cloistered arcade. On this floor is a large English oak dining-room for about one hundred people; parlors, reception rooms and offices occupy the remainder of the floor. This story being 20 ft. high for the dining room, gives several suites of rooms in a mezzanine floor. Above are five stories of studies and chambers, accommodating about 80 pupils. The general idea, therefore, of the dormitory system will be seen to be of five groups of about 80 each, and each building under the care of a matron. In the upper story is an isolated suite for hospital uses, with rooms for nurses, in this newer land we have at last found time to indulge our American taste in this respect. The difference between a beautiful line and one which has no beauty is sometimes indefinitely small, though readily perceived. To secure the best results in bronze and iron a knowledge of architectural detail must be combined with artistic foundry practice, and establishments which become great under one management may decline under another. Each generation has its own development.

Few other industries have grown with such rapidity as ornamental iron work, or better illustrate the history and progress of the country in refined paths. Iron foundries, brass foundries, forging shops, fitting shops, plating shops, modeling shops, buildings for drafting, photographing and various things—these are only some of the factors which must be brought together to make a complete plant. Types of iron and bronze work unknown to New York not many years ago, and which would have been impossible of production by any process of manufacture then available, are now the familiar possessions of the city. Appended are a few illustrations of some recently executed work in metal which shows how refined the tone of such work is becoming.

Plate 1 shows one of the new elevated stations in the Bronx section of New York's Rapid Transit Subway R. R. system. By careful examination of the details one can see the improvement over the old type of elevated station, the Rapid Transit Commission having secured the services of the well-known firm of architects, Messrs. Heins & La Farge, who also designed the Cathedral of St. John the Divine and many other noted edifices in various parts of the country. Although this is a comparatively plain and inexpensive construction, many little features of decoration have been added to beautify what usually has been a commonplace structure.

In plates 2 and 3 are shown details of the Slocum Monument, Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn Borough, New York City, Messrs. McKim, Mead & White, architects. Note the character of the ornamentation on the street lamp in plate 4.

The heads of Medusa, Mars, etc., shown in the bronze shields, plate 3, illustrate various war emblems of the protective deities in ancient mythology.

When the new Altman stores, at 5th av, 34th and 35th sts, are completed, New Yorkers will have an opportunity of seeing some of the finest exhibits of the metal craftsman's art. Through the courtesy of the Hecla Iron Works, of Brooklyn, we are enabled to show in advance a few of the elevator grille and railing panels, designed by Messrs. Trowbridge & Livingston, the architects of the building. For combinations of fine and heavy detail these grilles (shown in plate 5) are generally considered the best examples of such work ever produced by the Hecla Iron Works, or in this country for that matter; and when it is stated that all these castings are made in one piece, without a single joint or rivet, they appear to be marvels of perfection. This building when completed will contain many other examples of the metal worker's art, but we will leave

It is proposed to have the pupils continue to do the regular, Society Beaux Arts Architects' problems and in addition give a series of lectures on the theory of architecture and practical construction. A class in free hand drawing from casts will also be maintained. These lectures and drawing will be compulsory to certain classes of the students in order to force a more equal development among the pupils. Admission to the Atelier will be through an examination, and the number of pupils will be limited.

Coming Long Island Realty Convention.

THE SPEAKERS AND THEIR SUBJECTS.

The enthusiasm among Long Island real estate men in the cause of the convention to be held by them is increasing as the time of the meeting draws nearer. That the event will be well attended and excite general interest is evidenced by the number of letters sent to the Kings and Queens County Real Estate Exchange. There is hardly any doubt that from New York City down to Orient and Montauk points, the largest to the smallest operators will rub shoulders with each other and fraternize on this occasion. The agent from Yaphank will meet his professional brother from Broadway, of whom he has heard and read a great deal but never expected to make his acquaintance. The promoters of the convention say it will afford opportunities of forming acquaintanceships and of furthering mutual interests that Long Island realty men have been seeking for a long time.

Following is the list of speakers who have accepted and their subjects:

Wm. M. Griffith, vice-president of the Queens County Trust Co., "The Present and Future of Queens Borough."

Robert W. Haff, "Long Island as I See It."

Milton L'Ecluse, of S. Osgood Pell & Co., "Long Island Advantages for the Home Seeker and Manufacturer."

Mack J. Greacen, of the Atlantic, Gulf & Pacific Co., "Land Reclamation."

John M. Thompson, "The Real Estate Salesman."

Mr. Paris, of Paris & MacDougall, "Importance of Sewerage and Proper Sanitary Precautions."

T. J. McNeece, general manager Main Line Tunnel Realty Co., "The Long Island Awakening."

A. L. Langdon, "The Long Island Railroad Company."

Dean Alvord, Senator Reynolds and Frank Bailey have the matter of reading papers under consideration.

In some choice sections of Brooklyn it is noticed that while many houses are in the market they most generally are held at prices at which the class of people to which they appeal are unable any more to purchase. The rise from two to five thousand dollars per parcel has taken them beyond the point of ready sale. In practically all of the sections where activity was most has not helped the situation any, for prices are constantly being hardened without rhyme or reason. Families in good circumstances that really needed homes in the suburbs and were able to buy in Flatbush, Borough Park and Bensonhurst, have been pretty well supplied. Many houses bought from first hands have been resold, and as a rule the prices now being asked represent a third profit of good dimensions within five years, or else the high current cost of building, plus a larger profit than builders were accustomed to before the boom. At any rate, the feeling among enquirers that brokers note is (1) that the rapid transit promises have not been fulfilled, and (2) a fear of but slight possibility of gain to the buyer of improved property at present prices for a long period of time. Undoubtedly the attitude of some owners in the matter of property values is having, and will have, a telling effect on business. Just as the tenement market in the Bronx seems to be over supplied with seven-dollar a room houses, so the dwelling house market in the Brooklyn suburbs has been amply furnished with high-class dwellings. Homes for the family of average means is the great demand of the hour.

The Economical Ventilation of School Buildings.

The Board of Education of Chicago has not installed a steam heating plant in a modern school building for the past twenty years without provision being made to move the air for ventilating purposes by mechanical means. The cost of fuel for heating buildings provided with the old apparatus without mechanical ventilation, as compared with buildings of the same number of rooms equipped with modern heating and ventilating plants has been determined to be as follows by Mr. T. J. Waters, chief engineer of the board:

School.	When system was installed.	Cost of fuel consumption.	System.
Rogers	1880	$470	old
Henry M. Stanley....	1881	486	old
Kosciusko	1903	455	new
Headley	1903	514	new

The system installed in the two former buildings is what is technically termed the gravity method of air movement, there being no mechanical means employed, consequently the supply of air is irregular and intermittent, being caused in a great measure by the direction of the wind, or the opening of windows of class rooms. This type of apparatus is practically obsolete for the reasons just stated. In these buildings with inadequate ventilation the average operating expense was practically the same as in the new structure with ample supply of fresh air.

As a comparison of the cost of warming large school buildings, provided with direct-connected and indirect systems and mechanical ventilation, compared with modern apparatus, minus direct radiation, the average amount of fuel consumed for the total cubic feet of space heated was found to be as follows:

FIVE BUILDINGS PROVIDED WITH OLD APPARATUS.

Name of Bldg.	Total cu. ft. space heated.	Total lbs. coal per year.	Lbs. coal per cu. ft.

Average.. .677

The average class room in the Chicago public schools is 26.6 ft. wide, 33 ft. long, 13 ft. 3 ins. high and contains 11,587 cu. ft. Using the above class room as a basis, the requirements for buildings first above named, per class room equivalent, is 12,861 lbs. coal, or 6.43 tons, which at $2.60 per ton (average basis on the present contract prices for bituminous coal) amounts to $16.718.

Similar class rooms in the last named buildings require 7,844 lbs. of coal, or 3.92 tons per room, which at $2.60 per ton amounts to $10.192.

The above figures do not represent the actual coal consumption per room, but include the heating of all the air necessary for corridors, basement rooms, etc. For the purpose of comparing the efficiency and economy of the apparatus under consideration, the class room equivalent was used.

Building in Brooklyn has so far this year been quite satisfactory in the aggregate, and, while not equaling, it is expected that the record of the year will compare at its close very favorably with that of 1905. With a less speculative market, owners at last show a disposition to keep things moving. While prices are still stiffly held by builders, better terms are being offered. It is realized that the rich have been very fully supplied, and something must be done to interest the salaried man. Reports from New Jersey indicate a surprising number of Brooklyn City families settling on rural places within the commuting zone, where larger plots and less costly buildings are the attraction.

REAL ESTATE NOTES

September is here and the bell rings for the first electric train on the New York Central.

Suburban markets are quiet, but agents generally hope for a new invoice of buyers in the fall.

Enlargement of railroad facilities on the waterfront is making desirable factory sites scarce in the Bronx.

At 43 5th av, at the northeast corner of 11th st, an exclusive housekeeping apartment house has recently been finished.

Jere Johnson, Jr., Co., will auction 278 lots at Livingston, Staten Island, on Labor Day. The lots may be paid for on monthly installments.

Like other men, the Commissioners of Rapid Transit are entitled to a vacation, but a waiting public counts the days.

S. R.—There is good money to be made yet in 7th av.

The Clark estates are asking rentals of $5,000, $5,500 and $6,000 for their new American basement houses in the south side of 74th st, between Central Park West and Columbus av. Probably no residences have ever been offered for permanent rental in New York City comparing with these.

Austin Finegan, insurance and real estate broker, has removed from 238 5th av to 35 Nassau st, room 603.

J. W. Kellum has succeeded to the firm of Kellum Bros., real estate and insurance brokers, with offices at 2557 3d av, near 138th st. Mr. Kellum will continue the business at the same location.

Harpers's Weekly for the current week devotes its leading article to an editorial letter of greeting, addressed to William J. Bryan. If the number had contained no other article than this, the subscribers could have said that the privilege and satisfaction of reading this one was well worth the yearly subscription price.

New York City financial institutions have had little in common with the Real Estate Trust Co. of Philadelphia, and from all accounts real estate was the least of the trust company's interests. The Bank of New York is the local correspondent, but the transactions between them were not large, and the small balance to the favor of the Real Estate Trust Co. has been attached.

The bridge across the Harlem at 207th st, Manhattan, is likely to be opened before the year ends. The mason contractors are working on the approaches with full forces. A subway station is being finished at 207th st, one hundred yards from the bridge, and in due time, no doubt, passengers will be carried across the bridge by trolley to and from the pleasant Fordham section. With the exception of a very few operations, the Manhattan side is lying fallow this year, after the great lot sales of the two previous years.

The Westchester and the Portchester railroads are having a hard time to get built, and the hopes of the public for the first-class rapid transit which they separately promised, along the Sound shore and to White Plains, are drooping. It is both asserted and denied that the two companies have been financially connected. An Astor estate, of which James R. Roosevelt,

H. M. Ferguson and Douglas Robinson are trustees, declines an offer of $21,442.50 from the Westchester for a right-of-way through a 50-acre tract in the Bronx, and is holding out for $129,342. When the Board of Estimate resumes business in the fall the question of how much actual work the Westchester has done will be settled. Meanwhile an injunction has been issued against President Gotschall and others of the Portchester restraining them from selling Portchester stock.

The growth in transportation facilities, particularly in the construction of trolley lines, was this week specified as an important factor in the causes of Jersey City's growth by a well-known Jersey City real estate man. "Large sections have been opened up by the extension of trolley lines," he said. "The trolley companies are penetrating everywhere, and easy communication is afforded between all outlying sections of the city and the business district, as well as with New York. In the development of the central portion of the city the Commercial and Realty Co., which is largely composed of merchants of Jersey City, and is a sort of co-operative organization, has been one of the most important factors. The work of the Realty Co. of New Jersey, which has about sixty acres at Greenville, and is blasting out and opening streets, making that section readily accessible, is also another example of the kind of thing that is being done all over the neighborhood of Jersey City. This sort of enterprise, in connection with improvements in transportation facilities, which accompany it, is bearing fruit to a remarkable degree in the improvement of Jersey City real estate." All over the northern part of the State, in Paterson, Passaic, Elizabeth, Plainfield, New Brunswick, the Oranges, and the many smaller towns, the same conditions hold true. The progress of the metropolis is everywhere bringing a golden harvest to the Jersey real estate owner.

Nutley, N. J., a suburb of aristocratic pretensions, is not hoping for a boom but expecting one. Values there have remained in their original state until now, but the earth-quivers of a real estate revival are being felt by the tree-embowered cottagers. The Erie runs through the Nutleys (as listlessly as the Erie runs everywhere), but the electric express road that will connect with the Hudson River tunnel is already under construction across the meadows, and the rest is but a matter of time. Then forever good-by to the long runs to the ferry and the long waits of the Erie. The groves and piazzas of Nutley will be only half an hour from Broadway. The traveler admires everything in Nutley except her rapacious mosquitoes, and the indifference of her citizens to the charms of the Passaic. Their meekness in not insisting upon its purification is astonishing. Our energetic Bronxmen would never let up on a public outrage like that. Imagine the silvery Bronx River being so misused and they not protesting mightily. The Passaic should be like the English Thames.

CONVEYANCES

Whenever the letters Q. C., C. a G. and B. & S. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it. The street or avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

4th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

5th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in Section 2, Block 482, Lot 10.

6th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

7th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only, and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

DON'T GUESS

A Real Estate Information Service is as necessary in a Real Estate Broker's office as the ticker in the office of a Stock Broker.

A personally maintained Service is inefficient and inordinately Expensive compared with a Big Central Co-operative Service. The Biggest Service is the best, because the advantages of Co-operation are centered there on the biggest Scale.

The RECORD & GUIDE to-day supplies thousands of Brokers and others with information—has been doing so for a generation. Its own records cover the history of ALL transactions of every kind in New York for forty years, and in addition to these it has a COMPLETE PLANT that includes the previous period.

Obviously, the RECORD & GUIDE possesses FULL information covering ALL particulars concerning real estate. Other systems are necessarily either partial or mere second-hand abstracts of the records which the RECORD & GUIDE has been gathering and publishing in the course of its forty years' history.

If you need Real Estate Information don't guess. Don't use personal Systems. Don't use partial Systems. Don't use temporary Systems that must be fragmentary and Second-hand. Don't use Systems built for the use of a Few, and that offer you scarcely any of the advantages of co-operation.

USE THE RECORD & GUIDE BUREAU OF REAL ESTATE INFORMATION. The oldest, the largest, the most permanent, the best equipped—a Service that can serve you TO-DAY and TO-MORROW on a progressive plan.

The most desirable class of tenants are those who can afford to pay a good rent. They usually wont unless the store has all the modern improvements. If it hasn't Luxfer Prisms it is not up-to-date. Make your property more valuable by increasing the amount of real daylight into it. Let us explain matters to you either by mail or personally.

WALL STREET again has a fit of nerves this week, now over the high rates for money, and the keen recollection of the duration of like rates last November and December. As money just a year ago was easy, ranging on call from three to four per cent., and prices of active securities much lower than they are now, it is small wonder that speculators are scared and the rank and file full of dire forebodings. Had not those whose hearts are inclined to the bear side been whipped into insolvency, we would have had a week of selling "short," and a resultant unwieldy bear commitment. As it is, the selling seems to be entirely coming from frightened bulls, urged by their commission brokers, many of whom are actually afraid that some day money may be unobtainable. It is fair to say that 99 per cent. of all operations in Wall Street are made with borrowed money. The man who pays for his stocks outright is an investor. It will be seen, therefore, how serious a matter it is in this mammoth game when the cost of the article upon which it is entirely based becomes prohibitory. Thus if a man's operation is without loss in the price on the day it is made, he becomes a heavy loser in the carry over, and he has to overcome three penalties before a profit is in sight, assuming his venture to be lucky.

FIRST, one quarter per cent. commission to his brokers, then $4 tax to the State, should his purchase have been one hundred full shares of Reading or Pennsylvania; and, finally, a rate of interest equal, let us say, to five times the legal rate. In the case of Reading, to carry the thought a step farther, the amount of capital required for the operation would be five times as great as two years ago, with carrying charges ten times as great. It is obvious that interest on the capital is ten times greater than two years ago, leaving out the severe penalties above enumerated. The game, always a hard one, is at the moment well-nigh impossible. Yet the unusual fluctuations of the past two months make it the game—irresistible as a trading proposition—as it has been a common occurrence for standard stocks to fluctuate three to five points a day. For the first time the value of raw cotton exported in the fiscal year just ended exceeded the $400,000,000 mark. The exports of breadstuffs of all kinds aggregated but $186,000,000; those of provisions $211,000,000, and of iron and steel manufactures but $161,000,000. These matters are referred to in these columns because some weeks ago the Record and Guide enlarged upon the importance this year of the immense growing cotton crop, and then said that it was but a few years ago when the entire value of our cotton crop was but $300,000,000. Now we have exported in one year cotton to the value of over $400,000,000, and have more to spare for export than ever before. It therefore looks this year as though we would not only keep and add to our circulation all the gold we produce ourselves, but in our great crops, particularly that of cotton, we possessed the key of the bank vaults of Europe. Had we an elastic currency system we would undoubtedly have a great stock speculation. As it is, leaving out the recent advances in half a dozen standard stocks, still probably selling below their value, the three hundred or more issues dealt in on the Stock Exchange have not yet moved in response to the admittedly unparalleled trade conditions. It may be truthfully said that there is no general speculation in Wall Street at the moment. Commission houses are determined that they will not be caught loaded with stocks during the rest of the year, and in this excess of caution is the safety of the market.

THE total number of conveyances in Manhattan from January 1 to September 1 fully equalled the number recorded in the same length of time for 1905, notwithstanding that the business of this summer has been considered uncommonly dull; and in Manhattan and the Bronx together the total number of conveyances were for these eight months just ended only two per cent. less than in the previous year. In Manhattan the total assessed value of the property conveyed was but five million dollars under the total for eight months in 1905, out of total dealings amounting in assessed value to over five hundred million dollars. But in the amount of money loaned, as indicated by mortgages recorded, there has been a great falling off from last year. For the eight months of 1906 the total amount in Manhattan was but $246,000,000, as against $412,000,000 in the corresponding period of 1905; in the Bronx only $48,000,000 so far this year, to compare with about $70,000,000 in the year 1905. For the two boroughs this is a total shrinkage in loans of 39 per cent., while in Brooklyn the diminished business has amounted to 30 per cent., or $48,000,000 less. In number of projected buildings, Manhattan is only four hundred short of the phenomenal record for the similar portion of 1905, but the estimated expenditure is $3,000,000 more. Bronx is nearly nine million short on total estimated expenditure for new buildings, but very nearly even in number of houses planned. Alteration work this year has been unprecedented in amount in the history of Manhattan and the Bronx, exceeding by 33 per cent. last year's alterations up to this time. In fact, taking the alteration work with the new buildings, it is very significant of the times that the estimated appropriations for construction work from January 1 to September 1 equals almost exactly the appropriation in the same period last year, namely, $126,000,000. In Brooklyn also the alteration work has amounted fully to as much as it did last year up to the corresponding date. Queens is, of course, making a new record in all departments of real estate and building. In brief, then, the City thus far into 1906 has really only the money situation to cry out against, as in trading and building quite as much enterprise and spirit have been shown in the aggregate as was exemplified last year, with only a slightly appeased demand for property; but the money stringency is of a nature to be considered seriously, the effects of which will be more and more apparent as time accumulates them, and will bear most heavily upon those whose trading and operating capital has not multiplied during the period of plenty sufficiently to enable them to continue transactions when money commands not only higher rates of interest but a larger margin of equity and security. Regrettable as it is on some accounts that an unprecedented run of business should be so checked by interference from without, and through no failure of inward strength, the situation may still hold its hidden benefits, to be revealed in another burst of great activity subsequently. It is better that business be held up while still strong and eager than that it should run itself out and stop because of exhaustion.

M. R. JAMES J. HILL has given many illustrations of the fact that, alone among the great financiers of the country, he is capable of taking really statesmanlike and far-seeing views of the economic development of the United States. In his speech on Labor Day he showed perhaps more clearly than on any other occasion his clearer understanding of some of the dangers of the current industrial development of the United States. He drew attention to the probability that in a little over forty years the American Union would contain not far from 200,000,000 inhabitants, and that if the industrial needs of these 200,000,000 people were proportionate to those of the existing population, the United States would be on the way to exhausting its enormous resources in coal and iron. Considering the facts to which he drew attention, it is manifest that, some time within the next hundred years, both of these important minerals will have become so scarce and costly that the whole industrial economy of the country will have to be revolutionized in order to meet the situation; and one can hardly tell at the present time how deep a blow such a revolution would strike at the sources of American industrial prosperity. There is always a chance, of course, that the progress of science and invention will help to economize the use of these limited natural resources; but with so serious a danger staring the country in the face it would be sheer improvidence to depend upon a possibility of this kind,

We believe that Mr. Hill's own remedy, which looks in the direction of less wasteful methods of agricultural production, under the leadership of the national Agricultural Department, would be of great assistance; but it is improbable that this remedy alone would be sufficient. The question is, however, of such grave importance that it should not be passed over with a few speeches and newspaper articles, but should be made the subject of the most careful and responsible inquiry. At the coming session of Congress, a commission, consisting of members of both Houses of Congress and of economic experts, should be appointed, whose duty it should be to examine all the facts bearing on the question, and all the remedies which are proposed. On the basis of such a report, Congress would have the material on the table that could be made the basis of some ameliorating legislation. The newspapers should not allow the question to be dropped. They should continue to agitate it, until some action is taken by the national government.

The State Ownership of Railroads.

IT is rare indeed that a prominent Presidential candidate is willing to take a risk as serious as that which William J. Bryan took in his first speech after his return from Europe; and his courage in taking that risk is all the more extraordinary, considering the present political situation. The Democrats have been beaten during the last three Presidential campaigns, and in two of these campaigns Mr. Bryan himself was the party candidate. To all appearances they have a better chance of securing the prize at the next election than they have had at any time during the last decade, and Mr. Bryan himself has a better chance of securing the nomination than any other one man. By his attitude during and after the Parker fiasco, he distinctly strengthened his hold on the public confidence, and his availability was increased by the evidence afforded on every side that public opinion looks more favorably than it did upon a radical and thorough-going treatment of serious national problems. It appeared as if he could readily make himself the inevitable candidate by placing himself on a platform which went a little further than President Roosevelt has gone, and which, at the same time, placed a good deal of emphasis on the older Democratic policy of tariff reform. But instead of outlining a safe policy of this kind, Mr. Bryan came out flatly in favor of the government ownership of interstate railroads, and thereby risked both his own standing with his party and in some measure the standing of his party in reference to public opinion. Whether we approve of Mr. Bryan's policy or not, his courage and his evident sincerity are certainly worthy of all admiration, and should increase the respect which one cannot help feeling for his character. He has unquestionably made himself thereby a much less available Presidential candidate, because his party is not prepared to follow him in advocating such a radical remedy, and he must have realized that such would be the case at the time when he made his speech.

Moreover, it is evident that, from Mr. Bryan's own point of view, he is right. If it be true, as he says, that industrial organization on a large scale is an economic evil and a national danger; if it be true that the remedy for the problem of the so-called trusts is their complete suppression and re-establishment of the small manufacturer, then most assuredly the nationalization of the railroads of the country would be the most effective possible means both for the purpose of increasing competition, and for that of preventing the accumulation of great wealth in few hands. The great majority of politicians are content, like Mr. Parker, to denounce the trusts, and then declare that they can be easily eradicated by the enforcement of existing laws. But Mr. Bryan shows his good sense by refusing to endorse such a superficial and irresponsible view of the question. He knows that the prominence of huge corporations in the industrial organization of the country is due to the co-operation of the railroads more than to any other single cause. The railroads have enormously helped to make the trusts, and the results of their existing policy is to sustain them. The big railroad naturally favors the big corporation, because it is easier to do business with one big shipper than with a lot of little ones. The most recent illustration of the way the big corporation is aided by the railroads may be found in the pending lease of the iron mines owned by the Great Northern R. R. to the United States Steel Corporation. The railroad company naturally favored the big corporation, because one large company could afford to give it better terms than a number of small ones; and when this lease is completed, the position of the steel company will be enormously strengthened. This is only one illustration among a thousand. There can be no doubt that the government ownership of the railroads would really accomplish the objects which the Democrats profess to be seeking, and there can be no doubt also that any other means which have been proposed for accomplishing the same object would prove to be wholly insufficient. Mr. Bryan consequently is not only morally courageous in advocating such a radical step, but he is also, from his own point of view and that of his party, economically sound; and the fact that his party has been afraid to stand behind him on the issue is only one more illustration that the traditions of that party disqualify it from coming out in favor of any constructive national policy.

Of course a man's attitude towards Mr. Bryan's policy will necessarily be wholly different, provided he believes that the partial substitution of organized and co-operative industrial methods for the old competitive ones has been, on the whole, a good thing; and probably the conservative public opinion of the country is coming around more and more to this conviction. Very few economists who have studied the question without prejudice share Mr. Bryan's desire to rehabilitate the small manufacturer and to suppress the big one. There is undoubtedly a strong feeling that the big financiers have had it too much their own way, and that they should be subjected to some more stringent and effective national regulation than any which the state governments have up to the present time been capable of imposing; but this feeling does not go as far as Mr. Bryan supposes in disliking the big corporation and the big financial and industrial leader as such. It is no wonder, consequently, that Mr. Bryan has lost standing with the country by his radical proposal, because it confirms the belief that, with all his good qualities, he is not a man whose judgment can be trusted. In the present instance, the actual legislation with which he proposes to emasculate the trusts would be well calculated to effect that object, but any serious attempt to realize it would strike a serious blow at the industrial prosperity of the country. To throw away the results of the industrial reorganization of the past twenty-five years would be distinctly taking a backward step. That organization works, on the whole, in favor of economy, and it must be treated by the national government, not for the purpose of suppressing it, but for the purpose of removing its abuses. The character of these abuses is another question, and they may well call for more radical legislation than any which has yet been proposed. They may even call, in the end, for the government ownership, if not the government operation, of the railroads; but they hardly do so at present. It looks as if not even Mr. Bryan's influence could make his proposal, under existing conditions, a serious issue.

Tenement Bureau Criticised.

BROOKLYN SOCIETY OF ARCHITECTS CONSIDERS RULINGS UNJUST AND ASKS FOR AMENDMENT OF THE LAW.

At a special meeting of the Brooklyn Society of Architects action was taken condemning and protesting against the action of the Tenement House Department in holding up some one hundred and fifty sets of plans (representing nearly 1,000 houses) on the alleged ground that the plans are drawn in violation of the law in showing interior bedrooms without the required amount of light and ventilation. Some time in July the Brooklyn Bureau of the Tenement House Department ruled against the so-called "railroad flat," which the architects affirm is absolutely within the law. Architects say that the effect of the radical interpretation of the law by the Tenement House Department in refusing permits for buildings, on the ground that the plans contain alcove or L-shaped rooms, is already noticeable on the building market, and that the building of the medium priced house is at a standstill. Instancing a 3-story 6-family house on a lot 25x100, where the law requires a court 4 ft. wide and 12½ ft. long, and the building to cover an area not exceeding 65 per cent. of the lot to be occupied, architects challenge anyone to plan the house symmetrically and logically and be acceptable to the tenant public without incorporating an L-shape room which has not been accepted since July 28 by the Tenement House Department. It is further said that ever since the Tenement House Department was established this L-shape room has been acceptable, and not only within the law, but approved by the Tenement House Department as shown in plate No. 140 of the Tenement House Report.

At the request of the Record and Guide, Mr. Louis Berger, president of the Brooklyn Society of Architects, has made a statement of the position of the society on the question. In Mr. Berger's opinion it is a mistake not to have the Building and Tenement Departments under one common head, as the present arrangement causes delays, complications, friction and loss to all parties concerned. Mr. Berger further says:

STATEMENT FROM PRESIDENT BERGER.

The local architects in this borough were really forced to organize to protect themselves as well as their clients on account of the everlasting changes in rules and regulations made by the department affecting the building of tenement houses. The reasons that the conditions are revolting are as follows:

1. The Brooklyn department is a side and minor issue of the Manhattan office.

2. Unfortunately, the head of the Brooklyn office, Mr. McKeown, is not a practical man in the construction and building of tenements, and his chief of staff, Mr. Sweeney, happens to be very arbitrary, squeamish and radical, and he is really the man that has caused most of the existing conditions.

3. There are no official plan examiners in the Brooklyn department. Light and ventilation inspectors, of which there are insufficient numbers, are doing plan examiners' duties on inspectors' pay, and consequently it takes from four to eight weeks to have plans passed by the department.

4. Some inspectors have from five hundred to seven hundred houses to inspect, and for the entire County of Queens there is but one light and ventilation inspector, and Queens County is larger than Kings County.

5. The Tenement House Law, according to Section 1, is mandatory, and consequently must be construed and inter-ground that Sec. 41 says in part: "The ceiling must be made safe by fireproof materials." This section not going into details as to the hows or wherefores, our intention was to cover the ceiling with plaster boards one-half inch thick, which are passed by the department as fireproof in other cases, but this was denied us.

The case was referred to Commissioner Butler, of New York, and in the meantime the owner brought the case up in the "Builders' Association," and Mr. Reynolds was one of a committee of three to see Mr. McKeown. The said committee argued the matter and tried to show that the department did not have a leg to stand on in case of a law suit, but all efforts were futile, after a wait of three months. Mr. Butler communicated with Mr. McKeown and referred him to Sec. 41, not even getting a definite answer, and finally the said permit was issued, and I will say here that in old buildings the same were always issued. Now, if it is necessary to refer to New York on a clear case, you can readily see what may happen to a so-called "off" case which may be referred to the Corporation Counsel for an opinion. In the meantime how about preted according to the mandate. Now, let us see what occurs on account of the above conditions.

6. The department is a secret organization and not a public office.

I will now refer you to Sec. 2 of the Building Code, which says: "This ordinance is hereby declared remedial, and is to be construed liberally to secure the beneficial interests and purposes thereof." You can readily see that this clause was inserted in the Code because it was a known fact that the law, no matter how well drafted, could not possibly cover all cases. It is just so with the Tenement House Law, Sec. 93, which says: "All courts, areas and yards are to be drained and sewer connected." But where there is no sewer you cannot connect them, and the Tenement House Department immediately makes rules for you which, as stated above, it has not the power to do. The department in place of giving the owner the benefit of the doubt, always takes the arrogant and offensive view, and consequently discourages the owner, several of whom have sworn that they will not build another tenement as long as they live. Surely such a condition should not exist, and capital should be encouraged instead of discouraged for obvious reasons.

Whenever a matter is referred to the head of the Brooklyn department in which the law is insufficient or vague, it is referred to the Manhattan department. When it goes over there it may be months before you can get a decision, as in the case of Mr. M. Bonnländer. He applied for a permit to install a bakery in a new building on premises No. 5 Wenderdonk av, 25 ft. south of Himrod st, and the department wanted him to provide steel beams and brick arches for the ceiling construction, to do which almost half of the house would have to be removed. Nevertheless the said requirement was not exacted in the case of an old house. He protested on the the owners and tenant public? Where do they stand? I answer, between the devil and the deep sea.

In regard to reason No. 2, I will say canvass the architects and builders of the city; you will hear stronger comment than I have made. I am likewise informed that Mr. Sweeney did not pass the civil service examination for the position he now holds.

In regard to reason No. 3. On account of being short-handed in the plan examiners' department, let me show you what happens to the owners. A case in point is Mr. Jaeger's, as stated in Sunday's Eagle. Now bear in mind that the plans are in the department three to six weeks before being examined, and then they are sent to the building and plumbing department for another week. It takes the architect from one to two weeks to prepare plans, making a total of six to nine weeks. Now, is it fair to the public to hold up capital and labor for this length of time, when you take into consideration the too numerous other troubles than an owner has to contend with, such as labor unions, strikes and other conditions which are too numerous to mention? Taking all plans held up as a whole, thousands and thousands of dollars are indefinitely tied up, whereas the same could be remedied by the addition of two or three more plan examiners at very small cost to the city. I will leave it to the public to judge if or not such conditions should be allowed to prevail.

In re reason No. 4. The light and ventilation inspectors have so many buildings to look after that in some cases three to four weeks elapse before they get around to where they started. What is the consequence? Take the case of Mr. Max Cohen, four 4-sty houses on premises east side Knickerbocker av, 25 ft. south of Hart st. The law requires cement deafening in stair halls. It developed that this particular deafening did not come up to the standard, and he received a violation notice to that effect. Mr. Cohen had the deafening taken out and replaced same in a proper manner. The inspector came around some time after the owner had his floors laid, partitions lathed and plastered and wanted him to remove all the flooring so that he could inspect all the deafening. What do you think of such a condition of affairs, and in some instances the police were drawn in on very minor cases, and all the workmen knocked off whether they had a direct bearing on the particular violation or not, doing much damage to the owners?

In re No. 5. The Tenement House Law being mandatory, they are not supposed to make any rulings, and as a matter of fact the law does not allow discretionary powers. Nevertheless, the changes are so frequent and so varied that it is impossible to receive a permit without the plans being changed by the department. The changes are so numerous that the builders and mechanics cannot keep pace. We inform a builder that a law is so and so to-day, only to find out the day following that such and such a view has been taken of it, and, mind you, not an intimation by word or letter that the said change has occurred. The fraternity would be willing to co-operate with the department if only sufficient notice were given of contemplated changes, so that they could be incorporated into the plans, or that we could inform our clients as to rulings that will go into effect; but the department is arrogant and dictatorial, and hence we as well as the builders are constantly in trouble.

In re No. 6. Mr. Loerch, a builder, went to the Tenement House Department to inquire about violations that existed on premises east side Knickerbocker av, northeast corner of Putnam av, and he was informed that he would have to show a letter from the owner before they would inform him. In conclusion, I will say the above are only cases in point. Taking them all in all, hours upon hours are needlessly wasted. I can honestly say the houses under the new ruling are vastly inferior to those under the old ruling.

MR. MULLIN'S VIEWS.

Mr. C. Whiteley Mullin, a leading member of the Brooklyn Society of Architects, who has publicly protested against the rulings of the Brooklyn Bureau of the Tenement House Department, says that he was recently informed at the bureau that plans of his own which were passed by the department about two months ago, and which are now being carried into execution, would, if duplicated, meet the same fate now coming to so many others. These plans, he considers, conform to all legal requirements, and such was also the opinion of the department examiner, or they would, of course, have been rejected. In the front of each apartment is a parlor, the rear portion of which, for about eight feet of its length, is narrowed about one foot, owing to the widening of the staircase hall. Notwithstanding the fact that the plan shows more than the required 10 per cent. of floor area in clear window space, Mr. Mullin was told that the plan would now be condemned on the ground of an evident intention to evade the law.

Speaking to a representative of the Record and Guide, Mr. Mullin said further: "I venture to ascertain that in fully one-half of the homes in Brooklyn—whether single-family, 2-family or tenement houses—the front room is used as a combination parlor and bedroom, and if this practice can be proved to be productive of tuberculosis, I would suggest that the needed reform begin with a class who can better afford it than dwellers in tenements.

"The Tenement House Bureau defines a room such as that just described as an alcove room; the Society of Architects prefer to call it (and rightly so, I think) an irregularly shaped room. Sec. 71 of the Act says: 'Alcove rooms must conform to all the requirements of other rooms.' The dispute appears to have arisen through an arbitrary change of opinion or interpretation on the part of the bureau as to what constitutes an alcove room. Hitherto it has been a room with an alcove in it, now and henceforth it is to be a room which in itself is an alcove. This, I am informed by counsel, is not a correct interpretation of the term as employed in the Act, as it certainly is not the true meaning architecturally.

"The fact that the time required to get a set of plans through the Tenement House Department varies from one to two months, proves one of two things, viz.: Either the law is practically unworkable or the machinery for its execution is fatally defective. I have before me a form of application for an ordinary tenement house permit. It fills eight closely printed folios and contains no less than 77 questions to be answered (some of them of the most mystifying tautological, ambiguous and problematical character), this as against three pages and 43 questions required in applying for an ordinary building permit. There is surely no cause for surprise if the bureau officials themselves frequently get 'mixed,' as they unquestionably do.

"I emphatically affirm that if the law as it at present exists, or at least its practical application, cannot be very materially simplified, this particular modus vivendi ought to be strenuously discouraged. There is, indeed, every logical and moral reason why population should spread laterally rather than vertically, especially when, as is the case with us, there is a practically unlimited area available, with transit facilities correspondingly great. In fact, no man earning enough to support a family in these days need be without a comfortable holding of his own without another over his head."

Progress in Waterfront Improvements.

Six years ago the Board of Docks authorized the construction of a section of the bulkhead wall between Bloomfield and West 23d sts. Large property interests in this vicinity have since been acquired and extensive work done towards the construction of the wall, until now the wall proper has been practically completed for the whole length of the section. Fire walls have been built across the platforms between 15th and 16th and between 17th and 18th sts. The old ferry house at 23d st is being removed and preparations made for the sewer between 22d and 23d sts.

Work is also progressing on the Cedar st section, and likewise on the Rector st section. In the former case the plans include the removal of the old structures and piers. The building of the wall proper has been completed. Piers (New) 20 and 21, North River, have been extended out to the pierhead line for the Erie Railroad. New piers are being erected at the foot of 13th st and near the foot of 14th st. An extension to the pier at the foot of West 32d st, North River, has been built by the Pennsylvania, New York and Long Island Railroad Co., under a permit from the Dock Department. In connection with the city work in the West 42d street section a new ferry terminal will be built for the West Shore Division of the New York Central lines. The Day Line boats now land at the new pier at the foot of West 41st st. A new pier, to be known as Pier 83, has recently been finished at the foot of West 43d st.

Between West 56th and West 57th sts, North River, the Department of Docks is preparing for and constructing a large storehouse, with offices, etc., for the use of the department. In the Claremont section, work on the wall is advancing, and the pier at the foot of West 133d st has been extended. Between Spuyten Duyvil and Mount Saint Vincent the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Co. is widening the present railroad embankment between these two points, and riprap is being deposited along the line of the widening under permit from the Commissioner of Docks.

A contract awarded with the Sicilian Asphalt Paving Co. has been in progress. Under this contract the work of laying the concrete foundation and asphalt pavement on the marginal street along the North River has been done. Repairs have also been made where necessary to the asphalt pavement already laid by the Uvalde Asphalt Paving Co. under its various bonds to maintain the pavement in good condition. A contract has also been awarded for repairing the asphalt pavement on the North and East Rivers, to be known as Contract No. 993, and work has been begun thereunder.

EAST RIVER SIDE.

Piers 10 and 11, East River, have recently been finished, and work is well advanced on Pier 9. The construction of the wall along the Maiden Lane section is now in hand. Earth filling is being placed in rear of that portion of the wall built. Temporary approaches have been built to the piers in this section, and the section embraces Piers 12, 13, 14 and 15. Pier (new) 12 was built in 1901; Piers (new) 14 and 15 were built in 1905, and Pier (new) 13 was built during the first quarter of 1906.

The Fulton section of the bulkhead wall was authorized by the Board of Docks on April 26, 1901. This resolution was amended by action of the Commissioner of Docks on Dec. 7, 1904. During the past summer no work has been done on the bulkhead wall proper. Filling, however, has been placed in rear of that portion of the wall built. This section embraces Piers (new) 16, 17 and 18.

Work of like sort is going on in various places on the Manhattan side of the East River, and on the Harlem. The New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Co. is constructing a new roadbed in connection with the Marble Hill cut-off at this locality, under a permit from the Commissioner of Docks. This work was begun July 20, 1904, and is still in progress.

The Pioneer Real Estate Co. has just finished a ferry slip, crib bulkhead, transfer bridge, freight house and freight terminal south of 149th st for the New York Central Railroad. It provides a very convenient freight station close to the principal business center of the East Bronx. It is also the intention of the New York Central to build a passenger station where the main line crosses 149th st, but structural plans have not yet been thought out. From the last quarterly report of the Department of Docks and Ferries the following other notes of improvement are taken:

149th st, Port Morris—The New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Co. is building a power station, pier slip and concrete bulkhead at this locality under permit from the Commissioner of Docks. Work was begun June 1, 1904, and is in progress.

150th st, East River, Oak Point—The Rock Plaster Co., of New York and New Jersey, is building a crib bulkhead at this locality and filling in behind.

Putnam av Railroad Bridge to High Bridge—A pile and timber trestle is being built, same to be filled with riprap, by the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Co. Work was commenced July 25, 1904, and is in progress.

Between Cabot and Tiffany sts, East River—The Oak Point Land & Dock Co. is building four piers at this locality.

Between Dupont and Tiffany sts, East River—The Oak Point Land & Dock Co. is erecting bulkheads and filling in at this locality. This work was begun May 3, 1906, and is in progress.

The West Coast.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—The building situation in San Francisco showed a great advantage during the last month. The building of temporary structures for housing the various firms of the city has about been concluded. In fact, the Board of Public Works has issued orders that no more temporary work shall be started. This means that from now on all building will be done in conformity with the new building law and that no more wooden structures shall be put within the fire limits. Already about one hundred permanent buildings are under way and probably fifteen or twenty are completed. Most of these are 2, 3 and 4-sty brick buildings of what is known as Class C construction. There are, however, several steel frame buildings under way, two or three of which have reached the third or fourth floors.

During the latter part of July permits for reinforced concrete buildings to the value of over two hundred thousand dollars were issued and several of these structures are now under way. Contrary to numerous predictions the price of cement has not been materially advanced, and the prospect is for an abundant supply during the remainder of the year. Lumber and labor have advanced probably 20 per cent. over former prices, but otherwise the material situation is not bad.

A serious freight blockade is preventing prompt deliveries by the railroad companies, but this is being remedied rapidly and as yet there has been no actual shortage in building materials except in plate glass and in some lines of builders hardware.

The opinion is gaining ground in San Francisco that the matter of importing foreign cement may have been somewhat overdone. At the present time shipments are on the waxy from Europe, Japan and Australia, and at the present time the supply already here is almost sufficient for immediate needs. Naturally the demands of the building trades will increase rapidly from now on, however, and it is probable that all arrivals will be disposed of at fair prices later on, although some shipments may be obliged to wait until next spring before being sold. In this connection the question of suitable storage is a vital one. In this climate cement will deteriorate rapidly during the rainy season unless properly housed, and warehouse room is very scarce. At the present time a number of new warehouse buildings are under way, but these are, as a rule, already spoken for. Some cement men, however, hold that under the present circumstances the usual winter cessation in building will not occur, and that the demand for cement for foundation work for mortar and for reinforced concrete structures will continue to increase right through the winter.

Some estimates place the amount of foreign cement which is due to arrive here before January 1 at approximately 800,000 barrels, and builders figure that with this immense amount in prospect there is no danger of high prices interfering with cement and concrete construction work. Others assert that the above figures should be divided by two to be accurate.

Strangely enough, the large California cement plants are for the time being cutting very little figure in the situation. This is due largely to the fact that the California mills are all tied up with large contracts for the Government, and other large consumers will not be able to figure on much work until their new plants, which are now under way, begin operations.

Notwithstanding the reduced population of the city, there has been a tremendous increase in the number of mechanics employed in the building trades. Careful estimates show that the number of men now employed in the building lines has increased from 50 to 100 per cent. since January 1. Nevertheless, there is a shortage in nearly all lines, and wages are higher than was ever known before in this city.

—The Berger Mfg. Co., 210 East 23d st, report good business in their various lines. In addition to metal ceilings, metal furniture, metal lath, metal furring and studding, they now furnish and install the Berger reinforced concrete vault lights and accessories. This is a new department in this city, although in the West they have been handled for ten years. This company also has the contract to furnish and install Berger reinforced concrete vault lights in the Tichenor-Grand Building, 61st st and Broadway; the contract to furnish steel desks and shelving for the New York Edison Company; the contract to furnish and install metal ceilings in the following: 80,000 ft. for new building 15-19 East 4th st; public school, Hasbrouck Heights, N. J.; Second National Bank, Hoboken, N. J.; three schools, Newburgh, N. Y.; Governor's Palace, Monterey, Mexico; Government Building, Gomez Palacio, Mexico; Order of Eagles Hall, at Nome, Alaska.

The Portsmouth Tablet.

A BRONZE tablet affixed in the wall of the now historic building in the Kittery Navy Yard, at Portsmouth, N. H., where the Russian and Japanese envoys held their joint sittings, and where the treaty of Portsmouth was signed, was unveiled Sept. 5. A few words about the tablet:

It was ordered some months ago, through the Navy Department, from Jno. Williams, Inc., the bronze founders of New York City, who cast the bronze doors of the Congressional Library and many other notable works of bronze. The tablet measures 5 ft. 6 ins. by 3 ft. 7 ins. The inscription is as follows:

"In this building, at the invitation of Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States, was held the peace conference between the envoys of Russia and Japan, and September 5, 1905, at 3.47 P. M., was signed the Treaty of Portsmouth, which ended the war between the two empires."

The design of the border consists mainly of the seals of the three countries. These are about three inches in diameter, and the Japanese and Russian seals alternate. In the centre of the border, at the top and at the bottom, appears the seal of the United States. A United States shield is used at each of the four corners. The design was made under the direction of Rear Admiral W. W. Mead, U. S. N., commandant of the Portsmouth Navy Yard, by Pay Inspector John A. Mudd, U. S. N. Every phase of the work in the Jno. Williams, Inc., shops has been done under the eye of Rear Admiral Mead.

The tablet was cast in United States standard bronze. This is 90 per cent. copper, 7 per cent. tin and 3 per cent. zinc. Only the finest grade of copper from the Lake Superior mines was used. To this alloy, however, with the permission of the Navy Department, was added, when the metal was fused, and just before the pouring of the mould a collection of pieces of bronze and copper of Japanese and Russian origin, together with pieces of metal from historic sources in the United States. Thus, in the tablet commemorating this historic event mingled the metals from the three countries. Among the interesting pieces were old Japanese coins presented by representatives of the Japanese Government at Washington; Russian coins presented by His Excellency Baron Rosen; copper bars from the Imperial copper mine in Japan, and a handful of rare copper and silver American coins. Among the souvenir pieces were: Copper from U. S. Battleship "Maine," sunk in Havana Harbor; bronze from the statue of the Goddess of Liberty, surmounting the U. S. Capitol Building; a piece of the corner stone box of the U. S. House of Representatives Office Building; a piece of the bronze staircase U. S. Capitol; a piece of the bronze doors of U. S. House of Representatives; a piece of the statue of General Sherman, erected in the city of Washington, and a portion of the bronze clips from the first searchlight used on the U. S. Capitol, at the One Hundredth Anniversary of the establishment of the Seat of Government in the District of Columbia, Dec. 12, 1900.

The workmanship in the tablet is of the highest order. The seals constituting the border were made from authentic copies of the seals of the three countries. They are beautifully carved and the bronze is brought to a high degree of finish by hand-chasing. The inscription is in a perfect Roman type of letter, and the letters are raised from the background, affording a fine contrast, so that the tablet inscription can be read from a considerable distance. The color is the dark brown termed "statuary bronze," this color growing richer in tone by age.

The Jno. Williams, Inc., foundry has also cast for presentation to President Roosevelt, the Emperor of Japan and the Emperor of Russia, a section of the border of the tablet. Each section contains three of the medallions, showing the seals of Japan, Russia and the United States. They are cast of the same alloy as entered into the tablet. On the reverse of the casting is an inscription outlining a description of the tablet itself. This inscription is as follows: "These seals are replicas of those used in the bronze memorial tablet marking the building in which at the invitation of Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States, was held the Peace Conference between the Envoys of Russia and Japan, resulting in the Treaty of Portsmouth, signed Sept. 5, 1905, at 3.47 P. M., ending the war between the two Empires. Designed under the direction of W. W. Mead, Rear Admiral U. S. N., by Pay Inspector John A. Mudd, U. S. N. Tablet modeled and cast by Jno. Williams, Inc., New York."

—Sufficient excavation has been made for the Pennsylvania Railroad Terminal Station, at 7th av and 32d st, to permit the construction of the steel work to be started. This division of the steel work is being built by the Trenton plant of the American Bridge Co., and from there delivered to the site as needed. A contract for the erection of all the structural steel in the substructure has been awarded to the Jobson-Hooker Co., of No. 1170 Broadway, who is to complete the work in two years' time. The Jobson-Hooker Co. was the contractor for the Pennsylvania, New York & Long Island R. R. Co. in the erection of the four steel caissons for the shafts of the East River tunnels.

THE REALM OF BUILDING

Hedden Construction Co. Will Build the Broadway-Cortlandt.

BROADWAY.—The general contract for the erection of the new Broadway-Cortlandt Building, which has been under negotiation for some months, was awarded this week to the V. J. Hedden & Sons Co., No. 1 Madison av. This contract, which includes the construction and installation of every portion of the building, involves the expenditure of $3,400,000. Work upon the new structure is to be begun immediately, as soon as plans have been finally approved by the Bureau of Buildings, and it is expected that the contract for supplying the steel work will be awarded within the near future. The exact dimensions which the structure will cover, it is believed, will equal in floor space any building in the downtown district, as it will cover an area of 27,000 sq. ft., a little less than the Broad-Exchange Building. Along Cortlandt st it will front 209.1¼ ft., 105.6½ ft. on Church st, with a Broadway outlet of 37.6½ ft. In height it will contain 26 stories in Cortlandt st, with a tower roof rising to 33 stories. There will be twenty-three electric elevators running first from the first to the ninth story, then the ninth to seventeenth and seventeenth to the twenty-fifth story. The floors will be of the Roebbling system, one part Portland cement, two and one-half parts sand, and six parts steam cinders. The exterior will be in Indiana limestone from the first to the fifth story, and the rest in light brick, the total height being 360.6 ft. from the curb level. Robert E. Dowling is president of "the Broadway-Cortlandt Company," which is the owner; A. L. Dean, vice-president; Edward F. Clark, secretary. Francis H. Kimball, 71 Broadway, is the architect, and Wm. C. Tucker, 156 5th av, sanitary engineer.

Work on Lackawanna Ferry House Progressing.

Work on the new ferry house for the Lackawanna Railroad, which is being erected at the foot of Hudson pl, Hoboken, is progressing slowly but surely. A force of only 60 men is at work. The artificial land will run out as far as the new inside dock line, where the new sea wall of stone and concrete is being built. After the sea wall is marked off pilings are driven and heavy timbers, about 12 inches square and 16 to 18 ft. in length are laid across the tops of the pilings. These are crossed and recrossed, making as firm a foundation as possible. On top of this goes the crushed stone and concrete. The wall at the bottom is 6 ft. thick and at the top 4 ft. Between the new sea wall the pilings are being cut off and blocks of heavy timbers, sand, stone and other material are being used to make the artificial land and force the river back. The ferry house is to be built entirely of steel and concrete.

First Contract Let on the Singer Building.

BROADWAY.—The first contract so far let for the Singer Building improvements, at the northwest corner of Broadway and Liberty st, which, it is estimated, will cost over $2,000,000, is that for the foundations, to the Foundation Company, No. 32 Nassau st. It is now expected that the steel contract will be awarded without further delay. As previously reported, the Singer tower will rise to a height of 40 stories, 60x60 ft. in size, and a 14-sty annex, 52.10x100.2 ft., will be erected at Nos 91-93 Liberty st. No other contracts have been awarded. Ernest Flagg, 35 Wall st, is the architect. Another large building project immediately coming on is the new City Investment Company Building, at Broadway and Cortlandt st. The steel contract for this is expected to be let in a few days.

A Reinforced Concrete Contract.

The Citizens' Bank of Alameda, Cal., one of the most progressive banks on the Pacific Coast, has awarded the contract for the construction of a large reinforced concrete bank building to Frank B. Gilbreth, of No. 34 West 26th st, New York, upon whose advice it was decided to build the entire structure of reinforced concrete, making it earthquake-proof as well as fire-proof. The work will be done on the basis of cost-plus-a-fixed-sum, the only basis on which Mr. Gilbreth solicits and executes work.

Apartments, Flats and Tenements.

84TH ST.—Parnass & Dellon, No. 1787 Lexington av, will erect at Nos. 233-237 East 84th st, two 6-sty flat buildings, 34x89.2 ft., to cost $66,000. Geo. Fred Pelham, No. 503 5th av, is architect.

Future of Bay Ridge.

H. W. Toothe, of 633 East 28th st, Flatbush, has become prominently identified with and is a great believer in Bay Ridge property. Speaking of the future of the section, he said:

"Bay Ridge is pre-eminently the only remaining high-class residential neighborhood left in Brooklyn, where the busy Manhattan brain worker or skilled mechanic may find rest and comfort after his daily toil. From the busiest portion of the South Side to Coney Island a brilliant future is certain. This is no mere dream or prophecy, but a growing fact, well under way and being pushed with all the tremendous energy that brains and unlimited capital can accomplish. The physical conditions are all in its favor. Most of the land is high, at some points rising over 125 ft. and breaking away in pleasing undulations, while the sea view from many points is simply superb.

"Sanitary arrangements and sewage systems are as perfect as can be devised by modern engineering skill. The increase in realty values is evidenced by the fact that thousands of acres, farm lands a few years ago, are now city lots and being rapidly built up. Subways, additional surface and elevated roads will furnish adequate transportation to all other sections of the city. A tunnel will connect it with Staten Island, which will be tributary to it in commerce.

"The water front will be lined with great docks and warehouses, where the largest ships coming to this port will concentrate its commerce. The area from the shore line to 4th av will be one of the great manufacturing centres. It will be a terminal point for a great railroad trunk line. Third and 5th avs will be important arteries of trade. All east of 4th av will be a densely populated section. And Bay Ridge will continue to develop as the home section. And what are the railroads doing? We answer by pointing to the gigantic enterprises of the Pennsylvania comprised by the 'establishment of a car float from Greenville; N. J., to 65th st; the construction of a great freight tunnel at the foot of 65th st; 3,000 freight cars to be handled daily; freight delivery yards to be created at convenient points; the receipt of freight direct and direct shipments, which will benefit the manufacturing centre, which has already begun to spring up in South Brooklyn; direct passenger connections with the trunk lines of the mainland."

The Index to Volume LXXVII. of the Record and Guide, covering the period between January 1 to June 30, 1906, is now ready for delivery. Price $1. This Index in its enlarged form is now recognized as indispensable to every one engaged or interested in real estate and building operations. —South Brooklyn is now talking up a real estate exchange. The local newspaper, The News, says that South Brooklyn can support a real estate exchange, and it would seem that the earnest workers for the betterment of the southern section of the borough should get together and give the scheme their best consideration. "The idea is not a strange one to the realty operators of the borough," adds The News, "at least a sectional real estate exchange is not a new thing. East New York has its local exchange, and a handsome business is yearly transacted by its members by reason of its existence."

REAL ESTATE NOTES

C. F. W. Johanning, of 2096 8th av, has returned from his vacation in the White Mountains, and will be ready for business Monday, September 10.

D. H. Carroll, who has been visiting Los Angeles, San Francisco and other points on the Pacific slope, is now at Hot Springs, Ark., and will be at his desk Oct. 1 for renewed activities.

The real estate business of the late John L. Martin will be continued at his former office, 314 Madison av, by Varrick Day Martin and Horace M. Gulick. The firm name will be the Estate of John L. Martin.

Borough President Cromwell, of Richmond, estimates the borough needs for 1907 at $997,299, or $486,810 more than last year. The increased estimate is for the St. George terminal and for street and sewer improvements.

Thomas J. Gillen and James H. Stryker, formerly of the offices of Charles E. Duross, have formed a partnership under the firm name of Gillen & Stryker, real estate brokers and agents, and have opened offices at 28 East 20th st.

The Fidelity Development Co., Flatiron Building, has concluded that this is an auspicious time for putting the Morris Park race track lands on the market, and will offer the lots in the northeastern section of the park to the highest bidders at an early day. The lands are very desirable, are logically in order for development, and the population having grown beyond them, they are most conveniently situated, as the term is understood in this era.

In his quarterly report Commissioner of Charities Hebbard, when reporting on the commitment of 1,761 children to public institutions, remarks: "One of the reasons for this is the slow, but sure, raising of the rents to an almost prohibitive figure, which compels many families, who have heretofore been able to struggle along, to break up their homes and seek to place their children in institutions. The lax immigration laws have also had much to do with filling the institutions with children. It is a daily occurrence to receive applications from people who have been in the country but a few months to ask to be relieved of the care of their children." Commissioner Hebbard is now absent from his office on his annual vacation.

An immense number of brick flats and two-family brick houses have been run up in Bay Ridge this summer, and with the extensive building in South Brooklyn proper, it is inconceivable how they all will find tenants this year. Private dwelling construction in Bay Ridge has been very slight this year, but at Bay Ridge Park (in the vicinity of Fort Hamilton av and Bay Ridge av) a residential colony with architectural features of distinction is growing up. Dyker Heights Park has not seen much building this year, and there are a number of vacancies. It is understood that W. L. Johnston is about to transfer his building activities from the Park to Bay Ridge. South of the Heights a new section is growing up in which there is considerable activity.

Ernestus Gulick Co. has leased through Gerald R. Brown offices on the third floor of the Flatiron Building, known as the J. W. Alexander and James H. Hyde suites of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, for a period of 6½ years at a gross rental of about $65,000. This lease includes the furniture and fittings, specially built to order. "Garden City Estates" also has the privilege of the only outside sign on the Flatiron Building, which will be lighted by electricity at night. "Garden City Estates" is the company organized by Major Gulick to develop a large portion of Garden City. The directors are George J. Smith, Ernestus Gulick, William H. English, Gage E. Tarbell, William G. Gilmore, LeRoy W. Baldwin, Harry J. Luce, Timothy L. Woodruff and George W. Fairchild.

Brooklyn is not pinning her faith to subway railroads to the same degree as formerly. Subways are a long time building. The Behr mono-rail high-speed rapid transit system was unanimously endorsed at a public meeting in the Cortelyou Club House. H. A. Meyer was chairman and Dr. Kenneth F. Junor, secretary. The following committee was appointed to work with the chairman and secretary to promote the mono-rail system: Geo. H. Ray, president of the Thirty-second Ward Taxpayers' Association; Geo. W. Wilson, president of the Flatbush Taxpayers' Association; H. S. Worthley, president of the Flatbush Board of Trade; F. L. Odell, president of the Thirty-second Ward Citizens' Association; J. P. Kohler, president of the West Side Taxpayers' Association; T. J. King, James

Graham, the Rev. W. E. Fatherley, Ernst Stratmann, A. Dittmas, J. T. Austin, C. F. Moadinger and Louis Malthaner.

At the present time New Jersey represents a most interesting aspect of suburban New York. It offers attractions to conservative investors because there has been no boom, but there has been for years a steady growth. The great improvement in transit facilities by means of tunnels and bridges over the Hudson now being undertaken presage the greatest awakening in real estate activity that has ever been seen by the present generation. All have seen this illustrated by the great boom in Long Island, the Bronx and Westchester County the past two years, but the wave has not passed over the Hudson yet. Still, in a very short time, it is absolutely certain to come. Many acreage properties have already advanced from $500 to $5,000 per acre in some districts. The time seems opportune to purchase real estate. New Jersey offers at the present moment especially attractive opportunities for the man wishing to buy cheap and sell dear.

Speaking of the money difficulties that are pinching real estate operations, the head of a well-known firm of bankers remarked this week: "It is fortunate that there will be forthcoming at an early day the conclusions of the committee appointed by the New York Chamber of Commerce to prepare a report on the currency question. The task is difficult, involving as it does compromises and adjustments, but from the character of the committee it is safe to assume that the ground will have been gone over thoroughly and that the recommendations made will be wise and temperate. That changes in present conditions are imperatively needed is conceded by all. It lies with this competent committee to point out the best available method. If, in addition to its recommendations, the committee will show clearly and strongly the injury inflicted on the people everywhere by our anomalous currency system, and if between now and the meeting of Congress the committee's suggestions are given the widest publicity and receive the support of our great industrial and commercial associations, particularly in the West and in the South, it is reasonable to expect that the serious attention of both the executive and legislative branches of the Government can be secured. Neither can afford to ignore indefinitely great economic questions and devote its attention to matters in which moral and even hygienic issues are chiefly involved. It is high time that currency had its turn at a 'square deal.' The problem is in the public mind; it touches in one way or another the vital interests of every citizen; the hour is opportune; and all classes and forces should unite in a supreme effort to remove at once from the pathway of our future development and prosperity this wholly unnecessary stumbling block of unsound, unscientific currency."

—"After all, the really important part of a man's life is the time he devotes to leisure," says an English philosopher. "Just as a nation goes to war, presumably in order that it may have peace, so a man labors to rest rather than rests to labor. What he does with himself in the hours of ease is at least as important to himself as the trade he earns his living by."

List 8953. One Hundred and Seventy-second street, between Broadway and St. Nicholas avenue.

CONVEYANCES

Whenever the letters Q. C., C. a G. and B. & S. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it. The street or avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

4th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

5th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in Section 2, Block 482, Lot 10.

6th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

7th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only, and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction.

ONE PER CENT. GAINED—A three or four-story building may be built which will net you about seven per cent. on your investment. If you put in the Luxfer System of Sidewalk Lights you can make the basement as well lit with daylight as are the upper floors, and can in consequence get one per cent. more, perhaps, out of the investment. Anyway it will pay you to send for our man who will explain it to you. 'Phone 3276 Gramercy.

THERE is little difference in the conditions in Wall Street from what they were last week. There are reasons, however, why the market should advance. Evidences multiply that the big interests are ranged on the bull side, and as nine stocks out of ten are still much below prices reached two to six years ago with inferior conditions, the bulls are in a strong position, aided as they are by the comparatively "bare shelves" of the commission houses. As to the money situation, it is well in hand, and for the time being American finances have disconcerted English bankers by securing all the gold available. It is stated that the Bank of France will release from ten to fifteen millions of dollars to the United States in order to preserve the equilibrium of the national money markets. This fact, no doubt, is a contributing cause to the higher prices of stocks prevailing during the week. As gold will now come here in as large quantities as needed, there is nothing in the immediate outlook in the money market, commercial or financial world that should give cause for anxiety. It is not surprising, under these circumstances, that stocks have been bought so freely. Many issues, as has been before stated in these columns, are selling below their value, and have gone into the hands of European investors, which will naturally result in a still further increasing supply of gold from abroad. Every real estate and building interest is indebted to Wall Street for its vigorous action with reference to the importation of gold, and consequent solution of a money difficulty which, if of long continuance, would have borne heavily on real estate and building operations. It savors of monotony to remark on our stupendous crops and the unprecedented activity and prosperity in the iron and steel trade and business generally, but they are facts which cannot be controverted. "The steel scarcity is acute," says the Iron Age. No doubt the demand for steel cars and building construction have had much to do with this extraordinary condition of things. Copper stocks, too, are strong and higher. Two features of the stock market this week deserve mention. One is that Missouri Pacific and the entire Gould group of securities attracted more attention; the other the formal announcement that the stockholders of the Western Union Telegraph Co. would be asked next month to ratify the action of the directors in deciding to issue 4 per cent. redeemable gold bonds to the amount of $25,000,000 for new construction and the purchase of new property.

THE real estate market has not gained very much during the past week, either in the amount or the variety of the trading. Sales have been few in number, and restricted in character. The great majority of the brokers are busy with the fall renting, which, according to all accounts, is proceeding prosperously in the older parts of the city. South of Fifty-ninth Street and on the West Side rents have been hardening rather than easing up, and it is evident that the owners of apartment houses in those parts of the city will have no reason to complain. Conditions are, however, by no means so favorable on Washington Heights. In that section builders are offering many inducements in order to attract tenants, and are not even then getting them in very large numbers. It is, of course, always difficult to persuade people to move from an old and familiar part of the city into a new and rough neighborhood, and in the present instance the difficulty is increased because of two conditions. In the first place, for the first time since 1902 the building of new tenements and flats has run ahead of the demand, and will result necessarily in a larger proportion of vacancies. In the second place, a mistake has been made in building on Washington Heights too many small three and four-room apartments. The larger flats rent with comparatively little trouble, but there are by no means a sufficient number of possible tenants to fill these smaller flats. The consequence is, that some of the builders are getting into trouble. A large number of liens have been filed during the past two weeks, chiefly against houses situated on Washington Heights, and during the winter there will doubtless be gathered a fine crop of foreclosures. New building has, however, diminished to such an extent that a better condition is certain to be created during the coming year.

THE decision of the referee in the case of the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad Company against Josephine J. S. Wendell is likely to have important consequences. The defendant owned and refused to sell a piece of property in Dey Street which was needed by the railroad company for its new terminal, and when a suit to condemn the property was brought, it was fought on the ground that the company proposed to use the property not only for a railroad station but also for an office building. If the defendant had been successful in resisting condemnation on this plea, it would have meant that railroad companies who condemned land for terminal purposes in Manhattan could use the land so condemned solely as a station; and inasmuch as the price of real estate is so very high on Manhattan Island, the inability of the company to obtain a direct income from their purchases would, of course, decidedly limit the number and extent of such improvements. It is, however, enormously to the advantage of the whole city that the railroads should be encouraged to erect terminals in Manhattan, and it is, consequently, a fortunate thing that the law does not countenance a private property owner who refuses to part with a piece of real estate which is necessary for a purpose of such great public importance.

FORECLOSURE of a mortgage on a New York city church and the sale of church property to satisfy a mortgage is an occurrence so rare that the publication of articles as to "the passing of St. Leo's Church" (St. Leo's is a Catholic church in Twenty-eighth Street between Fifth and Madison Avenues) was deemed by well-informed persons to be premature. It was, and the circumstances which attend the matter throw a considerable sidelight on real estate values—and church ethics—in this neighborhood. In 1882 a loan of $55,000 was made by the Bowery Savings Bank on the church and church property of St. Leo's, the estimated value of both of which was $150,000. The loan was at 4½ per cent., but since 1882 the principal was reduced by the payment of $13,250 on account. At the present time the city's appraisal of the value of the land on which the church stands is $142,000. The church itself, which has been improved, enlarged and beautified in many ways, is estimated at $150,000, and the entire value of the security is put at $300,000—double what it was at the time that the loan, since reduced, was made. The enhancement of the value of the site of St. Leo's is due to obvious conditions. The whole neighborhood has become one of hotels and apartment houses. To the side of the rectory is the Hotel Seville; to the south of the church are the "St. George," the "Broztell," and the palatial new building going up on the site of the old Brunswick, Twenty-sixth Street and Fifth Avenue. Nearby are the "Wolcott," the Holland House, the "Breslin," and the new "Hoffman." St. Leo's has long been known among the Catholic churches of New York as the one having the most "fashionable" congregation, largely drawn from the residents of hotels and apartment houses in the vicinity, and the new conditions of residence have added to, it appears rather than diminished the number of those upon whom the church depends for financial support. Apart from this, Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth streets (the church is in Twenty-eighth Street and the rectory on Twenty-ninth) have become more important thoroughfares each year. The Third and Sixth Avenue "L" roads have stations at Twenty-eighth Street; there is a Subway station at Twenty-eighth Street and Fourth Avenue a few hundred feet from St. Leo's. There is a cross-town car service, with transfers on both, through Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth Streets, and the completion of the Pennsylvania terminal has had already a favorable effect on all property within the zone of its future influence, as the focus of transportation into New York on the West Side. So soon as the chief parishioners of St. Leo's learned of the beginning of a suit in foreclosure, they started to pay off the mortgage and not to place a loan with another institution, a very fair indication of the adequacy of the property and their confidence in its future as a church. The officials of the bank which made the loan on St. Leo's have furnished no explanation of the reasons which led them to foreclose, but under the facts of the case it would seem that this reason must be a different one than fear of the loss of the principal of the loan reduced by $13,250 since it was made, while the collateral security has doubled in value.

Madison Avenue.

MADISON AVENUE is the only important avenue in Manhattan whose future remains apparently doubtful. South of Eightieth Street it is still for the most part improved with private residences, and it is the only thoroughfare situated in the central part of the city which remains to a large extent in this condition. There are, of course, certain parts of Lexington Avenue in which the old brownstone private houses also remain in possession of the field, but it is obvious that, in the course of time, Lexington Avenue is destined to become a business thoroughfare, because the price of property on that avenue is not high enough to offer any resistance to its eventual availability for business purposes. Madison Avenue, on the other hand, is in a very different condition. For some blocks at least the value of its real estate for residential purposes is so high that it cannot offer very much of a temptation to business men, and throughout the whole of its length it is changing very slowly—so slowly that people are prone to overlook the irresistible tendencies which will in the end transform it much more rapidly into a different kind of an avenue. It may, indeed, be laid down as a safe general rule that no avenue in Manhattan, except that part of Fifth Ave. facing the Park, is destined to remain in the hands of the owners of private residences. The peculiar layout of the city demands that the avenues shall be given over either to business or to tenements and apartment houses. Private residences, so far as they are to continue to exist at all, will be confined to the side streets.

The part of Madison Avenue south of Thirty-fourth Street has come in for a very small share of the radical transformation which has since 1901 overtaken the central district of Manhattan. The number of important new buildings which have been erected on that part of the thoroughfare during the past five years can be counted on the fingers of one hand. They include one large apartment house, one apartment hotel, and a woman's club-house. There has been practically no buying of property for business purposes, except in the immediate vicinity of Thirty-fourth Street, and there have been no large business buildings erected. It is none the less true, however, that within the next ten years this part of Madison Avenue will become almost exclusively devoted to wholesale and retail trade. There remains comparatively little room at the present time for warehouses south of Twenty-third Street, and the wholesale trade is beginning to push up into the district north of Madison Avenue. So far the new loft buildings have been erected chiefly between Broadway and Seventh Avenue; but it is manifest that they must eventually include a much larger area. South of Twenty-third Street warehouses have been built as far east as Fourth Avenue, and there is no reason to suppose that they will not also be built as far east as Fourth Avenue north of Twenty-third Street. In that event, of course, the larger eleven-story warehouses will go up on Madison Avenue, which is very available for the purpose because of its proximity to the retail stores farther west. No other future is possible for the whole section between Twenty-sixth and Thirty-fourth Streets, Fourth and Fifth Avenues. It is so central, and so convenient to Fifth Avenue, that it cannot remain permanently devoted to private residences, particularly when these private residences are largely used as boarding houses.

The section between Thirty-fourth and Forty-second streets is, however, subject to very different conditions. This is the district in which property commands such high prices for residential purposes that the business man cannot afford to compete for it. A few stores will creep in from Thirty-fourth Street north and from Forty-second Street south, but for the most part this part of Madison Avenue will not be radically changed for a great many years. It may well remain in substantially its present condition for another generation. Just as the district immediately north of Washington Square has been allowed to remain a little oasis of pleasant private houses in a business section, so that district bounded by Fifth and Lexington Avenues, Thirty-fourth and Forty-second Streets, is not likely to succumb to business invasion for many years to come.

The owners of the houses on Murray Hill are naturally much attached to the neighborhood in which they live, and they are willing and able to protect it against any encroachment which would make it any less desirable than it is for domestic purposes.

North of Forty-second Street still another set of conditions prevail. Throughout this whole neighborhood as far north as Eightieth Street, the majority of the buildings on Madison Avenue are old brownstone houses; but on this part of the avenue they are being rapidly replaced. The buildings which are replacing them are not, however, being devoted to business; they are apartment houses of the highest class. During the past year four improvements of this kind have either been announced or undertaken, and it is evident that this process of substituting large fireproof apartment houses for the old dwellings will continue as fast as conditions will permit. It is an interesting fact that property owners on Madison Avenue have not shared in the great rise in the value of private residential property on the East Side. Of course, the price of this property has increased rather than decreased, but it has not increased in anything like the same proportion as has the property on the side streets. The reason is, of course, that the noisy trolley cars on Madison Avenue make a location on the side streets much more desirable than on Madison Avenue, and it naturally follows that this part of the avenue has become relatively more desirable for apartments than it used to be. The demand for locations in that part of the city is very lively, and, inasmuch as part of this demand must necessarily be satisfied by apartment houses, it is evident that little by little new buildings of this description will be substituted for the old private houses. And as the result of this substitution it is inevitable that this part of Madison Avenue will have many more stores on it than it has at present. The greater density of population will demand a larger amount and a greater variety of retail service, particularly in view of the fact that the blocks between Lexington and Fifth avenues south of Eightieth Street are in many neighborhoods meagrely provided with really good stores. Thus Madison Avenue is destined to become during the next ten years an avenue of warehouses up to Thirty-fourth Street. From Thirty-fourth Street to Forty-second Street it will remain very much in its present condition, and north of Forty-second Street it will gradually be occupied chiefly by apartment houses, many of them with stores on the ground floor.

Pests.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

We have been annoyed to a great extent by brokers, or clerks of some of the largest real estate firms in the city, answering advertisements that we place in the daily papers, leading us to believe from their correspondence that they are principals having money to invest, etc.

It is a strong rule of this office to personally call on parties interested in our advertisements, and in so doing we have discovered the above-mentioned circumstances.

No doubt many other brokers could make a similar complaint, and we would like to know the best way for the good of all brokers concerned to have these illegitimate transactions abolished. We, of course, understand, there is no legal redress, but think that some action could be taken to at least make these offenders transact future business in a legitimate manner.

Yours very truly,

ECKERSON & DAVIS.

200 Broadway.

For many contemptible offences there is no redress. We must learn to class them among the mosquito bites of life. Nature teaches us best how to deal with pests.

As a general rule it is not worth while to notice them, though occasionally it is some satisfaction to swat one. We avoid their society when we can, and endure them when we must, but a man should be so big in his manhood that the stings of human parasites are no more to him than flea bites.

It is true, however, that pests have been multiplying in this particular community of late. For several weeks there has been a plague of real fleas. Naturalists say they are prone to afflict us every seven years, weather permitting.

The weather has a great deal to do with the conduct of insects. Sometimes the moral atmosphere of a place becomes contaminated. It smells of corruption. Insects then multiply and bite viciously.

In normal times the fear of the law and the power of public opinion restrain instincts of rascality. But when men in high places make a mockery of square dealing, when irreverence is rampant and respect for common law and morals is disappearing—then it is time to expect a plague of human pests.

In this particular case the implication is that when a real estate broker spends money to advertise a desirable property for sale there are others in the trade mean enough to try to steal his business from him. It is a fact that advertisements of property for sale often draw answers from persons who have no intention of buying for themselves, but some of these will frankly proclaim themselves brokers. Sometimes, too, real estate firms when they advertise premises do not give their own names, so that one cannot tell whom he is addressing. A great deal of money is wasted in blind advertisements. We cannot go so far as to say that a broker may not solicit business by answering the public advertisements of owners who have parcels on the market, though it is clearly unprofessional to steal business from a fellow broker.

But wrongs in this category are committed mostly through misunderstanding and without malice prepence. Anonymous advertisements cannot justly shake their finger at anonymous answers. One must take his chances at a bal masque. But the line of professional honor is somewhere visible in every case, and your true business man in every age, even in this, will respect it. Most real estate advertisements are too vague, a good many are too nice to be true, and a whole lot are not read by the right people.

Plan for Relief at the Brooklyn Bridge.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

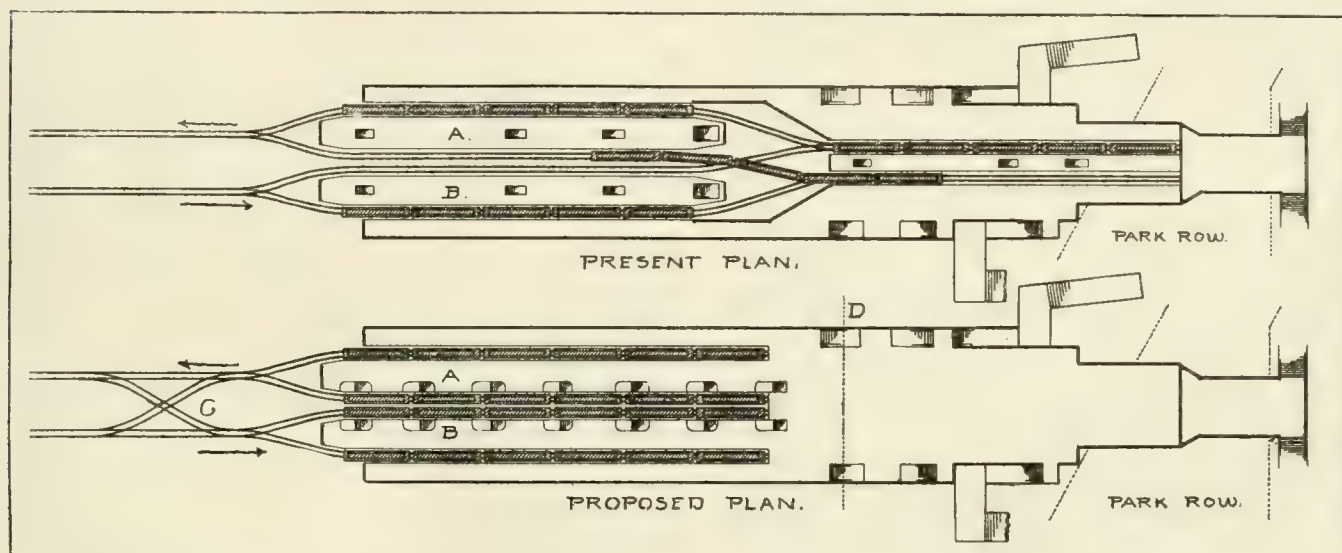

Permit me to submit to the Record and Guide and its readers a plan for quick and temporary relief from the barbarous conditions existing at the bridge. This plan will also admit being embodied in permanent relief.

The diagram shows both the present and the proposed plans. On the present plan the whole outgoing crowd, in the evening rush hours, is handled from platform "A," containing about coming and the outgoing passengers will be separated; and if platform "A" is assigned to the trains coming through Fulton st and platform "B" to trains coming through Myrtle av, the outgoing passengers will always enter their trains from the same platforms.

That is all there is to this plan for quick relief, and for permanent relief a plan as here proposed (with the exception of having a platform between the two inner tracks) can be installed on the ground floor. That would give four pockets and five platforms on the ground floor which could be used for terminal passengers only; then, if the upper floor was connected with the proposed elevated loop or the Interborough service, or both, all that need be done would be to uncover the tracks and switches at the Park row end of the building and connect them with the Interborough, and remove the stairs from platforms "A" and "B," and the upper floor would then be a way and transfer station, and stair-climbing would be entirely eliminated. The crowd would then be divided in about halves, as the through passengers would never meet or interfere with the terminal passengers.

When this is done the terminal so far as handling the passengers is concerned, will be perfect. There is absolutely nothing new about this plan; it is an ordinary, everyday railroad terminal and way station such as is used everywhere else, only it is made to fit and meet the present conditions. Instead of what is there now, where the accommodations are limited by the switching capacity of the terminal, there will be a system wherein the accommodations are limited only by the capacity of the bridge itself, as the terminal would be able to accommodate twice as many trains and passengers as could cross the bridge. There will then be a great deal of room to 5,000 sq. ft.; the passengers stand on this platform, waiting for a train which can stop for only about half a minute, and they must scramble and fight their way into the cars as best they can, and that is really the main trouble. When the trains reach Brooklyn the passengers have to change cars and again climb stairs, wait and scramble and fight their way into a Brooklyn train. The incoming passengers use platform "B," which also contains about 5,000 sq. ft. Those two platforms contain all the space that is available for passengers, and the balance of the building is wasted space, and there is a great deal of it.

To install the proposed plan, very few changes need be made from the present plan. The changes necessary are:

- (1) To put in a crossing at "C."
- (2) To put the stairways of platforms "A" and "B."
- (3) To extend the stairways by covering the tracks and switches at the Park row end of the building, and the benefits that will be derived are that six-car trains can be used during the rush hours instead of the present four-car trains; that each train can stand still for about three minutes for unloading and loading as against half a minute now; more and longer trains can be run per hour, so that crowding in the cars themselves will be diminished; there will not be any transferring at the Brooklyn terminal, as all the Brooklyn trains will come direct to New York; the platform space will be increased at least tenfold, as the whole area of the building, including the three waiting trains, is available for passengers, with the exception of one pocket, where the incoming and the outgoing trains change places; the incoming and the outgoing passengers will be separated, because the incoming passengers on the two centre trains will unload from the platforms of the cars on to the enclosed platform and stairways leading down to the gallery floor below, while the outgoing passengers will enter the cars through the centre door, and with the two trains on the outer tracks the unloading will be on the outer platforms and the loading from the inner platforms, so in both cases the in-spare at the Park row end of the building, so one-half of the structure, from Park row to the dotted line "D," can be taken away and this space could be used as a plaza in front of the building and give a splendid opportunity to make a handsome entrance worthy of the bridge. The trolley service can also be improved, and the trucking out to Park row can be done away with, but that can be gone into later.

As Borough Presidents Coler and Ahearn and Comptroller Metz, together with their chief engineers are investigating this matter, would it not be well for the readers to study this plan, and if they find it to be correct lend their aid to the city officials? To enable the readers to study the plan, the arrows show which way the trains run; a train comes and goes about every minute, as it takes about one minute for one train to move away and another one to take its place, and, in either case, the outgoing train has the right of way, and the incoming train takes its place.

Any one who will take the trouble to look it over will find that the above statements are correct. Yours truly,

N. FOULSON.

The Demand for Capital.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Sir: In your editorial of the 8th, referring to the difficulty of securing mortgage loans, you have made a worse case than the facts really warrant, because you have grouped your figures without reference to the annual mortgage tax law of 1905. The amount of mortgages recorded during the first six months of 1905 was phenomenal, but was partly due to the mortgage tax which took effect July first.

If the figures are arranged as follows the effect of the annual tax is more plainly evident:

Mortgages recorded in New York County:

2d 6 mos. 1904, 174 millions.

1st 6 mos. 1905, 459 millions.

2d 6 mos. 1905, 101 millions (annual tax period).

1st 6 mos. 1906, 227 millions (annual tax period).

Nine weeks, July 1 to Sept. 6, 1906, 73 millions.

The mortgages recorded during the first nine weeks after July 1 are at the rate of over 400 millions a year, which is fifty-three millions more than in 1904. The mortgages recorded from April 26 to Sept. 6, of this year, amount to 173 millions, which is at the rate of 500 millions a year.

It is true that the demand for capital is so great that loans are somewhat hard to get, but we should not lose sight of the fact that loans on real estate have been obtained during the last four months exceeding in amount those obtained during any similar period except June, 1906, when all sorts of mortgages were put on record in advance of the annual tax.

The Mortgage Money Market

And Its Relation to Real Estate Speculation and Building Trades, as Viewed by High Authorities

PARAMOUNT to all other markets this summer is the mortgage money market. Real estate interests have watched the course of the money market more sharply than in years, and this is true of the public at large, with the result that there is a better understanding of the relation existing between Wall Street as the money centre and the real estate market, and also the brick market, and the market for lumber, iron and other building materials. This summer the mortgage division has lost the step and fallen behind in the march of events, and the main army is marking time while the supply trains are catching up.

There is no real dispute over the causes of the present scarcity of funds. The situation presupposes a heavy drain upon banking resources, and is reflected in firm money the country over; but our metropolitan banks, while concerned with this general demand, have had placed upon them the additional obligation of financing an extraordinary local investment in real estate and an extensive speculation in securities at high prices. Under this double burden and the further handicap of inelastic currency regulations, they have been compelled to report a steady diminution in their holdings of reserves above legal requirements. With no prospect of a surcease of the needs, replenishment is looked for in two directions; first, through importations of gold, and, second, through the release from the U. S. Treasury of accumulated moneys not immediately necessary to the conduct of the business of the Government. But a forty per cent call money rate in September is novelty enough to attract more than passing attention. It has been equaled in September only twice in thirty-two years; once in 1873, when a rare of 1½ per cent per diem was touched, and again in 1873, when quotations reached 186 per cent.

Upon real estate transactions and building operations the money stringency has had a marked effect, though real property values were never more stable and renting never better in the central sections of all boroughs. Real estate is in the condition of being restrained and held up, and apparently is as strong as ever as a general proposition. On Washington Heights builders have made a mistake in the choice of plans; the section has been surfeited with a relatively cheap, and, as is plain to be seen, an undesirable class of apartments in the opinion of families which would naturally gravitate to the Heights. It is to be hoped that this splendid territory, deserving the best attention of builders, has not been seriously harmed by the last two years' work.

As regards values in well-settled sections no affirmative evidence could too strongly state the case. Property on the market may be said to be even scarce, in that it is for the most part held in hands sufficiently strong and well content to hold it, and whoever buys title must pay the highest quotations in years. This applies to both business and residence property in the central sections referred to. In Brooklyn there has not been so many detached houses built this season as in 1905, in the choice residential suburbs, but more attention is likely to be given to this department of construction in the future, not only in Brooklyn but in the Bronx, when mortgage money becomes easier. Brokers report the demand for one-family houses in the suburbs, and for large flats and apartments in good locations in Manhattan as apparently inexhaustible, and consider it as an effect of the general prosperity of the city. A much better feeling is abroad this September than was predicted in August, and everything that can be said against real estate is comprehended under tight money. Building forces are being augmented, the outgo of materials is larger than a month ago, Portland cement has risen fifteen or twenty cents a barrel in a fortnight, and brick has touched $6.75.

How the Title Companies View the Mortgage Money Situation.

Mr. Edward O. Stanley, second vice-president of the Title Guarantee & Trust Company, in reply to a question, if it was true that the title companies were calling in overdue loans and refusing to make new loans, as a general rule, either for long or short terms, said: "So far as this company is concerned we are not calling in any overdue loans, nor are we refusing to make new loans. We are making loans much as usual, except that as the market for loans is more limited and the interest rates are higher than usual, we are compelled to decline extensive building loans almost entirely and loans in large amounts. Ordinary loans, however, we are taking as usual."

"Is it true," Mr. Stanley was asked, "that not only life insurance companies, but the fire insurance companies, are not buying any more real estate mortgages through title companies, but are actually calling in real estate loans on account of the losses at San Francisco?"

"The fire insurance companies," said Mr. Stanley, "never have been buyers of real estate mortgages to such an extent as would make them any considerable factor in the real estate lending situation. What they may be doing or not doing, therefore, is not of considerable interest to the real estate operator. The life insurance companies are buying mortgages, though not in quite such amount as usual."

As to what real estate interests may expect as a consequence of the money situation in the immediate future, Mr. Stanley said:

"The money situation is a very exceptional one, and is due wholly to the extraordinary prosperity which prevails throughout the entire country and makes a largely increased use of money; in fact, to the same reason which has made New York realty active. While we frequently have flurries in money, sending call rates to a much higher point than they now are and the price of money for one or two months to a higher rate than at present prevails, yet it has been many years since we have seen time money for a long time, say from six months to a year, at so high a figure as to-day. When loans secured by the best collateral command 6% for twelve months' time, that approaches the usual mortgage loan of three years to such an extent as to considerably affect the mortgage rate.

"An important element in the mortgage lending situation is, of course, the savings banks. Many depositors in the savings banks of this city have been withdrawing their deposits for the purpose of investing in small parcels of real estate and then going, through the title insurance companies, back to the same banks from which they have withdrawn their deposits to secure their mortgage loans. The savings banks, from the excess of withdrawals, have so much the less to loan upon mortgage, and at this source—the great reliance or the real estate borrower—there has been a large diminution in lending capacity. The substitution of the recording tax for the annual mortgage tax should have reduced the rate of interest upon mortgages in this State by at least ½ of 1%. That no material reduction followed the taking effect of this legislation, but that, on the contrary, the mortgage lending market is firmer to-day than last spring, shows that really it has advanced ½% more than is indicated in the rates.

"The fact is, that the exceptional prosperity of the country, which means a higher earning capacity for industries of all kinds, means also so great a demand for money as to increase its lending rate. In this, real estate mortgages must share to some extent. There is money to be had now for loans upon real estate, and there will continue to be a reasonable amount. The man who has good real estate security and asks for a proper loan on a basis of no unduly inflated value of his property, will no doubt be able to get it; but for the present at least he must make up his mind to pay a little higher rate than he has been in the habit of doing. It is generally supposed that the exceptional strain upon the money market which is now existent will not continue beyond about the first of the year, and lower rates are looked for by next February, yet it would not be at all surprising if mortgage loans did not even at that time come to a rate which the fact that they are a tax exempt investment entitles them to. There is nothing in the present money lending situation which should alarm the properly conservative investor in real estate, though it would be wise for the speculative builder to be sure of his financing before undertaking new operations."

The Appetite for Speculation.

"Answering your inquiry as to the general situation of real estate in Greater New York," remarked Mr. Burton Thompson, of John M. Thompson & Co., "taking what we believe to be an unbiased view of present conditions, we say emphatically it is strong, healthy and encouraging." Continuing Mr. Thompson said: "Waves of speculation and investment in all lines ebb and flow as the tides of the sea. Obviously a condition of ruin would fix upon the bond, stock or realty market if the trend were continuously in either one direction or the other. We need our 'downs' to realize our 'ups.' At present there is and since the beginning of summer there has been a quietus in actual buying and selling. This we know to be due more to what has gone before than to any present lack of confidence. There has undoubtedly taken place an over-building in a certain line, viz., middle class apartments. But even this is confined to given sections where recent transportation developments held out alluring invitations to the operator.

"No one will claim that the business section (the backbone) has been overdone; nor that high-class apartments or dwellings are a drag on the market. Neither do we believe that there is any money stringency where legitimate investments are concerned. This brings us to the real meat and metaphor of the subject: The appetite for speculation alone has swallowed whole the taste for the other forms of realty investment. The whole country has turned its eyes upon real estate since those investigations which laid crime, machination and dissolute disorder at the door of insurance companies and some other public corporations. The man who saves his money is anxious to invest it where he can see it and in such a manner as precludes its use for personal profit by members of a conscienceless corporation. He is not satisfied to have it earn 5 per cent. to 6 per cent. on mortgages—or 2 per cent. in savings bank—hence he buys a lot or an apartment house. The man from whom he buys does not leave his money on deposit with your charitable institution, but he immediately seeks another investment in real estate for another profit.

"Thus the money is withdrawn from the savings banks, the major source of the mortgage market. As a natural consequence the big title companies realize an increased demand and thus they, too, have their funds depleted. They call a halt by unanimous consent on a certain class of loans, and a few short-sighted builders go to the wall. All this, however, is only a shaking down—a relief—a catching up with conditions. There is nothing permanent, alarming or frightful in the situation. The value of realty is predicated upon its earning power. We do not believe that the worst pessimist in the field of our labors would be hardy enough to even suggest that real estate in all New York City is not earning its way.

GOOD CONDITIONS IN QUEENS.

"We can take you to Queens where we have devoted much time and study to the situation and show you as healthy, progressive and firm a situation as was ever tenable in any market or any time hitherto. This is because it has not been built up to the requirements of the present demand for houses. There are other sections doubtless which will offer the same proofs to the student, if he will but investigate."

Mr. Davies on the Bronx Situation.

Mr. J. Clarence Davies, of 149th st and 3d av, asked how the mortgage money market was affecting the North Side, said:

"If one will but reflect on the enormous amount of building that has taken place in the Bronx during the last two years, to say nothing of other sections of the city, that these buildings are now completed and ready for mortgages, that apartment houses in the Bronx when completed required in the past ten to eighteen thousand dollars permanent mortgages each, whereas the present new law apartments require anywhere from twenty-five to sixty thousand dollars permanent mortgage, and consider also the vast amount of money taken up by prosperous conditions in all lines of business, it will be plain why there should be a stringency for money on permanent mortgages at five per cent.; and these conditions are neither more nor less than what was expected by those who anticipated the future a year or two years ago. Conditions were exactly parallel in this section in 1899 when it took about a year for builders to obtain their permanent mortgages.

PLENTY OF MONEY FOR GOOD LOANS.

"There is plenty of money to be had on good loans from $5,000 to $15,000, and on well located business properties for any reasonable amount, but the title companies and investors are extremely careful in loaning on vacant land and on new law apartments, fearing the overbuilding.

"It is true that in certain sections there has been an overproduction of tenements, and this overproduction will naturally cause a reduction in rents, and the houses will soon be filled; and in fact I am surprised at the comparatively few vacancies with the enormous amount of building going on. And still to-day with all the building there is a great necessity for one, two and three-family houses, the demand for which there is no way of supplying, and loans from $6,000 to $10,000 are readily obtainable on this class of house, and it is to these houses that builders should turn their attention.

"The Bronx is not dead by any means, and as a matter of fact the population is growing more rapidly now than it ever has in the past. The real estate interests are just marking time, after the strenuous times of the last two years.

"If we should have a money panic it would result perhaps in a number of cases that lots and buildings would pass into stronger hands, better able to take care of them and to hold them until they obtain their true value.

MONEY AWAITING A SETBACK.

"I did have some apprehension as to the future last spring, but I know personally there is so much money awaiting a setback in order to seize the opportunity, that when the setback comes it will not go far and be of very short duration, and then the Bronx will go ahead as fast as ever."

Profit in Renovating Old Houses.

An exceedingly interesting phase of real estate enterprise consists in renovating old apartments. An example is the case of Mr. Milton P. Oppenheimer, president of the Adams Realty Co., 200 Broadway, who bought a house last May. It was an 8-sty structure, and part of the building had been converted to other uses than the regular apartments. On the upper floor three apartments had been changed to something that looked like a ballroom. On the lower floor eight apartments had been sacrificed to the convenience of a kitchen and dining-room, and a few others were devoted to housing the help needed in this kitchen and dining-room, which was run at a loss.

Again, two different apartments were offered for rent despite the fact that the toilet in their bathroom had been removed. All the vacant apartments were in a dilapidated condition, and the prospective tenant was given the promise that "the owner would decorate to suit."

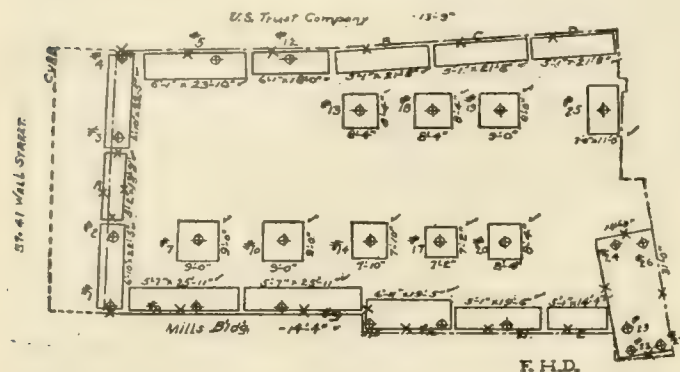

"I estimated at the time," says Mr. Oppenheimer, "that the rent roll was $33,000, of which $4,000 was a clear loss, because it was occupied by the dining-room, kitchen, etc. On obtaining possession, I restored the original plan of the house, and thereby reclaimed $4,000 worth of rent. Through making other necessary repairs, such as furnishing toilets in bathrooms, a water-tight roof, and finally handsome decorations, the rent roll was increased to over $38,000. My arithmetic shows that in four months at comparatively small outlays, the rent roll was increased 33%, while the advance amongst the tenancy was not more than about 5%. This small increase they cheerfully pay on account of the better condition of the building. You will readily see that when, in four months' time, one can raise the rent of a $28,000 building to $38,000, there is still profit in renovating old houses."

The Index to Volume LXXVII of the Record and Guide, covering the period between January 1 and June 30, 1906, is now ready for delivery. Price $1. This Index in its enlarged form is now recognized as indispensable to every one engaged or interested in real estate and building operations. It covers all transactions—deeds, mortgages, leases, auction sales, building plans filed, etc. Orders for the Index should be sent at once to the office of publication, 14 and 16 Vesey St.

THE REALM OF BUILDING

The Foundations of the Trust Company of America Building.

The following plan shows the layout of the twenty-three caissons which are to form the foundations of the Trust Co. of America Building at Nos. 37-41 Wall st. The caissons, sizes of which are given on the plan, are to be carried down to bed rock, an average of 75 ft. below the surface,

The photograph of the works, taken Sept. 1, 1906, is from Wall st, looking towards Exchange pl. On the right is shown a corner of the steel traveler, which is the first ever employed in foundation contracting. It has four masts and four booms; one at each end of its four corners. This complete rigging was designed by the engineer of The Foundation Company and is calculated to lift from ten to fifteen tons on each boom without difficulty.

On the left is shown the top of one of the caissons which has been sunk to bed rock; back of this is a caisson in the process of sinking; still farther back is another caisson that has just been started. In front and along side of the first caisson is shown a Moran air lock. This is a very good view of the air lock designed and patented by Mr. Daniel E. Moran, C. E. It is this air lock that has made it possible to sink caissons in New York City through the soft material along side of buildings whose foundations are not carried down to bed rock. Without the Moran lock it would be practically impossible to do this without settling and consequently damaging the adjoining property.

On top of the second caisson on the left is shown a number of cast weights. These castings weigh about two tons each, and have been designed by The Foundation Company to lessen cost and expedite the handling of the necessary weight required for sinking caissons.

This building has a frontage of 61 ft. on Wall st and extends directly back to the building known as the Wall Street Exchange, which is 43 Exchange pl. When completed it will be twenty-five stories high.

We note M. G. Broadbent, 258 West 29th st, among the painting and decorating contractors who have a number of large contracts on upper Broadway. Although but twelve years established in business in this city, Mr. Broadbent has won success in all undertakings by his determination to execute nothing but creditable work and employing the best materials and labor. He has decorated many fashionable residences and prominent buildings in Edinburgh (Scotland) and London (England), where he was in business for a number of years before coming to this country. To this experience and to the more exclusive work accomplished here, we credit him to know "what is what" in the painting and decorating trade. He recently completed the entire decorations in the Broadway Tabernacle, Gould's stables, 56th st and Lexington av, the Nursery and Child's Hospital, 51st st and Lexington av, besides a number of private residences. Mr. Broadbent has over fifty men in his employ at the present time, and if the same rate of increase in business continues he claims it will necessitate an increase in the force. The past season has been a record breaker for him.

Collapse of a Concrete Building.

STATEMENT FROM GEORGE A. VARNEY & CO., THE CONTRACTORS.

Two men were killed and several injured owing to the collapse of a portion of the walls of a concrete garage being built for Robert A. Greaves, millionaire, on Searing av, near Willis av, in Mineola, L. I., on Monday morning of this week.

The garage was being built between two bungalows and the entire property occupied a space of 157 ft. by 67 ft. The work of building the garage was started a short time ago by George A. Varney & Co., of 156 5th av, Manhattan. John Bader was placed in charge of the work as superintendent. It was Mr. Greaves' intention to comfortably accommodate his friends who went to Long Island to see the auto race on Oct. 6, and in view of this he decided to erect the garage in which the automobiles could be placed. The estimated cost was $60,000.

The garage was to be two stories high and to be built of concrete. At times there were nearly three hundred men engaged in the work, and Monday morning when the accident occurred about fifteen were busy at the east wing. The wall collapsed without the slightest warning.

Charles Hannigan, the contractor for the brick work, the chimneys, etc., was at work with his men on the chimney on the west wing. He heard the crash, and looking ahead, saw a mass of men, timbers and other material flying through the air, and then the entire east wing of the building disappear. Other parts of the building trembled, and Hannigan and his men descended from their lofty perch as quickly as their legs could carry them.

George A. Varney & Co. made the following statement for the Record and Guide:

"At the commencement of this work we had arranged with the architect to give the owner $500 for the use of the sand and gravel obtained in excavating for the purpose of using same for the concrete ingredients.

"Our visiting superintendent, Mr. John A. Bader, when he arrived on the ground found that at least 66% of the material could not be used, as it contained about 20% of loam. The material was consequently removed to one side and much of it used finally in grading and filling. He then visited the gravel banks of Andrews Brothers, near Roslyn, in company with Mr. Varney, and after a careful examination of the gravel and sand, decided it was not fit to use on account of containing a small portion of loam. He then visited the sand banks on the premises of Mr. Albertson, which were also rejected.

"About this time we received a letter from the Glenn Engineering & Construction Co. offering us sand and gravel at 45 cents per load from their excavations on the Mineola Court House, which they had used in making successful concrete foundation walls. As Mr. Bader had already visited the site of this building and looked over the sand, he did not consider it of the quality desired. He then had Mr. Albertson submit several loads of sand which were carted from a pit near East Williston, and which appeared to the eye to be of a very superior quality as far as the grit and formation of the ingredients were concerned, although the sand seemed to have a slightly blackish appearance, as though there was a certain amount of iron in its composition. Mr. Bader had the concrete foreman, Mr. Wansor, take his men and mix a test of this, which was put in a kitchen hearth, making a large slab at least 5 ft. square and nearly 3 ins. thick. This slab was put in place a short while before noon, and before night was firm enough to walk upon. The next morning it seemed to be as hard as stone, and Mr. Bader considered this a very satisfactory test and instructed Mr. Albertson to continue hauling the sand at a price of 80 cents per yard, or $1.20 per load. Two days later Mr. Bader had another test made, using it in the dining-room fireplace hearth, which also set up very hard and satisfactorily.

"Mr. Albertson called at the works and said that the price of $1.20 per load did not pay him to cart the gravel any longer, upon which, after carefully considering the difference between the Denton building sand and the sand we were receiving, Mr. Bader agreed to pay him $1.50 per load for all further sand carted from the same pit—this in spite of the fact that the sand from the Denton building could be procured at this time for 35 cents per load, which with the carting brought the cost of same delivered at 80 cents a load, or about 53 cents a yard.

"Mr. Albertson finally discontinued carting sand without any explanation. Mr. Bader called upon him to see why he did this, and was told that he had a lot of coal to cart, which paid him better, but as soon as the coal was carted he would continue hauling sand if we desired. In the meantime, Mr. Campbell, our stucco contractor, who had been doing a lot of cement work on the Denton building, had carted some of the Denton sand to our premises for the purpose of doing his stucco work. His use of the same showed Mr. Bader that the sand made a very good concrete mortar, and he thereupon hired Mr. Ryan's teams from Roslyn to cart sand from the Denton building.

"From the above it is very evident that our superintendent did not attack the sand proposition in any careless or negligent manner; that it was very evident all through this operation there was a determined effort to obtain the very best sand and gravel regardless of comparative cost.

"The concrete used in the portion of the wall which fell was made of the sand furnished by Mr. Albertson, although higher priced. In every detail of the building only the very best building materials procurable were used, which can be verified by the architect.

"Regarding the mixture itself, there was a hopper built to discharge the mixture directly into a steam mixer, of the most approved make, and was superintended by a highly paid man, whose only duty was to watch the mixer and see that it was properly handled.

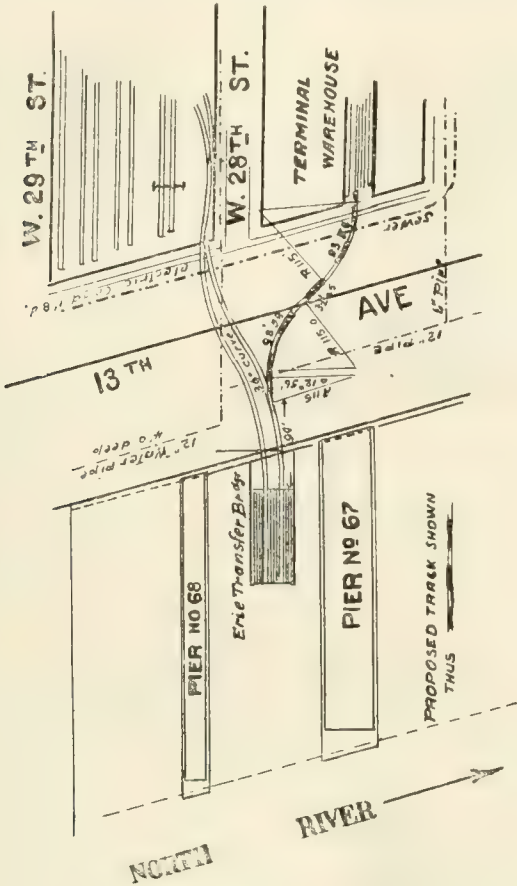

"Each five or six feet of the height of the wall after being cast was allowed to stand until it was found to be of sufficient strength in the judgment of the superintendent, the stucco contractor, the general foreman of the works and the carpenter foreman of the works to warrant a continuance of further concreting.

"The fact that our superintendent and others had perfect confidence in the strength of the walls is shown by the presence of Mr. Bader, our superintendent, Mr. Cody, our foreman, and Mr. Campbell, the stucco contractor, within the building for two hours, just a few minutes before the collapse of the wall which killed two of the men."

More Steam Rails on Thirteenth Avenue.

A decision by the Board of Estimate favorable to an application of the Erie Railroad to lay another track across 13th av seems to indicate the impossibility of excluding railroad cars from the surface of the waterside thoroughfares. The public is already greatly inconvenienced by cars moving and standing in 11th av, and fatal accidents are continually caused by moving trains. An act was passed by the Legislature of 1906 requiring the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad Co. to put its tracks in 11th av underground, so as to relieve the present objectionable conditions in that street, and it would seem inadvisable to permit the number of railroad crossings to be increased if it were commercially and legally possible to prohibit. In this case the city authorities have thrown around the grant a formidable guard of restrictions, but the essential fact is that another railroad is let in, and once in a railroad is not easy to eject.

The Erie made application to construct an additional switch and track across the marginal wharf and 13th av from its existing tracks to a warehouse on the easterly side of 13th av, between West 27th and West 28th sts. Under an ordinance passed in 1903 the Erie received permission to construct, maintain and operate two tracks across the marginal wharf and 13th av, from its transfer bridge to a freight yard on the easterly side of 13th av, between West 28th and West 29th sts. It is now intended to connect the new track with the southerly track, already constructed under the ordinance, making two railroad crossings only one hundred and twenty-five feet apart.

The warehouse into which it is intended to run the new track occupies the whole block between 11th and 13th avs and West 27th and West 28th sts. Tracks from the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad Co.'s freight yard at West 30th st enter the warehouse from 11th av and run the full length of the warehouse. It would be possible to transfer cars directly from one road to another were this not expressly forbidden in the terms under which the city gives the franchise, which is for only ten years, and is subject to revocation on sixty days' notice.

Better Transit for the Bronx Requested.

It is the feeling in the Bronx that substantially no provision for rapid transit for the accommodation of the central sections of the borough, such as Tremont, Fordham, Bedford Park and other central sections, has been made by the authorities, and consequently those sections cannot enjoy any improvement in transit facilities for many years.

It is also affirmed that the southern part of the borough, from 149th st south to 132d st, an important business section, and a densely populated residential section, has been neglected by the elevated railway officials as to just and fair transfers, and does not possess the same transit facilities as other sections, being barred from transfers to the present subway except on payment of double fares, whereas passengers north of 149th st to the terminus of the elevated lines pay only one fare to the lower parts of the city via the subway, and this neglect and discrimination have largely contributed toward making blocks of expensive buildings constructed to accommodate hundreds of families unrentable.

At a large meeting of citizens at the Bronxland Hotel, under the auspices of the South Bronx Taxpayers' Association, the sentiments of the community were set forth in a statement to this effect:

"The future growth and prosperity of the borough demand immediate improvements in transit facilities, and such improvements cannot be secured except through third tracking the elevated lines as a temporary relief, thus in a measure giving the same accommodation to the East Side as is enjoyed on the West Side by the third track on Ninth av.

"As citizens of the Bronx, we respectfully request the Board of Rapid Transit Railroad Commissioners to reconsider and grant upon proper terms, restrictions and modifications, the application of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company to third track the elevated lines in the Bronx, heretofore submitted by said company, and rejected by said commissioners at a public hearing held on June 28, 1906.

"Though the people of the Bronx earnestly petition for such third tracking and construction of additional loops and changing of stations as a matter of immediate necessity so as to secure much-needed relief from transit congestion, all rapid transit lines now proposed are fully approved, and the people of this borough urge upon the authorities the necessity of giving out contracts for the construction of the same at the earliest possible date."

Classes in Real Estate.

THE West Side Young Men's Christian Association announces the third season of its classes in real estate to begin Tuesday evening, Oct. 16, 1906. The great success of these classes for two years past has made them an institution in New York business life. They no longer need introduction to the practical real estate brokers and investors of the city.

Begun as an experiment, in the autumn of 1904, and without any precedents to follow, these classes have not only grown steadily in attendance, but have also gained the confidence of the men enrolled, as well as of the business firms who have constantly drawn upon the class membership for men for their offices.

The demand for men who have taken these courses exceeds the supply. This statement is made frankly and positively. In the present activity of the real estate market, young men possessing a knowledge of the real estate brokerage business such as can be obtained in these courses, are constantly sought by leading business concerns.

A large proportion of the members of the classes are practical real estate brokers and the Association is fortunate in having won the friendship of these men and gained their assistance in carrying on the work. The enrollment for the first year was more than 200, and for the second year nearly 300. As the advantages of the courses become better known, the attendance, both of established brokers and beginners, promises to increase in like proportion.

In carrying on this work the association officers have the benefit of the constant advice and the experience of the following advisory committee: Henry Harmon Neill, real estate editor, the Evening Mail; Francis E. Ward, former president, Board of Real Estate Brokers; J. S. De Selding, former president, Board of Real Estate Brokers; Minturn Post Collins, president, Bankers Investing Company; E. A. Tredwell, agent for Times Building; Walter Stabler, comptroller, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

OTHER SPECIAL COURSES.

Investments: How in investing my own or others' money can the maximum of income be combined with the maximum of security? Where is the line to be drawn between investment and speculation? between good and bad investments? This course aims to give authoritative answers to those questions. It deals with investments only, and is intended to teach men how to judge the value of different kinds of securities and investments. The class last year numbered over seventy men. Mr. John Moody, a high authority in this field, will again be in charge.

Business Management: For executives, managers and department heads. This class has been conducted for the past two years. Its aim is to show how to organize a business; how to make it pay when it did not pay before and pay better where it did pay before; how to find weak points in a business system and how to strengthen them; and how to make the best methods of doing any business fit that business.

CONVEYANCES

Whenever the letters Q. C., C. a G. and B. & S. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:
1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.
2d.—C. a G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.
3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it. The street or avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.
4th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's Office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

Sept. 7, 8, 10, 11, 12 and 13.

WALL STREET and its elements seem this week in perfect agreement to be scared and remain so as the safest and wisest course at present. The tape, generally a sure guide, reflects this tremulous feeling. Stocks are held with a light hold, and they are brave bulls who do not part with them on anybody's whisper. Great deals and combinations are in the air, but toot their metaphorical fish horns as they will, the manipulators cannot "sell a clam." As a matter of course, this state of mind makes for safety, unless the big men were to begin to sell on each other. The professional traders are very apt to take the short side again should the halting tendency of the market continue and money remain tight. It is still almost impossible to get funds on time, and the situation is bound to bear hard on real estate building and business interests before long. The Secretary of the Treasury must know by this time that something should be done to release the Treasury hoards. But there again politics comes in. He is apparently first of all a politician, and that may be the reason he has been rewarded with the all-important portfolio he holds. Still, it is comforting to know that matters might be worse; that is to say, if no relief had come from any quarter. This is an age of record breaking in money matters. The largest amount of gold ever brought into New York in one vessel arrived on Wednesday last in the Cunarder "Carmania." The gold was in 273 iron-bound boxes, each containing from 250 to 350 pounds of gold, valued at upwards of two million pounds sterling, or, to be precise, $10,328,000. With new gold imports, the total amount so far, as announced to date, is twenty-four millions of dollars. One good feature of the financial outlook is the disposition on the part of French investors to buy American securities. The instability of Russian investments is the principal cause. That is why French gold comes so freely to the United States in exchange for our railroad and other stocks.

THE filing of mechanics' liens against newly built tenement houses in the upper part of Manhattan still continues to be the most prominent feature of the real estate and building market. Many conditions are beginning to work against the builder with only a small capital. He cannot fill his building with tenants as readily as he could last year, and it has been much more difficult to obtain permanent loans. The title companies are appraising new five and six-story tenements in the upper part of the city at much lower figures than they did a year ago, and the difference is sufficient to wipe out small builders who cannot afford to wait. Of course, the effect has already been very much to diminish the number of new tenement houses projected, and it may be surmised that many years will elapse before as much money will again be spent on tenement houses in Manhattan as was spent in 1905. Before the existing over supply has been filled up, Manhattan will begin to feel even more keenly the competition of the other boroughs. Within a couple of years trains will be running under the East River to Long Island City and Brooklyn, and under the North River to the suburbs in New Jersey, while during the same period the local services of the Central, New Haven and Harlem roads will be very much improved. This competition will not hurt the lower part of the city, nor the areas to the east and west of the Central Park, but it will divert large numbers of residents who would otherwise have occupied apartments on Washington Heights and at Inwood. Washington Heights will, of course, continue to grow, because practically all the increase in population which prefers to live in Manhattan must settle there; but it looks as if a larger proportion than heretofore of the increased residents of New York City would seek the larger amount of living room which they can obtain in the outlying districts. Just how far this diversion will go it is impossible to say. The fact remains, however, that New York is on the eve of a transformation in transit, and consequently in residential conditions similar to that which took place early in the nineties. This transformation can only help centrally situated business and residential property; but it may play some unexpected tricks on the owners of real estate which is less centrally situated.

COMPLAINTS about the service offered by the surface railroad cars in Manhattan are being heard on every side at the present time, and are eliciting the usual responses from the officials of the company. These complaints do not concern the service during the rush hours, for New Yorkers have by this time reached the conclusion that comfortable travelling during these hours is beyond human power. It is obviously one of the laws of nature that men going to their business and returning therefrom should stand upon their feet and be packed, jambed and crowded just as far as human endurance will permit. The current complaints concern the service during other hours, when the company can hardly allege that it is physically impossible to move any more cars. It is being found that during all hours of the day, and on all the more central surface car routes in the city, it is becoming increasingly difficult to find a seat, simply because the company will not run as many cars as are needed to accommodate with seats the people who are willing to ride, and if such is the condition in the summer and fall, when there is nothing to impede smooth operation, it may be imagined how much more it will be the case next winter. We do not know that there is anything to be done about the matter, for the interference of the State Railroad Commission is always futile, and the company believes that it can afford to ignore the opinions and the comfort of its passengers. Like all the other street railway companies in the country, its intention is to run just as few cars as it possibly can, in order to accommodate the traffic. All the public of New York City can do is to bide its time. The opportunity will eventually come for getting back at the company. Corporations such as the Metropolitan Street Railway and the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Companies are gradually creating in the public an amount of cordial dislike which will some day, and in the most unexpected manner, overflow and cause considerable damage. It is the street railway corporations themselves which are the most active friends of the movement in favor of municipal ownership, a fact which they will doubtless discover some day, when it is too late.

OF the "little rivers" of the world the Bronx is the quaintest and most irregular. The Spree, in Germany, or the Lark, in England, are not to be compared in insignificance with the Bronx. The last Legislature provided for the appointment of a special commission on the subject of the Bronx River, acquiring the land along its banks for park purposes. This commission was appointed to inquire into the desirability of establishing a park from the limits of the present Bronx Park to the end of the Bronx River, with that stream as the dividing line. The committee organized and has since made two trips of inspection the whole length of the river and conferred with Westchester county and New York officials. Under the plan now considered, New York would bear the expense of improving the river and its borders inside the city limits and Westchester county the expense of beautifying the twenty miles of the river in its territory. The Bronx is in two counties. As the matter stands at present the gurgling Bronx, the delight of artists and the confusion of scientists, is a small but rugged stream in winter, when it is seldom seen by New Yorkers, except out of railroad car windows, and is a sluggish stream, with muddy banks and a varying volume of water in summer time, when many thousand New Yorkers show themselves glad of the opportunity to visit the Bronx to study its beauties and perhaps, where it is deep enough, to row upon its surface. A comprehensive system of improvement which would fix permanent banks and regulate the volume of water by the installation of dams has long been advocated by intelligent New Yorkers, who have had the active co-operation of Westchester residents, whose influence was sufficient last year to induce the Legislature to take the first step forward towards the improvement of the Bronx River and incidentally of Bronx Valley real estate.

The Financial Condition of New York City.

THE government of New York City has been very much improved in many respects during the last five years, but there is one task in which no substantial improvement has been made, and that is the task of creating some satisfactory relation between the available financial resources of the city and its present and future financial responsibilities. There is no use or profit in disguising the fact that the city is, from a financial standpoint, in a bad way. Its resources are enormous, greater probably than that of any other city in the world; but its responsibilities are even greater. The rapid increase in population, scattered as it is over a vast area intersected by several large bodies of water, throws upon the city government an enormously difficult job, so that it can scarcely keep abreast of the pressing needs of this increasing population, and it is frankly unable to provide with wise and prudent forethought for the equally important but less imminent needs of the future. The schools of the city are still inadequate to offer complete accommodation for the children that want to be educated. The Police Department complains of being under-manned; and the city needs a completely new equipment of local police stations. All the other departments are clamoring for more money, which their chiefs claim that they must have in order to fulfil the duties prescribed by law. And when we consider the future necessities, a similar condition is revealed. The development of a new water supply is essential, and will cost more than a hundred million dollars. More subways are as much needed as the existing Subway was a few years ago. The city will soon be confronted by the task of doing something radical to improve the street system of Manhattan and Brooklyn, so that the increasing traffic may reach its destination without loss and delay. The municipal buildings are wholly inadequate to house the city and county officials, and the Treasury has to stand a large and increasing expense for rented space. For these and many other purposes the city will have to issue interest-bearing obligations, in spite of the fact that at the present time money can scarcely be borrowed at four per cent. The manner in which this necessary working capital can be raised without unnecessary expense, and without going beyond the municipal debt limit, is in itself a serious subordinate problem, which demands early and careful consideration. In whatever direction we look, the financial condition and future of the city bristles with unsolved problems and doubtful conditions.

It is not surprising that nothing effectual has as yet been done by any city government to meet this acute and dangerous financial dilemma. Its solution, of course, lies far beyond the power either of the Mayor or the Controller. It lies beyond the power even of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. The immediate needs of the city are so pressing that the most that the financial authorities of the city can do is to meet these pressing demands as best they can. Embarrassed as they are by a multitude of responsibilities and a dearth of resources, they are obliged to pursue a hand-to-mouth policy, and to provide for each pressing demand as it comes up, and generally by means of some temporary expedient. They are frequently obliged to be economical when liberality would in the long run save money to the taxpayers. Their great effort is, of course, to avoid if possible an increase of the tax rate by keeping current expenses within the sum which the existing tax rate yields when applied to the constantly expanding assessed valuation of real estate, and they are right in so doing. Taxes in New York are very high considering the high level of assessed valuations, and an increase in the tax bills would, under existing conditions, be a sheer loss to the real estate owners of the city.

The great difficulty with the financial condition of New York City is the existing lack of information concerning the resources and the responsibilities of the city, and before any effective manner of meeting the situation can be devised it is desirable that complete information should be obtained as to the probable municipal expenses during the next twenty-five years, and as to the resources out of which these expenses can be met; and the only way to get this information is to appoint a commission with full authority to make an exhaustive report. This commission should be composed of one or two leading municipal officers, one or two competent business men and taxpayers, one or two trained political economists, and perhaps one prominent lawyer, accountant, architect and engineer; and its investigation should not only be exhaustive, but it should have as wide a scope as possible. It should consider the system of municipal bookkeeping, and devise some means for making the books of the city reveal instead of obscure its financial condition. It should consider the expenses of the various departments, compared with the expenses of similar departments in other American cities, and it should seek to discover whether these departmental expenses are extravagant. It should consider the system of real estate assessment and taxation, and suggest the necessary measures for improving it. It should examine carefully into the future needs of the city, and seek to reach some idea as to the amount which the necessary improvements will cost. Finally, it should make a similar examination of the city's resources, and suggest the proper means of turning them to the best account. Of course, in reference to all these questions, its functions would only be advisory, but nevertheless such a report might well do a great deal of good. It would enable the public officials and public opinion to survey the financial condition of New York from a hill-top, instead of, as at present, from a forest, and it could be made the basis of the legislation which is necessary for the purpose of the proper conservation and development of the estate of New York City. It is possible that the report would be neglected after it was issued, but we do not believe that such would be the case. Our local officials, particularly those who are most prominent, have a much more earnest and intelligent desire to serve the city well than they used to have, and if they were in position of full information and sufficient authority, there is every reason to believe that they would take vigorous and persistent action to carry out the suggestions of the commission.

Vexations.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

I am a builder and a subscriber to your Record, and would be very thankful to you if you would give me your advice on the following matter:

On my present operations in — avenue, between 165th and 166th sts, Bronx, the framer has made mistakes in putting up partitions in the halls, and we were compelled to move some of them three to five inches, so that some of the plaster was thrown down from some of the ceilings and the walls.

The question which I wish you to advise me on is as follows:

The lather claims that no one else except himself has a right to replace the laths. The plasterer claims the same, and both threaten with a strike if any other men be employed on this job. Consequently they ask an enormous price to do the work on the strength that they are the only ones entitled to this job, as per their rules of the union.

I would be pleased if you would give me some advice as to my position in this matter, also referring to the framer and how much of the loss he should stand. Thanking you in advance for your kindness.

R. D.

The Board of Arbitration, of which Mr. Samuel B. Donnelly is secretary, at 1123 Broadway, is maintained for taking up such questions as this, and if our correspondent will apply there, he will doubtless have his case fairly treated, and the road to an harmonious settlement indicated.

Little troubles like this are constantly arising in the building business. No owner or builder can avoid them altogether, else building houses would be a trade too serene and angelic for this world. He smooths them out as easily as he can, and makes it up somewhere else.

In one word, it falls to every man of position and parts to use a little diplomacy occasionally, as when he finds himself against a wall to go around and not try to drive through. He might get through, but it takes too much time.

No Combination Among Title Companies.

Though the statement has been made in a number of responsible newspapers that a combination exists on the part of the title companies to restrict the lending of money on real estate in this city, it has been a matter of some surprise that anybody should be willing to believe that such a thing was possible.

When the subject was mentioned to Mr. L. V. Bright, of the Lawyers Title Insurance and Trust Company, this week, he said there is and has been no such agreement or understanding.

"The matter of making any such agreement has not even been discussed," added Mr. Bright. "Anyone who will consider the question carefully will at once realize that such an agreement, if made, would be an agreement, in effect, to stop doing business; for the free lending of money by a title company and the free sale of mortgages to its clients, forms one of the largest and most profitable branches of the business of such a corporation. I believe that all the companies are most anxious to do business of this character, and that they regret that they cannot do more of it at the present time. A combination not to lend money on real estate in view of this fact alone is absurd.

"The sole reason that this company has not been a free lender of money in the last few months is that it has been difficult to sell the mortgages that we have taken to investors. No doubt the high rates which have prevailed for loans of money generally and also the better returns on securities have tended to make mortgages, for the time being, less attractive to investors. Undoubtedly, too, a great many of the features of the recently repealed annual mortgage tax law turned many people who had been consistent lenders on mortgages to other securities, and these investors have never been brought back into the mortgage market.

"The causes which have prevented the sale of permanent mortgages to clients have had a reflex action upon the market for building loans. It is quite obvious that if the builders cannot raise permanent mortgages they cannot pay off the building loans. If they cannot pay off their building loans to the title companies, the companies cannot continue to add indefinitely to the amount of money invested in this class of securities.

"There has been no temptation, so far as this company is concerned, to put any funds, which we would ordinarily invest in mortgages into Wall Street loans. The only class of loans that we make in the street are those which are made in connection with our banking department, and these loans do not exceed the proper percentage which every bank and trust company must keep as an investment of its deposits. The company keeps the banking and real estate departments separate. What is true of us is probably true of other companies similarly situated.

"The title companies, so far as I know, have not stopped lending. We have restricted our loans, only to the extent that our mortgage sales have fallen off.

"The rates for money generally continue high, and in consequence the rate demanded by investors on mortgages is higher than the rate which has prevailed in previous years; but judging by what other lines of industry are paying, I think the mortgage rate is considerably under the general business rate."

Long Island Real Estate Convention

Results in Organizing the Long Island Exchange—Comptroller Metz Losing Hope in Subway Building—Criticisms and Defence of the Long Island Railroad Company

REAL ESTATE agents and brokers in convention assembled is something new in this country. They have had their exclusive annual dinners, and they have exercised an influence through the medium of property owners' organization, but have never before assembled together as a convention, as did the Long Island dealers at East New York this week. Several circumstances combined with undaunted and clever management to make the occasion unqualifiedly successful, and to indicate the probability of a powerful and authoritative body developing under the name of the "Long Island Real Estate Exchange." The manufacturing of this new organization to represent the whole of Long Island was the one lasting product of the two days' sessions, aside from the pleasant business of bringing into one friendly company several hundred men very representative of the real estate interests of the Island, and the voicing of opinions and sentiments of importance to all the inhabitants thereof.

So much of the time was taken up with set speeches and papers, and so well did these for the most part state the views of the hearers, that little space was left for debate; and if the convention failed to score in any respect it was in this, that it drew up no great resolutions and hammered together with forcible pronouncements no monumental platform of principles. However, it approved of the utterances of several pointed criticisms of the Long Island Railroad Company, which may have some effect, for the corporation as now constituted is believed to be one that is desirous of getting on amicably with its public. Naturally enough the speakers were inclined to all go over the same ground, and to see the same things, and to prophesy the same visions; but the fact remains that the literature left by the convention is able and impressive.

To the Hon. Otto Kempner, assisted particularly by Mr. M. T. Behnson, of the Kings and Queens County Real Estate Exchange, is ascribable the greater part of the honor of carrying forward the forceful and clever arrangements which culminated in a highly successful convention. Down in a pleasant garden in Flatbush at midnight of Wednesday the exercises came to an end.

OPENING EXERCISES.

The convention was called to order by the President, Mr. Otto Kempner, who said:

"Gentlemen of the Convention: In calling this meeting to order I am commissioned to extend a cordial greeting and welcome in the name of our Exchange to every real estate man attending and participating in the proceedings of this convention. By calling this meeting of the progressive and enterprising representatives of the real estate industry of Long Island, we believe that we are helping to pave the way to a desirable union of aims and a combination of interests that is bound to prove uplifting and generally beneficial.

"In every trade or calling, modern conditions have made it essential to get together, to organize. Organization is the cornerstone in the structure on which commercial and industrial success is founded. By its help we improve, advance and systematize the methods of conducting business, and promote as well as protect in a variety of ways the condition of those engaged in any particular business. To be without some means of association in any line of industry is to be behind the time. The genius and spirit of the age in which we live, this age of fierce competition and bitter rivalry, calls upon you real estate men, as it has called upon other classes of tradesmen and professional men innumerable, to combine for self-protection and progress. The logic of the situation plainly tells us that by establishing a community of interests we provide ourselves with the means wherewith to make the welfare of each the concern of all, and the welfare of all the concern of each.

"You are fortunate in having Long Island as the field for your enterprise. No other spot in the United States presents so promising an opportunity. Located at the very gateway of a continent and at the entrance to its great metropolis, yet for over a century the island has lain as dormant as if it had been in the faraway Caribbean sea. It is only within a comparatively short and recent period that its exceptional advantages have been grasped by the public. Long Island, so to speak, was discovered only since the consolidation of the Greater New York and the advent here of the Pennsylvania Railroad. These two instrumentalities have produced a real estate revolution, and have awakened the island and its inhabitants from their Rip Van Winkle slumber."

"It seems to me, gentlemen, that the railroad company, by its present plans of improvement and its willingness to expend fabulous sums in their construction and installation, is doing a marvelous work toward abolishing the insular isolation from which this island has for long suffered, and is rapidly attaching it to the rest of the continent with its highways of electricity and steam. Since this work of railroad improvement has begun, the wealth of the nation from Maine to California has commenced to pay tribute to the speculative attractiveness of our fallow acres, and although the figures of invested capital in Long Island acres and farms are already prodigious, still they are insignificant in comparison to what they will be in the near future.

"It seems to me that nothing can stop the roll of the present wave of prosperity, and, in my judgment, it will continue to roll on until this island, through its entire length, is tenanted by a teeming population—its suburban landscape dotted everywhere by costly villas and magnificent residential settlements,—until every available inch of its fruitful soil blossoms with the products of the garden and the farm, and its sea-girt shores are studded with bustling centers of manufacturing and commerce, making this beautiful and blessed little island a beehive of industry and a home-dwellers' paradise. (Applause.) And it is for the purpose of preventing this wave of prosperity which is presently sweeping the island from receding, and in order to make it permanent and lasting, that we have called this convention,—surely a deserving and inspiring object for your labors. It is hoped that in the course of your deliberations, the needs and the benefits of associated labors will find eloquent and forceful expression, and culminate into action. It is also hoped that we will consider the question that may come before us broadly, dispassionately, disinterestedly. And finally, it is to be hoped that this convention, which, in all likelihood, is the first of its kind held in this or any other State, will prove the forerunner of a long series of similar gatherings held annually by the leading realty men of Long Island for its welfare, as well as their own. You have it in your power, gentlemen, I believe, to accomplish some little good, and it may yet be said of you by some future generation that you 'builted better than you knew.' Let us, therefore, I implore you, use our power and opportunity to the best advantage, and by establishing this community of interests that I speak of, help toward lifting to a higher plane, if possible, the standard of honor and dignity that should ever attach to the occupation of a realty man of Long Island." (Applause.)

Mr. Kempner: "Gentlemen: It was expected, and we may yet have the pleasure of the presence of the Comptroller of the City of New York, to address a few words of welcome to you; and I imagine that he will drop in in the course of our proceedings.

"It may be in order now to elect a permanent secretary and chairman of this convention. What is your pleasure? Nominations are in order."

(Hon. Herman A. Metz entered the hall at this juncture.)

Mr. Kempner: "Before we proceed with action on the nominations—I see that the Comptroller has arrived, and would like to invite him to the platform." (Applause.)

(Hon. Herman A. Metz advances to the platform, and is greeted by the real estate men there seated.)

SPEECH OF COMPTROLLER METZ.

Mr. Kempner: "When we were proceeding to make up our program, we found that the Mayor of the city was absent from his post and away in Europe. The Acting Mayor, on whom we called, expressed his endorsement of our movement, and said that he would be very glad to act and to welcome the guests here to-day, if it had not been that the Mayor would be back by the time the convention was held, and that he would be on his vacation. It became necessary then to look around for the official next in rank, and we obtained the distinguished Comptroller of the City of New York, the rising favored son of Brooklyn, Comptroller Herman A. Metz." (Applause.)

Hon. Herman A. Metz, Comptroller of the City of New York: "Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen: I rather wish you had put me down as a second son, and let me sit a little longer. I being, and stagnation is soon going to mean retrogression. Nothing is more important for Long Island and for Brooklyn—and Queens in particular—THAN TO HEAD OFF THE TENDENCY OF THINGS GOING TO JERSEY. Manufacturing is going there—I have moved two plants there myself—you know what that means, fifty or sixty people away from Brooklyn, all living in Newark and paying taxes there now—the large enterprises are going there, and that means that in a short time homes will have to follow.

"The means of communication are getting better every day in Jersey. They are getting better up in Westchester county, and even up in Connecticut, so that you can get to Albany almost as quickly as you can get to Brooklyn. (Laughter.) And if you don't watch that situation and improve it soon, there will be nobody wanting to come here; they will all go out that way. And I think the sooner we get around to a sane and sensible attitude and have something done that is going to bring progress and development, the better off we are going to be.

"I don't believe in the 'big stick,' and I don't believe in lying down, but I do believe there is a sane middle course that we of this city should pursue in regard to further transit development or other material development in Long Island, in Kings apologize for being a bit late, and instead of my coming here to welcome you gentlemen, you have given me quite a welcome, which I appreciate. You have turned the tables on me.

Brooklyn, September 17, 18, 1906.

LONG ISLAND REAL ESTATE CONVENTION.

"I was out this morning in Flatbush. I know you are all real estate people—interested in real estate. I saw some people in Flatbush. They wanted the pesthouse moved, and the insane asylum moved, and they wanted the earth moved, to get them away. And I am just down here from looking over the ground. I haven't brought much appetite with me, but I am thoroughly fumigated, so you needn't be afraid. (Laughter.) I certainly found an interesting situation in that section, and I don't blame the residents for wanting those places moved. I wouldn't want to have them in my back yard, and I suppose none of us would. But we have got to have those nuisances somewhere, and the best place to have them is where they have grown up and where they were before the other fellow got there. He had no reason to go if he didn't want to. That is one local question of one small section.

SANDBAG FOR CORPORATIONS.

"But the question that you are interested in, and what we are all interested in, is the material welfare and the increase in valuations, and setting aside for homes and business purposes of Brooklyn and Long Island in general. I had occasion a few nights ago to say—and I think I was right when I said it—at least I thought I was—that it seems unfortunate that a reaction has set in against transportation companies and against public utility corporations generally, and has taken such a hold on officials that it has gone to quite the other extreme; that where formerly we were glad to have gas companies and electric light companies and trolley companies come in and take anything they wanted from the section they were going through, the tendency now is to sandbag them and hold them up and keep them out from everywhere. Now, that means stagnation for the time and Queens in particular, and for my part I am going to stand out and try to do it. It may not be popular, but I think the material results will more than recompense me and be an excuse for having done it.

FLOATING AROUND.

"There are various things that have come up that would be of vast interest to Long Island. The greatest thing, I believe, is the connecting railroad. That will make us part of the United States, at least, instead of leaving us out in the ocean floating around, as we have been doing. (Laughter.) Now, I believe that every day that thing is held up is a pecuniary loss to the city of New York and to Brooklyn, in every way, and to Queens in particular. I have heard one argument raised that it was going to build a wall through beautiful Queens borough. I have followed the line of that railroad, and I cannot find much beauty where they are going to run—swamps and fields and such things—but the fact is that the moment that road is constructed and begins operations the city of New York will receive in taxes upon its own land, its own improvements, more than the whole amount of the cash payment. Every year they will receive more. But there is a principle there: they want that much money, and the Pennsylvania says they won't pay it; and it is up to somebody to get between them.

"We ought to have that road. The theory that we are going to build a wall through Queens county does not phase me a bit. We have got a wall through Manhattan now, as far as the East and West sides are concerned, in Central Park. There is about two and a half miles of park, with only two streets running through it, and nobody thinks anything of it. But when you put a railroad through and make an embankment, that is a 'Chinese wall' and you can't get across it. It does not appeal to me a little bit.

THE SUBWAY HABIT.

"In your suburban extensions: I know the feeling in favor of going in for subways—subway, subway, everybody wants subways. I think the town has gone subway-crazy. That is my opinion. Take in the Bronx; take our loop; take any effort at relief that has been brought up; and you get nothing but 'subway!' Now, who is going to build them? You can't sell city bonds even at four per cent. now. I don't see where the money is coming in.

"I don't see why we keep on talking about this thing, and talking about it, as we have been doing for five years past, and apparently will be doing for five years more. Let us get together and get some kind of relief. On a twenty-year franchise basis you are not going to have any subways to compete with those now running. YOU MAY HAVE ONE OR TWO SUBWAYS IN BROOKLYN; THAT IS THE LIMIT. It is a question of absolutely pure arithmetic. It takes so much to build a mile of subway. And it takes so much to bring in a return. And now let us not fool ourselves and imagine that we are going to have all these big things in a short time. I am hoping that the Commissioners will be able to use the various routes they have mapped out.

"I think they have nineteen of them already on paper, and they will get them advertised this fall, they say. I hope they will be justified in their expectation of getting bids. They have got one now to relieve Brooklyn, to just take us off the bridge, and it is going to cost $23,000,000. I do not see who is going to run it. I don't see where the nickels are coming in. We are not going to use the subway after we get off the bridge, and pay two fares. There is only one relief for Brooklyn, and that is to continue the cars off the bridge. If you can't run the subway you have got to get them above ground, and you have got to get them off that bridge, and you have got to bring them around to the other bridge.

"Now, I may be radical in my views. I may be against all the other gentlemen in both boards. I know I am against my friend Tomkins here, who would like to see things beautiful. But I want to come around first and get some business, and then a place to live. I will attend to the beauty end of it afterwards. I agree that some of these conditions are shameful and ought to be bettered, but what is the use of bettering things if you cannot get anybody to live there after you get them? There ought to be enough here to do. I want to show the real estate interests of this town, and of Long Island in general, that officially I am for anything and everything that is going to help transportation."

MR. REDFIELD'S SPEECH.

In the course of his remarks Mr. William C. Redfield said: "Can you conceive any other city in the world going in for improvements on the scale of New York? Certainly not Philadelphia nor Boston, nor Chicago. We have advantages here which have long gone to waste simply because we were isolated owing to poor transit facilities. Once let it be possible to ship merchandise from the West to Long Island direct and you will make of the Island a great commercial center and a great home locality as well. The time has almost come for the transformation. Work is now actively proceeding in every big public improvement, a state of affairs which did not exist up to a short time ago. Within a short time there will be thirty-eight tracks connecting Manhattan and Long Island, whereas not so very long ago there was but one poor overworked bridge as a means of communication. Are the executive and engineering departments of the Long Island Railroad being run by fools? Would a great corporation spend $30,000,000 on improvements and expect no proportionate return? Believe me, gentlemen, the future of Long Island is assured. We see three great corporations, the greatest of the kind in the world, competing against one another. I mean the City of New York, the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Metropolitan Interborough Railroad Company. They are all working for the common good and the result of their efforts will revolutionize Long Island."

Addresses or papers were then read by Mr. T. L. McNeece, secretary and treasurer of the Main Line Tunnel Realty Co., on "The Long Island Awakening"; by William C. Redfield, former Commissioner of Public Works, on "The Future of Long Island"; by Melton L. Ecluese, of S. Osgood Pell & Co., on "Long Island's Advantages for the Homeseeker"; by H. Stewart McKnight, of Bayside, on "The Long Island Investor"; by A. L. Langdon, traffic manager, on "The Long Island Railroad"; by H. Allen Terry, of Patchogue, on "The Development of Natural Beauty as an Aid to Realty Value"; by William M. Griffith, Vice President of the Queens County Trust Co., on "The Present and Future of Queens County"; by Walter J. Greacen, of the Atlantic Gulf and Pacific Co., on "Land Reclamation," and by Calvin Tomkins on "City Development and Local Consequences."

A committee of fifteen was appointed to report a form of organization, and the convention adjourned until 1 p. m. Wednesday.

The Committee on Organization consisted of W. A. Ryan, T. I. McNeece, S. E. Bennett, George Fitzsimmons, L. H.

Pounds, Carl H. Nygren, Stewart McKnight, William C. Redfield, Isaac Tuck, F. A. Storm, William M. Griffith, Henry Hirschel, Norris Jacobs, Andrew Rissler, Herman Roobe, H. L. Tenney, C. H. Fredericks, Fred H. Cox, Charles M. Whitney, Charles S. Powell, A. Levy, William Schimmel, D. M. McLoughlin and F. A. Brown.

At Wednesday's session, after hearing the report of the committee, it was resolved to constitute a permanent organization, to be known as the "Long Island Real Estate Exchange," and about one hundred and fifty have signed the membership roll. Hon. Otto Kempner was elected president and T. I. McNeece secretary, and these officers will name the governors, a board that will consist of twenty-five members. The next convention will be at Long Island City, Nov. 19, 1907. After the adjournment President Peters of the Long Island Railroad invited the real estate men to ride in a special car over his railroad to Valley Stream, thence to Rockaway Beach, returning by way of Jamaica Bay. When the special got back to the Flatbush avenue station in Brooklyn several trolley cars were ready to take the whole party to the Consumers' Park Hotel in Flatbush, where they had dinner and listened to speeches by President Kempner, Mr. A. L. Langdon of the Long Island Railroad and Thomas P. Peters, Esq.

The Long Island Railroad

By A. L. LANGDON*

It seems that until the year of the Spanish war a majority of the people, even of the Middle States, knew as little about Long Island as they did about the Philippines. They knew that Brooklyn was on the west end of it and that Coney Island could be reached from Brooklyn, but that east of Brooklyn, if they thought of it at all, it was only as a stretch of barren sand. They have since learned where Oyster Bay is, and many have lately heard of Good Ground. It is possible, however, that some partisan politicians still choose to remain ignorant of the fact that Good Ground is anything but a sand pile.

For several years the Long Island Railroad Company had advertised Long Island for what it is, and although other sections within one hundred miles of New York have been longer and more generally known, it is surprising that Long Island has not been more thickly settled; that its shores on the Atlantic Ocean, on the Great South Bay, on Peconic Bay, and on Long Island Sound, have not been more occupied by large hotels and residences; that capitalists have been slow to invest in attractions for summer visitors on Long Island shores more naturally beautiful, more quickly and conveniently and less expensively reached than are the prosperous cities on the Jersey coast from either New York or Philadelphia.

When the Pennsylvania Railroad Company acquired a controlling interest in the Long Island Railroad and announced its intention to tunnel under the two rivers and connect Long Island with Manhattan and the main land, there was a great awakening of those who knew Long Island as to its advantages for furnishing homes for the people employed in New York and Brooklyn and for the location of industries.

SINCE THAT TIME THE ISLAND HAS HAD AN ASTONISHING GROWTH, AND THIS IS FAIRLY DENOTED BY THE INCREASE IN THE BUSINESS OF THE LONG ISLAND RAILROAD COMPANY OF ONE HUNDRED PER CENT. IN THE SIX YEARS.

But until the last year or so very little has been said about its agricultural possibilities. It is most remarkable that there are on Long Island, within from thirty-five to seventy miles of New York, thousands of acres of land which have never been cultivated, which have for years produced nothing but cordwood, and which the owners allow to be overrun with fire almost every year. A large part of this land has soil two or three feet deep underlaid with gravel. The best water in the world is abundant, and the climate is more equable than on the main land, and in each locality where any reasonable effort has been made to cultivate the soil it has produced abundantly of all fruits and vegetables which can be grown in this latitude.

Outside of Brooklyn, Long Island should produce all the fruit, vegetables, poultry, eggs and milk needed by its own residents, with a large surplus for the city markets, instead of getting, as it does, a large part of its supply of these things from New York. From Calverton (seventy miles from New York) to the extreme east end of the Island north of Peconic Bay and between Eastport (seventy-one miles from New York) and Amagansett, are some of the most productive farms in the country. From these farms are produced the potatoes and cauliflower for which Long Island is becoming famous, and near Eastport are the largest duck farms in the country. To stimulate an interest in the development of the agricultural possibilities of the territory nearer New York, which for the most part has been regarded as waste land, the Long Island Railroad Company purchased a tract of about eighteen acres near Wading River for an experimental farm to show what can be done by intensive farming in that locality. This was put in charge of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Fullerton, who started clearing the land of scrub oaks and old stumps one year ago.

The experiment has already proven the valuable qualities of the soil, and it is the intention to start another experimental farm in the middle section of the island, near Medford.

Here on Long Island, midway between the east and west ends, and just beyond the limits for a man to locate who expects to earn his living by daily work in the city, is a territory about forty miles long and ten miles wide which by intensive farming would yield a good living for more than two hundred thousand inhabitants, and this land can be had at reasonable prices. In this agricultural section a man of small means, who expects to live on the land the year round, should purchase a plot not too small to produce enough to support himself and family and a surplus to sell, not less than six acres. Probably all men have more or less land hunger—a desire to own land—and it is a worthy object to encourage to the extent of inducing a man to purchase what he can pay for and be satisfied with, but it is a shameful thing to induce a poor man, who has to earn his living in New York, to buy on the installment plan for a home, a small lot so far from his place of employment that he cannot live on it and travel to and from his work every day, and where there is the strongest probability that he will never make more than two or three payments, and will consequently lose what he does pay.

IT IS A GREAT DETRIMENT TO LONG ISLAND TO "BOOM" LAND SALES THAT WILL BE INJURIOUS TO THE PURCHASERS.

It is appreciated that it is very much to the interest of the Long Island Railroad Company to encourage people to settle on Long Island, and this fact is never forgotten by the officers of the company when making time tables or making rates. Perhaps some persons who saw the advantages which the interest of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company would bring to Long Island expected too much too quickly, and have felt some impatience that some needed improvements, both in facilities and service, have been delayed and some dissatisfaction was expressed because the passenger rates were somewhat advanced more than a year ago. But, it should be remembered, that the railroad, with its property conditions, tracks, stations, rolling stock and ferries, had to be taken as it existed.

While for several years the conditions had been continually improved and the train service greatly increased, there was still much needed which could be gained only by time and much expense, and it is only reasonable that the operations of the road should yield revenue sufficient to pay cost of operation, to maintain the equipment, tracks and stations, and enough more to pay the interest on the funded debt and on the bonds issued from time to time for necessary new property, for the rebuilding of the lines in Greater New York to eliminate grade crossings, and for the electrification of the lines.

The Long Island Railroad Company was chartered in 1834 to build a line from the village of Greenport to the water's edge in the village of Brooklyn, with the expectation that it would connect with steamboats for New England in making a through line from New York to Boston. The road was built through to Greenport in 1844, and was used for a through line between New York and Boston until the all-rail line was completed between those cities. Since then it has been a strictly local road. Most of the other divisions and branches of what now constitutes the Long Island Railroad were built at later dates to accommodate the business of both the south and north shores of the Island, growing out of the fish and oyster industries and the needs of summer residents.

None of the railroads were operated with financial success. After bankruptcies, foreclosures and re-organizations all the other lines were acquired by the Long Island Railroad Company by purchase or lease after it had passed through two periods of receiverships.

The greater part of the business of the Long Island Railroad has always been the transportation of passengers between New York and Brooklyn and local points on Long Island for short distances. The earnings from freight have never been much more than one-half the earnings from passenger trains, and the earnings from passenger trains in the three summer months have been about three times as much as for the three winter months in the same year, thus making it necessary for the handling of the summer business to keep rolling stock and terminals sufficient for twice the average business of each year, and also to have men trained from the transportation and traffic service for more than twice the length of time they were actually needed.

The average distance of travel on the Long Island Railroad has been less than fifteen miles, its two longest divisions being 94 miles and 116 miles respectively. The operations of the road have been unusually expensive because the system is made up of so many lines, most of them too short and with stations too close together for economical train operations and the many stations for the small amount of business done at each, makes the station expenses unduly large for the aggregate business.

Another large expense in the operation is the maintenance of watchmen at the numerous street crossings, particularly in Greater New York, and these numerous crossings interfere with economical train operations. These unfavorable conditions will be largely overcome by the electrification of the short train lines, namely, the north side division to Port Washington, the Whitestone branch, the main line to Mineola, the branch to Garden City and Hempstead, and the Manhattan Beach division. It is hoped that all this will be accomplished within three years.

The line from Flatbush av through Jamaica to Queens and Belmont Park, the old Southern Road to Valley Stream, the Rockaway Beach division, and the Far Rockaway branch are now operated by electric trains at a considerable saving in the running time on each division, but up to the present time at no saving in the cost of operation, because of only a partial use of the power and appliances provided for the service.

COST OF ELECTRIFICATION.

The Long Island Railroad Company was the first to adopt the use of electricity for train operation in a large way, and necessarily these operations have to some extent been experimental. The electrification of its lines has already cost five and one-half million dollars, and within three years the expenditures for the electrification of other parts of its system, with necessary track additions, will probably be seven and one-half million dollars more. Nearly three and one-half million dollars have been expended by the Long Island Railroad Company for rebuilding its road to eliminate grade crossings on Atlantic av, and seven and one-half million dollars will be expended in the rebuilding to eliminate all grade crossings on the Manhattan Beach division and Bay Ridge division. Probably six million dollars more will be required for the same purpose for the lines of the company in the Borough of Queens.

These are tremendous expenditures for the Long Island Railroad Company, which, by modern comparison, is a small corporation. Since the great improvements were undertaken, requiring extraordinary expenditures, many comparatively minor improvements have been made. Terminals and other passenger and freight yards have been made and increased, many new stations built, additional rolling stock acquired, and although the new work had unavoidably interfered somewhat with current business, the train service has been increased and improved.

It is believed by the management that the services rendered by the Long Island Railroad Company are, for the most part, AS GOOD AS THE CONDITIONS WARRANT, and that under the circumstances and conditions the rates charged are fair and reasonable. In February last reduced rate 10, 20 and 50-trip tickets were put on sale; in May, in addition to the 1,000-mile books, which had been used, 500-mile books, good for families and employees, were put on sale at 2 cents a mile, and beginning with October our commutation rates will be made the same for every month in the year.

In this connection it should be considered that the Long Island Railroad Company has taken upon itself a great burden, the successful carrying of which will give to Long Island advantages beyond easy comprehension.

Further, that it is the knowledge of what is being accomplished by the vast expenditures of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and the Long Island Railroad Company, and the perception by those most alert in such matters of the benefits which will consequently accrue to the property owners and residents, that has so remarkably increased, and as a knowledge of the conditions and facts extends, will continue to increase the values of real estate on Long Island.

When electric trains are operated through between Manhattan and Long Island, the service will be much improved beyond the points to which they run, and one can hardly estimate the extent to which the increase in values of land near the railroad stations within commuting distance may legitimately go.

May I suggest to you gentlemen, who have so much power to determine the character of the developments on Long Island, that in the sale of lots in every residential section more than ten miles from the East River, building line restriction should be provided SO THAT EVERY HOUSE SHALL HAVE A LAWN WHERE THE CHILDREN CAN PLAY AND THE ROBINS RUN.

Then it may be expected that for many years to come a continually widening zone to the East will be well covered with comfortable homes to which workers from the busy city will be glad to come.

The Board of Education adopted its budget for 1907 at a special meeting this week. It estimates that it will need $26,795,398.13 to run the system next year. This is an increase of $3,437,209.44 over the amount allowed by the Board of Estimate for this year. There is an increase in the general repairs item from $1,185,247.74, asked for this year, to $1,379,232.38 for next year.

Awakening of Long Island

By T. I. McNEECE

On every hand we hear the question, Is this a boom that is destined to subside? My answer to this question is that I believe we are on the threshold of a new era in the history of this island whose inherent values have long been dormant. It is but a few days since we were informed that the City Comptroller had discovered a plot of land worth $1,000,000 to New York City. It would not be difficult to prove that scores of similar discoveries could be pointed out in the case of the broad acres of Kings, Queens and other counties on Long Island. The island in fact is literally being rediscovered.

Let us analyze the situation. WHAT IS A BOOM? For convenience sake we take as a definition an inflated state of prices, fixed by speculators and professionals, which prices are unwarranted and cannot stand because they are unsupported by proper influences. The real value of land, according to the world-wide theory of Ricardo, is based on the rent that accrues from it, taking into consideration the market surroundings. The rents in Long Island have followed because the population is being driven from Manhattan and other points by the excessive rents there. Manhattan is destined for business only, and people must reside elsewhere. Then another power upon which this movement is based is the activity of the outside investor who has become interested in New York real estate. The out-of-town investor surprises us every day, acting directly without any agent in the case. He knows that he stands to make enormous profits (as his friends have done in the past). Again the myriads of in-town investors, who formerly put their money into insurance companies for the benefit and glory of insurance magnates, realize that an investment in real estate presents the finest field. Still another class of investors is the person who selected savings banks that pay small percentage (the great profits being taken for directorial work). In other words, the masses are becoming educated and are learning that the best security on earth is the earth itself, while at the same time it gives the greatest profits. One more power in this movement is the general prosperity of the country, which prosperity is reflected in all its refulgence in this great metropolitan city of the world (with America to the west and Europe to the east).

Glancing for a moment at the growth of New York, we find the population increased as follows:

In 1653 the population was.....	1,120
1800.....	60,489
1825.....	166,136
1850.....	515,547
1875.....	1,041,886
1893.....	1,891,306
1898.....	3,350,000
1906.....	4,014,304

An expert who is in charge of the census bureau in Washington, basing his conclusions on building operations, past gains, city directories, local censuses and personal observations, recently stated that the population of Greater New York in 1910 will be 1,000,000 greater than at the present time. These figures are backed by good, sound reasoning of the author. Where are the people going to live? For seventeen miles north of City Hall and Herald Square—the two grand focal business centres of this great city metropolis—the land has been taken up.

Land in the Bronx, immediately on transit, has become generally too expensive for residential purposes. Land in Brooklyn is fast reaching that point. The exigencies of the case demand other fields, and Long Island has been selected as the special one because of its proximity, its accessibility and climate.

Synchronous with this tremendous increase of population and partly as a result of it, we have the evolution of transit. When New York had a population of 1,120 and a few huts at the Battery, the omnibus served well. Later, horse cars were introduced and the city area widened to the Astor House. Subsequently steam elevated lines were constructed, and the boundaries were pushed to 23d st, then 59th st and Harlem. Electricity was introduced and people were enabled to reside at various distances. To-day we have the subway and the electrified railway lines—the two greatest of all transit accessions. Necessity demanded it. This is the electric transition period, and Long Island is destined to lead the world in the movement. Electricity has made the subways and tunnels possible and feasible. It follows, we have the great operation of modernizing the capital's transit.

Five hundred millions have been spent or are being expended or will be expended in the near future in subways, tunnels, bridges and other means to enable us to convey the seething masses of this great city. All these will be lasting, civic and railway monuments which are making Manhattan the business heart and Long Island the residential body. The subway awoke a realization of the solution of rapid transit along the lines of which the channels of population flew. Brooklyn has grown from one half million to a million and a half through the influence of one bridge. What is going to happen in Long Island when four bridges and twenty-six tracks through tunnels are in operation? Williamsburgh Bridge has recently built a new city in East New York. The Blackwell's Island Bridge will build three more cities. The tunnels will make themselves felt in every borough and indirectly down the island. "Out of sloth and apathy comes the awakening. Then, gentlemen, it is a fallacy to call this a boom where land is situated on the transit lines within the limits of the borough on Long Island. This movement is propelled by influences that are a millionfold more potent than all fictitious prices that could ever be fixed. We are but the mere incidents to the motion to this powerful wheel of progress of New York City.

No man has yet correctly estimated the far-reaching influences of electricity. It has cut running time from various suburban points in two. It has doubled and quadrupled the value of land, and we are told that it is extraordinary to see land advance in but a few years from $500 to $4,000 per acre. My opinion is that land favorably situated on transit lines in Long Island within the city limits will advance to $10,000 per worthy of the highest eulogium. They are the conception and works of master minds. In addition to this admirable side there is a business phase—the expenditure of one hundred and fifteen million dollars must be compensated.

It must be accounted for as an investment. There is only one way. The people must be induced to move to Long Island, and particularly along the Long Island Railway. How can we induce people to do this? We as real estate men are using every effort to accomplish it. We desire and seek the co-operation of the Long Island Railway. By way of illustration, I shall mention an almost insurmountable difficulty that occurs almost daily. One of our representatives takes several prospective homeseekers to developments ten, twelve, fifteen and sometimes twenty miles out. The salesman cannot return with all at the same time. In order to give proper impression and even to conceal the actual amount of the fare, he gives a ticket detached from the family trip book. The prospective homeseeker takes the train. The ticket is refused and he is taxed fifty cents for thirteen miles—an extra ten cents being imposed as a penalty. He is disgusted—to use his own words, he says: "I can travel fourteen miles on the subway or elevated lines for five cents, and here on Long Island I am charged ten times as much for the same distance." Two important acre. It has done so in the Bronx because of the influence of the subway and elevated within ten and fifteen minutes of City Hall.

Then, reverting again to Ricardo's theory that the value of land is determined by the rent that accrues from the land, or in other words the value of land is based on rents. At the present time the demand for homes in Queens, Nassau and Kings is away beyond the supply. This is because of excessive Manhattan rental rates referred to, together with a desire which has arisen among the masses to own their own homes instead of paying rent for twenty years and having nothing in the end but the landlord's receipts. For this reason there is now a demand for land and homes created by the influence of the increase of suburban population caused by an exodus from Manhattan.

Gentlemen, I am glad that President Peters, in his letter just read, has suggested the point that undesirable developments too far out should not be endorsed by this convention. In an optimistic movement like the present we always find the bunco steerer, and legitimate operators do not like to criticise him lest the whole situation would be injured. This suggestion is opportune and well taken.

Since suggestions are often helpful, may I venture one? Before doing so, permit me to say that no man admires more than the writer of this article the enterprise and business sagacity of the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Long Island Railroad and its president. We admire the great undertaking and construction of the $60,000,000 depot at Manhattan, the new depot at Flatbush av, the $6,000,000 being expended on the electrification of the lines, their roadbeds, power houses, etc., and the construction of tunnels involving millions. All these works are results follow. First, the temporary sale of the home-site is lost. Secondly, and by far the most important, he is permanently lost to the island as a resident, and a permanent patron is lost to the Long Island railroad. This matter could be temporarily adjusted by issuing a voucher through the real estate man making it clear to the company that the customer was a prospective purchaser.

But there is a matter of much greater genuine significance that can be deduced from this specific illustration. There are two well known economic principles in railway business, viz.: Firstly, taxing the traffic what it will bear. If the taxation is beyond this point there will be no traffic. This is just what has happened and is happening in Long Island. Secondly, the secret of success in passenger traffic consists in the utilization of every seat in every car. The road that is always crowded pays good dividends. We call to witness the subway of Manhattan. When I say "our interests," every resident's interests or future resident's interests are inseparably and indissolubly associated with the interests of the Long Island railroad. The writer would be the last man to support an unreasonable request, but he believes that it can be conclusively proven that it will pay the Long Island railway to assume an attitude in Kings and Queens similar to that of the subway in Manhattan. The system can be made identical by the present third-rail system installed. I mean that it would pay manifold to make a flat commutation for Greater New York. It would be a master-stroke in the interests of the railway. The empty car would disappear. The income of the road would be increased tremendously. The people would follow as they have always done the lines of quick cheap transit. Again, we call to witness the elevated lines and subways.

But you say this is premature. Make a definite announcement stating the time when this would be done, say in six, eight, ten months hence. We have not theory alone for this, but practical demonstration in the case of the Great Northern railway.

The possibilities are infinitely greater in the Long Island railroad because its suburban system is now laid, making it superior to anything in the world. The spur and individual motor can be used, and frequent service with little expense.

Under such conditions we, as representatives at this convention, can build a city of patrons for the Long Island railroad of 400,000 within the next two years, and the results to everybody would be immeasurable. I do not wish to be misunderstood in this matter. I have no sympathy with demagogues who are constantly haranguing the unthinking implying that railroads have no rights. A railroad is a business institution and should be managed in the same way as we manage a real estate company, to pay the best dividends to the stockholders. If any man suggests to me a plan whereby good results can be attained, I should utilize the opportunity. In the same spirit we submit to the present management of this road, which has to my knowledge shown careful consideration of problems duly submitted. To illustrate this, I will only mention the courtesy the possessor of five lots on 21st av, for which he had paid an average of $350 a lot. Mrs. Henderson was not at all pleased at the change of plan, so, to preserve the peace, Henderson deeded the five lots to his wife "for love and affection and one dollar."

A few months ago Henderson died. His widow, clearing up the affairs of the little estate, bethought her of the Bensonhurst lots. "Probably aren't worth the taxes," said her sister. "You'd have been better off if Frank had put that money into life insurance."

The widow sought the real estate man. "Five lots on 21st av?" said he. "Well, it's not a good time to sell; but I could find you a quick customer at a flat price of $10,000—might get you a little more than that, if you will sell one lot at a time."

Mrs. Henderson sat up in some astonishment. "Ten thousand dollars!" she said. "Why, Mr. Tyler, you sold my husband those lots, and he only paid seventeen hundred dollars or so for the five of them."

"I remember it well," said the real estate man. "Frank wanted to buy more life insurance—an annuity, or something of the sort—and I made him take the lots. Now, don't you think real estate was the better investment of the two? You couldn't make $2,000 earn $10,000 in six years by life insurance, shown by the President in dealing with the continuance of the Huntington "flyer." As a member of this convention I believe this is the most momentous question before us. My desire is that we do something tangible. I have well grounded confidence that we shall have the fairest hearing of the fullest investigation along the lines that I have submitted in this paper. Believe me, the Awakening will be unparalleled in history.

A Bensonhurst Real Estate Story.

Here is a little real estate story with a moral to it, as told by the Bayside Review:

In 1900 Frank Henderson, whose income averaged $2,500 a year, found that a relative had remembered him in his will to the extent of $2,000. Being of a thrifty disposition, he desired to put the $2,000 to work, so he asked the advice of his friend, Johnson.

"Your health isn't any too good," said Johnson, "it sounds cold-blooded, I know; but, if I were you, I'd put that money right into life insurance—buy an annuity or something of that sort for your wife, if they'll take you as a risk."

Henderson thought this such good advice that he communicated with an insurance company, and a complaisant examiner passed him as "a fairly good risk."

The day the premium was to be paid Henderson met Tyler, a real estate man, in whose judgment he placed confidence. He told him of his insurance intentions.

It ended by Tyler persuading Henderson that real estate was a better investment than life insurance, and before Henderson quite realized that the thing was being done he found himself at least, I don't think you could do it safely. Anyway, you have always had the lots. You've got them yet, and if you take my advice you will hold them. They are worth more than $2,000 each.

—During the past summer the Municipal Art Society has called the attention of the Hon. Moses Herrman, Park Commissioner for the boroughs of Manhattan and Richmond, to the deplorable condition of the parkway on Broadway above 59th st. This parkway offers better opportunity for decorative planting than any other street in the city, but since the construction of the Subway and the removal of the trees consequent thereto this street has been sadly neglected. It is the opinion of the Society that the path at present laid out in the center of this parkway will never be used on account of its exposed position, the impossibility of planting large trees and the location of the ventilating holes from the Subway, and that the best solution of the problem can be found in the experimental block between 87th and 88th sts, now planted, fenced and cared for through the generosity and public spirit of Mrs. Potter. President Herrman has expressed his approval of the proposed improvement, but has stated that he has no appropriation for carrying out the work. He has further stated that an appropriation would be requested for this purpose in the autumn. The Municipal Art Society, through Charles H. Israels, chairman of the Society's Committee on Street Fixtures, petitioned the Board of Estimate that such an appropriation be granted, and also to be informed of the time when the matter will be considered by the honorable body in order that the Society may be represented at the hearing.

THE REALM OF BUILDING

Description of the Marbridge Building.

The new Marbridge Building, at the northeast corner of Broadway and 34th st, and Nos. 66-74 West 35th st, will cover a plot measuring 178.9 ft on Broadway, 150 ft on 34th st, 93 ft on 35th st, covering an area of 28,800 sq ft. It will have eleven stories, together with a basement and sub-basement, and will be strictly fireproof and thoroughly first class in construction. Occupied by stores in the first story and basement and by lofts in the second to fourth stories, the other seven floors will be for offices. The facades will be of Italian Renaissance design, in Bedford buff Indiana limestone, for the entire height, with cornice and balustrade of same material. The skeleton wall construction will be used with girders and steel columns carried on steel grillage resting on rock. The floor construction will be of reinforced concrete type, with a roof finished with hard vitrified "Ohio" tile. Each office will be furnished with a porcelain lavatory and will have a telephone conduit extended to it for local and long distance service, with ample toilet rooms for men and women in each story. All halls and corridors, together with all toilet rooms will be finished with tile floors and marble wainscote or base. The stairways will be strictly fireproof, enclosed in fireproof terra cotta blocks, with self-closing fireproof doors on each floor. The service to upper stories will be by eleven high-speed hydraulic plunger elevators and two sidewalk lifts. A freight elevator will be furnished with a high-power auxiliary pump capable of lifting 10,000 lbs. Stores will have electric escalators running from basement to second story, this service being both up and down. Mail chutes will be provided by the main entrance on Broadway, also on 34th st. The building will be equipped with four B. & W. safety tubular boilers aggregating 1,100 H. P. for power and using the exhaust steam for heating. The electric lighting service by four high-speed engines and dynamos. Stores are to be ventilated by large exhaust fans and blowers run by electric motors supplying tempered and filtered air. A vacuum sweeping plant will be provided in all stores, lofts and offices. Also a pneumatic carrier plant will be provided for cash carrier. A complete fire service will be provided with three stand pipes having outlets on each story, equipped with 100 ft of standard fire hose on reel and three separate Siamese connections, one on the sidewalk on each front of the building. All stores and lofts will be provided with an automatic sprinkler system, having the piping concealed in the floors, the heads only being exposed on the ceiling. The sprinkler system will be supplied from 75,000 gallons of water in pressure tanks and 75,000 gallons in gravity tanks on roof. Tanks will be connected not only with sprinkler system, but also with the Croton mains by two high-power fire pumps connected automatically. The water used throughout the building will be filtered. Owing to the depth of the boiler-room floor below the sewer level, all sewage from basement and sub-basement fixtures will be drained into a sewer by an automatic sewage lift. The estimated cost of the edifice is $1,500,000. Wm. R. H. Martin is owner; Townsend, Steinle & Haskell, architects, and Chas. T. Wills, builder.

Plans for Broadway and Exchange Place.

BROADWAY.—The Knickerbocker Trust Company, owner of the northeast corner of Broadway and Exchange place, a plot 60x131 ft, on which now stands the southerly part of the Consolidated Exchange Building, has commissioned Messrs. McKim, Mead & White, 160 5th av, to design plans for a high office building to be erected on the site. The property now extends along the northerly side of Exchange place to and including the corner of New st. The Knickerbocker Co. paid for the site, which contains 8,371 square feet, about $200 a square foot, or $1,700,000. Work of demolishing the old exchange, it is said, will begin next spring. The Exchange occupies the site under a ground lease, which has some extended time yet to run, so that the new Knickerbocker Building may have to be delayed for a time. Chas. T. Barney is president of the company. Of course, no building contracts have been let.

Steel Contract Let for Broadway-Cortlandt.

BROADWAY.—The Broadway-Cortlandt Co., Robert E. Dowling, president, has awarded the contract for supplying and erecting 14,000 tons of steel needed in the erection of the new 26 and 33-story office structure about to be built at Cortlandt, Church and Broadway, to the American Bridge Co., of 42 Broadway. V. J. Hedden & Sons Co., No. 1 Madison av, is general contractor, and Francis H. Kimball, 71 Broadway, the architect. The cost of the building is estimated at $3,400,000. (See also issue of Sept. 8, 1906.) Other large contracts obtained by the American Bridge Co. recently were for 20,000 tons of bridge construction required by the Harriman Co., 1,500 tons of bridge work for the Pennsylvania Railroad, in Chicago, 300 tons for the Pittsburg Plate Glass Co., and 900 tons for the Great Northern Railway.

Lawyers Title Insurance & Trust Co. to Build on Broadway.

BROADWAY.—That the large title insurance companies are concentrating on lower Broadway is becoming a noticeable fact. Following the completion of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company's new structure at Nos. 176-178 Broadway, the Lawyers Title Insurance & Trust Co., of No. 37 Liberty st, is now to erect a handsome new building covering Nos. 160 to 164 Broadway, running through with a frontage at No. 6 Maiden lane. The number of stories, kinds of materials to be used and estimated cost of the project have not yet been determined. Messrs. Clinton & Russell, of No. 32 Nassau st, have been commissioned to design the structure. Of course no building contracts have been issued.

Two New Public Libraries.

115TH ST.—Messrs. McKim, Mead & White, 160 5th av, are to design plans for two new Carnegie libraries, to be known as Nos. 32 and 37, one to be situated on the north side of 115th st, between 7th and 8th avs, and the other on the north side of 124th st, between 5th and Lenox avs. When plans are ready bids will be received by the architects.

Churches.

Joseph J. Jackson, 1123 Broadway, Manhattan, has completed plans for a church, 70x125 ft, for the St. Casimir Polish Congregation to be erected at Terryville, Conn., at an estimated cost of $25,000.

Finishing touches are being put on the new Columbia University Chapel, St. Paul, on the college grounds facing Amsterdam av, and it is now expected by late fall the dedication will take place. The contractors now await the arrival of some interior carved woodwork from Italy. One of the special features of beauty of the chapel is the three chancel windows by John La Farge, which represents St. Paul preaching on Mars Hill. The structure was designed by Messrs. Howells & Stokes, 100 William st.

Theatres.

Messrs. Dodge & Morrison, 82 Wall st, Manhattan, are preparing plans for a theatre to cover an area of 120x125 ft, to be erected at Nos. 196-198 West Madison st, Chicago, Ill., to cost about $300,000. The Hyde & Behman Syndicate will be the owners.

The Lincoln Theatre, Broadway and 66th st, just completed, will be opened on Tuesday, Oct. 30. This playhouse is equipped with a thick steel curtain, augmented by a water curtain, instead of the usual asbestos curtain, the first of the kind to be introduced here.

An agreement between the Bricklayers' Unions, signed some months ago, provides for concrete work being done by bricklayers, as well as brick work and fireproof block work. A clearer definition of what is meant is given in a notice served on the contractors this week, to this effect: "That notice be herewith given to the Mason Builders' Association, to all general contractors who are not members thereof, and to all architects in the City of New York, that whenever and wherever concrete is used in building construction within the limits of said municipality the work must be done by union bricklayers, none of whom will hereafter seek or accept employment from any contractor, owner, or architect that fails to comply with this requirement." The bricklayers will insist not only on laying concrete and terra blocks and making concrete floor arches, but also on the right to pour concrete in the framework, of walls of reinforced concrete, hitherto done by laborers, at the regular bricklayers' wages of 70 cents an hour. The work of laying concrete blocks is regarded as bricklayers' work now.

Proportion of Aggregates for Concrete.

The Vulcanite Portland Cement Co. has published for gratuitous distribution a pamphlet, "Economical Selection and Proportion of Aggregates for Concrete," by Albert Moyer. The object of the article is to give a practical method which will enable any concrete constructor to make economical use of the best aggregates, so proportioning them as to give the maximum strength and density with a minimum amount of cement. Concrete under discussion is plain and not reinforced. For reinforced concrete an overcemented mixture is sometimes necessary, particularly in column construction.

There is a theory that the strength of concrete depends entirely on the adhesion of the cement to the sand and stone. The writer cannot see any tangible reason for this theory as applied to compression strength, for which concrete is designed. Eliminating tensile strength from the mind, it would be possible to make a concrete with a non-cementing material, which could be poured in between the particles of sand and stone so as to fill the voids. While this material would not adhere to the sand or stone, it binds around each particle and thus not only furnishes an arch action, but by its own strength keeps the mass from spreading. Portland cement not only binds around, but also adheres to each particle of the aggregate. Therefore maximum density is maximum strength in a well-balanced concrete of the best materials.

The ideal or theoretically perfect concrete is stated in the work to be that in which the best aggregates are scientifically proportioned and graded in size so as to reduce the percentage of voids to the minimum giving the greatest density. It is theoretically possible to so grade the aggregates in regular progression from two to three inch stone down to distinct pieces the size of dust, so that the voids of each progressive volume are filled with the largest size particles that will fit them. Thus a minimum of cement will give a stronger concrete in compression than could be obtained with a larger percentage of cement, using same quality of sand and stone, but not properly graded in size.

After describing the character of the ingredients entering into good concrete the author turns to a consideration of the proper proportion of these ingredients or aggregates. First in order are the larger aggregates. Having selected the available stone or gravel best adapted for the character of construction desired, it is necessary to determine the voids or spaces between the stones, in order to ascertain the quantity of mortar required to bond together the stone or gravel, at the same time furnishing a maximum density with a minimum amount of mortar. The following is a table, which if followed accurately will be a simple method of furnishing this information:

[Make a box of such dimensions as will contain 3 cubic feet (1x1½x2). Dry the stone or gravel, heated over 212° F. Throw stone in box loose, small quantity at a time; level off top with straight edge. Having first weighed the box, weigh the box when filled, deduct the weight of the empty box from the gross weight and divide the net weight (which is the weight of the contents) by 3, which will give the actual weight of one cubic foot. Apply following table:]

Activity Predicted for Yorkville.

"The present conditions of the money market is due to the money which has been taken from the city and sent out West," said E. V. C. Pescia, of 206 Broadway, Manhattan. "The banks cannot accommodate the merchants, who generally secure certain amounts to invest on real property on their notes, on account of the withdrawal of the savings of the medium class who have invested and are investing in suburban property.

"Another reason to be taken into consideration is that money can be loaned on Wall street to brokers, etc., on a basis of 7 per cent., for a six months' call. This is one of the reasons why the mortgage money is hard to secure. They look at it in this light: Why should they loan money for a term of three or five years, at 5 and 6 per cent., when they can get 7 per cent. for a six months' call?

"The moneyed class is still at the watering places and in Europe. They are expected to return in October, when we are hopeful of the money market loosening and the money that is tied up put in the market and invested. These and various other reasons prevent the banks from loaning on mortgages and investments. We are of the opinion that the boom in the suburban property is about at an end, and this fall will see a steady market in this city.

"The title companies, insurance companies, and banks will not loan any mortgage money or building loans on account of the amount of lis-pendens being filed against buildings now in the course of construction, etc. This also has a tendency to keep prospective investors and speculators from going in on a large scale.

"This fall will see a great demand for property in the Yorkville and Harlem sections on account of the easy access to the trolleys, elevated roads, bridges, subways, etc."

Outing of Building Department Employees.

The fourth annual outing of the Associated Employees of the Building Department of Manhattan and its sister boroughs, which was held on Sunday, the 16th inst., at Glenwood, Long Island, was the best yet of the jollifications arranged by this thriving organization of Civil Service members. It began with a really delightful three hours' sail up the Sound to Hempstead Harbor in a breeze that made the sailors sing in glee and sharpened all appetites for the generous breakfast aboard.

When Glenwood was reached the department athletes competed in an attractive string of games for prizes in the form of handsome miniatures in gold of the department seal. The fun of these events, of course, centered in the fat men's race, umpired by Chief Inspector Bernard Gorman and ex-Assistant Superintendent John L. Jordan, with many bulky contestants, and in which the honors were carried off, amid tumultuous cheering, by former Superintendent Perez M. Stewart. His prize now adorns that watch and chain that the employees unanimously presented to him when he was Manhattan's Building Chief. The other events were won in the following order:

100-yard dash, James Hickey, putting the shot, Inspector James Garvey; bowling contest, Inspector Charles Moore. The open-to-all swimming contest was captured by George F. Gegenheimer, chief of Tiffany's designing department, who was a guest of the association.

At the mammoth clambake feast that succeeded the games the prizes were presented by former Superintendent Isaac A. Hopper in an address in which he introduced a strong plea for adequate public recognition of the responsible work performed by the department attaches in their official capacities. Ex-Superintendent Stewart seconded this sentiment eloquently and heartily in a level-headed speech. William J. Colihan, the young and energetic department secretary, was a genial representative of Superintendent Edward S. Murphy at the feast.

The outing was admirably managed by this corps of officers: President, Herbert W. Smith; Vice-President, J. J. Montgomery; Secretaries, Albert A. Lexutt and L. F. Soich, and Treasurer, Timothy E. Deegan, "Wide Awake Tim," as he is popularly known, and these committeemen: Thomas W. Byrnes and Messrs. Garvey, Drennen, Montgomery, Judge, Flynn and J. J. Dolan.

—Builders find their hardest problem in placing permanent loans on their new structures. If the money market would permit them to turn their holdings into cash the greatest obstacle to an active real estate market this fall would be removed.

held on the premises at Larremore, Yale and Harvard avs. T. F. Archer is the auctioneer.

There is an excellent demand on the Heights for large elevator apartments—that is, for those having six or eight rooms of comfortable dimensions, and by excellent demand we mean from people willing to pay the price.

Arthur G. Muhlker, real estate and insurance broker, with offices in the Yorkville Bank Building, 3d av and 85th st, has been active in that section for some years. Mr. Muhlker's revised list of properties for sale contains some bargains that should command the immediate attention of prospective buyers.

Webster B. Mabie, real estate broker and appraiser, is now located at 41 West 33d st, where he has well equipped offices for the transaction of business. Mr. Mabie has for sale some choice parcels of investment property, a few of them on Broadway.

The sale of 99 lots at Oyster Bay by T. F. Archer, as auctioneer, scheduled for Sept. 27, will take place on Saturday, Sept. 29, at 2 o'clock p. m., on the premises, Audrey and Maxwell avs, West and Main sts, Oyster Bay. This property is situated in the heart of the village.

Only a few years ago many savings banks reduced their rate of interest to depositors because money was so plentiful that they could not lend with sufficient advantage to continue paying 4 per cent. Under the present changed circumstances, how many will restore the former rate?

The houses in the section west of Broadway on the upper west side, all the way up to Columbia University, are already practically nearly all rented for the coming season. The inquiry thereabouts is chiefly for eight-room apartments, although the smaller suites of four and five rooms are also renting readily.

Bay Ridge and Fort Hamilton have been active during the week. The section undoubtedly is a favorite one, judging by the influx of population. Between 60th st and the Shore rd and the bay and 10th av more than 500 houses, most of the two-family style, are under construction, and no sooner is a row finished than another is begun. As far as opportunity to sell them or to have them occupied is concerned, no apprehension need be felt; they are sold or rented long before completed.

Among the significant loans reported in last week's mortgage list for Manhattan was one of $15,000 by the Emigrant Savings Bank, one year, 4½%; another by the Lawyers' Title Insurance & Trust Co. for $45,000, five years, 5%; $130,000 by the Mutual Life Insurance Co., $150,000 by the Equitable for three years at 5%; $27,000 by the American Savings Bank, three years at 5%. Also a recent loan of $315,000 on 5-sty flats, by a trust company, and another for $135,000 by an insurance company. All of which indicates more normal condition of affairs in the money market.

Suit has been brought by the Cedar Street Company against the Jauncey Company and others to foreclose a mortgage of $77,000 on the Jauncey Building, at the southeast corner of Wall and Water sts. The mortgage was made by the Jauncey Company to the United States Realty and Construction Company, and was assigned on Nov. 22, 1905, to the Cedar Street Company. The property is subject to a prior mortgage of $250,000 held by the United States Trust Company.

"In spite of all the black talk heard around town about high money I find the realty market far from unsatisfactory," said a Brooklyn operator. "Buying has not yet proven quite so aggressive as was anticipated, but I assign no other reason than a protracted summer. The vacation season in the realty field started in very late this year and consequently is extending into the fall. While I am playing a waiting game, as it is called, I feel sure that the coming season will not be disappointing. Prices are firm and owners are holding tenaciously to what they have, confident of the future. Buyers are anxious to purchase, and if prices are not put too high heavy trading should ensue."

The Hebrew Free Loan Association is now occupying its new home, No. 108 2d av, which it recently bought. This association (the title of which is somewhat misleading), one of the best of its kind in the city, makes loans to all applicants, without distinction of creed or nationality, without interest or charge of any kind, for security notes are given with one indorsement, and where the amount is over $25 two indorsements are required. These loans, as a rule, are made for short periods and can be paid in monthly payments. Loans are made to all classes of mechanics and tradesmen who find themselves short of ready cash and wish to tide over their financial difficulties without sacrificing their stock. The association has been organized fourteen years and has made 88,592 loans, amounting to $1,913,191. The association is supported by the rich Hebrews of the city who desire to help their own as well as Christians. Any further information can be obtained by communicating with Meyer Goldberg, vice-president, 157 East 74th st.

Bids will be received by the President of the Borough of Brooklyn, Wednesday, Sept. 26, for furnishing and setting of lighting fixtures in the Gates av court house, Gates av, near Marcy av, Brooklyn. Bids will also be received, on Sept. 26, for making alterations, repairs, additional rooms for use of the Supreme Court Judges in the Kings County Court House, Brooklyn.

Bungalow Settlement at Berkeley Heights.

The Investors' Realty Company; of Plainfield, which was organized four years ago by Plainfielders, whose aim was to develop home building and local property, and of which William Jeffery is the active member, has had great success. Through this company the Berkeley Heights Association was evolved, which was made possible by the interest of Bolton Hall, the noted sociologist, whose foresight saw the possibilities of great opportunities in this section of New Jersey.

Besides its Plainfield holdings, the Berkeley Heights Association purchased a large tract of land at Berkeley Heights, and at once proceeded to develop the same under Mr. Jeffery's direction. This section is now regarded as an established fact, and the Lackawanna Railroad has co-operated in a reasonable manner to facilitate the work of improvement.

Last spring Mr. Jeffery started work of a much larger proportion, and the result has been gratifying to the company, bringing people of repute to this part of New Jersey. A portion of this land, which ascends easterly to an altitude of 500 feet above tide-water, was set aside as a summer resort, and, being particularly adapted to camping, work was commenced to establish one, now known as "Ye Olde Mountain Camp." The undertaking was under the management of Francis E. Bodin and proved a success from the start. A pretty entrance was erected on Plainfield avenue, leading directly to the camp, a road having been cut through a wooded stretch and over a stream with pleasing effect. At the breaking of the camp the guests, about fifty in number, all agreed that it was the best summer they had experienced, both in treatment and from the viewpoint of health, and all were reluctant to go home.

Encouraged by these successes, Mr. Jeffery, in conjunction with Bolton Hall, has arranged for still further developments, both in Plainfield, building homes, and at Berkeley Heights. It is their opinion that in linking these two communities much can be accomplished. Plans are being prepared for the building of a bungalow settlement at Berkeley Heights in addition to the camp, and work on the streets will be continued together with the installation of light and water.

No Building at West Farms.

Speaking of conditions at West Farms, Mr. Jno. A. Steinmetz said this week:

"Builders are wanted here. There are ever so many clients calling in every day for houses, and I have nothing to offer. I don't think there were ten houses built in this section within the last two years, and those that were built were sold and resold. We have the ground, but what we want are the builders.

"Lots are cheap if you consider the rents you can demand. You can look all over this section for rooms, and you cannot get a floor which is fit for a man of moderate means to live in. Where there should be a great demand for lots, on account of the people looking for rooms, there is none whatever. Lots can be bought for less than $4,000, and corner lots for less than $5,000—lots that are excavated and no assessments to pay, and within three minutes' walk from the Subway.

"If we could get the builders interested and get the houses up we can dispose of the houses easy enough. Now I have to take my clients in localities where they are not real pleased with the section, but purchase the property because they want to be near the Subway and cannot get the houses in this locality. There are some sections overdone, and in this section there is nothing done. We have money to loan, but no clients."

The Growth of Brooklyn.

The census which the Federation of Churches took in Brooklyn recently shows that Greenpoint, or the 17th Ward, now has a population of 66,268. This is therefore the fourth most populous ward in Brooklyn, only the 28th, 22d and 23d Wards exceeding it.

The population in this ward increased during the interval between 1900 and 1905 to the extent of 8,959, which is more than half of the increase credited to the rest of the entire Eastern District. In fact, the percentage of increase here in the five years from 1900 to 1905 is twice as large as that of the Eastern District.

This is rather surprising in view of the supposed extent of the influx of Manhattanites to the Eastern District, since the new Williamsburg Bridge was thrown open. Greenpoint has evidently received more new residents than that it has been thought.

The percentage of alien population in this ward is not so large as has been supposed, either, the figures showing that 11.1 per cent. are foreigners. Only one ward in the Eastern District has a smaller foreign population, in relation to the whole, and that is the 13th. The Bedford section has the smallest foreign population percentage of any section in the borough, the figures being 8.2.

The most densely populated ward in Brooklyn is the 16th, which is credited with 249.3 people to the acre, against 80.5 for the 17th. The most sparsely settled ward is the 32d, which has a density of less than 1 per cent., or less than one resident to the acre.

CONVEYANCES

Whenever the letters Q. C., C. a G. and B. & S. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it. The street or avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

4th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

5th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in Section 2, Block 482, Lot 10.

6th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

7th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only, and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's Office to be recorded.
Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.
The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.
Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.
Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

September 14, 15, 17, 18, 19 and 20.

REAL ESTATE transactions for the week now closing have the color and tone of health and good spirits, and have furnished a number of evidences that our large capitalists are returning from their vacations and taking up the strings of business again. In the first half of the week a remarkable interest was being shown in dwelling-house properties of the West Side, and latterly to this was added important transactions in the business district, and also in the money market. Private house buying on the west side of Central Park has become a decided feature after five years of inactivity. Several builders are carrying forward large operations, but more than this, is a new demand for old dwellings as well. Business prosperity has evidently turned the thoughts of many heads of families to the subject of private houses and for several weeks more dwellings have been sold on the west Side than on the East. During the current week also two particularly large loans were made, one for the new Hendrik Hudson apartment house on Riverside Drive and the other for the new Brunswick office building in Madison Square, affording some evidence of a loosening of the money market and also of the truth of the announcement recently made that at least some life insurance companies proposed hereafter to loan funds on real estate direct. Attention was again attracted by important sales and leases in the district between Fourteenth and Twenty-third streets, Broadway and Sixth avenue, where a remarkable rebuilding movement is in its final stage. Soon there will be no dwelling houses remaining in that once fashionable quarter. So far as the departments of real estate and finance are concerned, we consider the improving tendencies permanent rather than temporary, and look for a continued enlargement of business, but probably within more conservative guidance. Secretary Shaw has at last come to the relief of the money situation by releasing some $26,000,000 of the U. S. Treasury's cash surplus, some three millions of which is allotted to New York, a sum no larger than is assigned to Chicago, and quite too small to make us feel particularly grateful. But while real estate trading is showing improving tendencies, building projects are unmistakably diminishing; the plans filed for new buildings this week were very few in number, and the brick market is wavering again. However, the amount of work actually in hand is so immense that it will last for a long period without receiving many accessions.

THE quarterly reports of the New York traction companies make an exhibit which is not creditable to their present management. During the year the cash fares on the elevated roads increased seven per cent., while the car mileage decreased nearly three per cent. The Subway carried an increase of 38 per cent. in the number of passengers, but did not enlarge its car mileage more than 12 per cent. On the surface railroads the receipts were larger by three per cent., but the car mileage diminished by five per cent. It is no wonder that the patrons of the various lines are beginning to complain again; and it is surely most extraordinary that the management of the consolidated company can adopt such a short-sighted policy. It is not simply that good business reasons should urge them to offer the best possible service, because the public immediately responds to an improvement of accommodation. Neither can the unwisdom of such a policy be wholly traced to the fact that inadequate transit service tends to divert population to the other boroughs. On both of these grounds it is foolish not to increase the service as fast as the traffic increases. But there is still another consideration which ought to weigh even more with the management of the consolidated company. That company is dependent on public opinion for any increase in its franchises; and it may be dependent on public opinion for the continued enjoyment of some of its existing opportunities. It is consequently the merest prudence for the company to deal fairly and generously with its patrons, and it will most assuredly reap the fruits of its recent economies at some future time when it stands most in need of public confidence and goodwill.

A CORRESPONDENT, writing to one of the daily newspapers, gives the result of his experience with rents in Manhattan during the last six years. In 1900 he rented a seven-room flat on Manhattan avenue for $30 a month, which was typical of the rents prevailing in the rest of the house and throughout the neighborhood. The owner valued this house at $28,000, for which sum he sold it in 1902 to a speculator. This house has since 1902 been bought and sold four times, and every time rents have been raised, so that the flat which was at first rented for $30 a month now brings $42, and the house, which was valued at $28,000, is now offered at $38,000. The correspondent attributes the increase entirely to unwarrantable speculation, and he cites the case of a neighboring house, bought by an investor in 1899 for $27,000, in which the rents have been very moderately raised, and whose flats are always fully occupied. But surely a speculative movement which succeeded in actually increasing the value of a house $10,000 in four years cannot be entirely without warrant. Undoubtedly there has been a pervasive speculation taking place all over the city, particularly in old law tenements and apartment-houses; but this speculation would have been utterly unsuccessful if conditions had not justified it. In 1900 flat and tenement-house property in certain sections was unduly depressed. Since then many conditions have contributed to make it more valuable, and the speculators have merely taken advantage of these conditions. It is possible that in certain sections of the city they have gone too far, and that during the next few years many tenants will follow the example of the correspondent, and seek pleasanter homes and lower rents in the outlying boroughs. In that case we shall witness another readjustment of rents and values, which ought to place them upon a more permanent level; and in that case the speculators will suffer from their bad judgment, just as they have in the past profited from their good judgment. But in any event the speculator cannot make real estate values. He can only anticipate them. He takes his risks and he makes or fails to make his profits. It is true that he is generally a bad landlord, for his ownership of the property is only temporary, and he is averse to making improvements. It will be a good thing for tenement houses in New York and their occupants when they are less frequently owned by speculators than they are at present; but we imagine that during the next few years the speculator will become a decreasingly important factor in the renting situation. For the present the speculation in tenement houses is over.

THERE is no doubt that one of the crying evils of the day in connection with the congested tenement districts with its half million school population is the paucity of play grounds for children. They have but the pavements of the streets and avenues, which are necessarily full of danger to life and limb. More small parks and recreation piers should be provided by our city authorities in convenient and accessible locations, as a writer in the Tribune puts it, "Wherein all, both young and old, can enjoy amid inviting surroundings, heaven's pure air and cooling breezes. To bring the country to them is what we all would like to do. As we cannot give them the reality let us strive to furnish them with as near an approach to it as possible." A good beginning has been made, but many more of these playgrounds are wanted. Libraries, school houses and hospitals are, of course, indispensable, but there must be opportunity for healthful out-of-doors exercise for school children. It appears that Brooklyn is likely to get a new children's playground without cost to the city. Borough President Coler has discovered that a burial ground adjoining the New Lots Dutch Reformed Church, at the junction of Livonia avenue and New Lots road, East New York, is apparently not owned by any one, and accordingly he has appropriated it on behalf of the city to be used for a children's playground. The plot contains about eighteen city lots; but the little ones of New York should not have to depend on disused graveyards for additional recreation grounds.

The Payroll of New York City.

N discussing recently the financial condition of New York City the Record and Guide purposely made no reference to what is probably the most serious drain of all upon the city's financial resources, because we proposed to deal with this aspect of the matter in another article. The drain which we had in mind was that caused by the payroll of the city; and the New York Times has collected some figures in relation to this source of expenditure which are very significant. It has published the following table, compiled from the returns of the Census Bureau, which shows the amount of money spent on salaries and wages by the five largest cities in the country:

Salaries and Wages.
New York	$56,247,114
Chicago	15,730,992
Philadelphia	11,260,545
St. Louis	6,930,755
Boston	10,437,162

It will be seen from this table that, although the population of New York is approximately equal to that of the other four cities, its payroll is about $12,000,000 more than that of the other four cities combined. And if the comparison is made with individual cities, the showing is even worse. The population of New York is about twice as large as that of Chicago, but it spends three and one-half times as much in salaries. In the same way, its population is three times as large as that of Philadelphia, but its payroll is five times as big. And yet Philadelphia and Chicago are not considered to be cities which are economically governed.

It is this matter of the city's payroll which will bear and repay closer investigation than will that of any other aspect of our municipal government. The amount and the character of the waste cannot be traced to its precise sources without certain detailed comparisons between salaries paid and services rendered, which could only be obtained by prolonged and minute collection of facts. In part, the comparatively large payroll of New York City is undoubtedly due to the circumstance that New York City is obliged to perform certain services from which other cities are exempt. No other city in the country appropriates, for instance, a large sum of money for the maintenance of a Tenement House Department, or for that of a Bridge Department. But whatever portion of New York's comparatively inflated payroll is due to expenditures in which other cities are not obliged to indulge, it is obvious that these special outlays account for only a small portion of the excess. There can be no doubt that New York not only pays higher salaries for a given quality of work than any other city in the country, but that it also pays more salaries for a given amount of work. What the New York taxpayer needs, and has a right to know, is in what departments this leakage occurs, and what means can be taken to diminish and correct it.

The task of pruning the municipal payroll is one of enormous difficulty, from which anybody but a most energetic reformer might well shrink. During the administration of ex-Mayor Low it was asserted in the most positive manner that a new classification of the municipal employees was to be adopted, which would result in a considerable saving in salaries to the city; but for some reason or another the idea never reached the stage even of a definite scheme. The great difficulty is that nobody in the city departments, not even the chiefs thereof, has the slightest interest in seeing that the city gets five dollars' worth of work for every five dollars which is spent. The subordinate employees in the city are secured in their places by the civil service rules. Their tenure of office and their possible advancement do not depend upon efficient and laborious work. Their positions are secured to them as long as they perform their routine duties in a mechanical way, and their advancement depends partly upon political influence and partly upon their intimacy with the heads of the department. These departmental heads, on the other hand, have nothing to gain by economy. They exercise no effective authority over their subordinates, and they have no interest in incurring the unpopularity which any attempt at economical administration would incur. Their interest rather is to secure the personal loyalty of their subordinates by obtaining for them as many favors as possible. Thus the whole service is absolutely lacking in esprit de corps, which is the one quality which can make public servants efficient. Almost everybody connected with the municipal offices, except the responsible financial officials, is seeking to get as much as possible out of the city treasury, and in a rapidly growing city like New York they can use many plausible pretexts. No matter how sincerely the Mayor and the Board of Estimate may wish to prevent an unnecessary increase of the payroll, their hands are tied by their inability to secure any effectual assistance among the departmental heads and their subordinates.

It is not to be expected that a system that is so strongly entrenched, and which is supported by the influence and interest of over 60,000 people, will be easily overthrown. In fact, we do not imagine that, under present conditions, any attempt to overthrow it will be successful. The great initial mistake was made at the time of consolidation, when the salaries of the officials of the outlying boroughs were all raised to the same level as the salaries of the officials in the original city of New York. This act is the greatest single cause of our inflated payroll, and, established as it is by almost ten years of acceptance, it is at the present time irremediable. The best that can be done at present is to stop so far as possible any further inflation. It was expected that the revised charter, which made the Board of Estimate responsible for any increases in salaries, would check the tendency towards undue expansion of the wages fund, but such has not been the case. In three years of 1903, 1904 and 1905, the Budget increased by $13,000,000, while the payroll increased by $8,000,000. The largest part of this increase was due to the augmentation in the number of salaried persons, but a considerable share was due to an increase in salaries, and in any event it is not right that the payroll should increase at a higher percentage than the Budget. In 1903, it was a little over 57 per cent. of the total expenditures, while in 1905 it was almost 59 per cent. It is very much to be hoped that something can be done to check this tendency, and that a detailed investigation will be made in the whole subject, which might possibly be made the basis for some remedial action.

A Suggestion for Obtaining Bridge Relief.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Permit me to state a few facts in regard to bridge relief and the elevated loop. They are two separate problems: Bridge relief can be had at once, without a loop, and the loop cannot be had for years, and it will aid very little in relieving the existing crowded conditions.

For quick relief, merely a slight alteration need be made in the present terminal; this can be done in about a week at a cost of about $10,000. The present terminal contains about 70,000 square feet, of which, during the rush hours, only 10,000 square feet are used, and that in a barbarous way, and the remaining 60,000 square feet are wasted; the passengers have only half a minute to scramble and fight their way into a five-car train, which is an unreasonably short time, and, upon arriving in Brooklyn, they must change cars, climb stairs, wait, fight and scramble into a train a second time.

After the alterations are made the result will be as follows: Almost all of the 70,000 square feet can be used by the passengers; instead of the present conditions, where the passengers have to stand and wait for a five-car train to come into which they have to scramble and fight their way in less than half a minute there will always be three six-car trains (18 cars) waiting about three minutes for the passengers, and, it stands to reason that the scrambling and fighting to get into the cars will be entirely eliminated under the proposed conditions; all Brooklyn trains will come to New York in the rush hours as well as they do now during the non-rush hours; the incoming and the outgoing passengers will be separated; the passengers for the different lines will always enter their trains from the same platform; many more trains can be run, thereby reducing the crowding in the cars themselves; and, the passengers will save time and not be inconvenienced by changing cars in Brooklyn.

When this is done the changes will merely have been from a faulty to a correct system; it will be an every-day terminal, such as is used everywhere else, with not a single new or unusual feature about it, and a like plan can be installed on the ground floor. The ground floor might then be used for terminal passengers and the upper or present floor for through or transfer passengers, and stair-climbing will be entirely eliminated; the upper floor will then be ready for a connection with the proposed elevated loop, or, the space on the upper floor might be divided between the Interborough Co. and the B. R. T. Co., so, if the two companies cannot agree to run over each other's tracks, the passengers would merely have to cross a platform to change from one service to the other, and, if the two companies can agree to use each other's tracks, there is nothing to prevent through service between the two boroughs.

The proposed elevated loop will have the following advantages: About 15% of the people coming over the Brooklyn Bridge can continue their journey up towards Delancey st; it would be of great benefit to the Williamsburgh Bridge, as it can then be used for the elevated service; and about 25% of the passengers coming over the Williamsburgh Bridge might continue their journey towards the lower part of Manhattan. These are all very good points, but they are not what will relieve the congestion at the New York terminal of the Brooklyn Bridge, for that can only be accomplished by an alteration of the terminal itself.

The elevated loop has also some very serious drawbacks:

1st. It will take a long time before it is built.

2d. It will be very expensive considering its very few advantages.

3d. It is supposed to be only a temporary structure for a few years.

4th. It will be very inconvenient to passengers because of its height.

5th. It will disfigure that part of the city through which it is built.

6th. It is not likely that New York will give up its streets for the shifting of empty Brooklyn trains.

7th. Worst of all, it will shut off a connection between the Brooklyn and the Manhattan elevated services.

A better way to do would be, after the present terminal has been modified as proposed, to connect it with the Interborough service and give to that service the same rights as to the B. R. T.

Co., so that the passengers can go from one borough to another; both the B. R. T. Co. and the Interborough Co. could have a circuit over the bridges through the lower part of Manhattan and Brooklyn for a five-cent fare, that is, the B. R. T. Co. would go on a circuit in one direction and the Interborough Co. would go in the opposite direction, and the fares would be divided about evenly between the two companies.

What I want to call particular attention to in this article is, that relief from the present barbarous conditions can be had almost at once or as soon as it is treated as a problem by itself; it has, for a number of years always been tagged on to some scheme, and the public has been led to believe that no relief could be had without those schemes. That is a mistake—the barbarous conditions are caused by using a faulty system, and, until that faulty system is altered into a correct system, no relief can be had.

Yours truly,

N. POULSON.

City Development and Local Consequences

ESSENTIAL FACTORS OF DECENT LIVING

East River Tunnel Lines Should Be Started Without Delay

By CALVIN TOMKINS

TRANSPORTATION is the determining factor in the growth of all large modern cities—transportation of food, raw materials and passengers to and from the city and unrestricted and effective transportation of people within the city. Of all the great cities New York is especially favored, alike in being the great Atlantic seaport of North America, and in having the most favorable lines of railway communication to the interior of the continent. The routes through the Hudson and Mohawk valleys afford the easiest and cheapest roads from the Mississippi Valley to the best harbor on the coast. There has been and always will be free ocean navigation. The growth of the city is, however, hampered by its inability to avail itself of the cheapest railroad transportation from the West, since, if this were permitted, it would seriously affect the railroad systems leading to other seaboard cities and adversely affect the development of those cities. This fact is retarding the city's growth. Railroad competition as regulated by Erie Canal rates has always been the greatest and most persistent problem of the State of New York, just as the local transportation of passengers has become the great problem within the city of New York itself. As is the custom in most other cities, local transportation has been farmed out to private corporations under long term franchises which are naturally treated in such a way as to provide the most revenue for the concessionaires. Abuses of this system are evident enough, but their correction is not so simple a matter. Over-capitalization has so weakened the financial resources of our great transportation companies that they are not in a position to satisfactorily meet the requirements of the rapidly developing city. Out of date methods of transportation cannot conveniently be abandoned by the corporations using them, and the growing tendency for greater public control is making it increasingly difficult to articulate our present private system with the extensions and developments so urgently needed. These difficulties briefly referred to, are, in my judgment, the great factors to be recognized in connection with the immediate development and growth of our city.

The slow and inadequate transportation facilities to which we are and have been for so many years accustomed are not indicative of future methods. Passenger transportation will ultimately be much more rapid than at present. Speeds of 90 miles an hour have been attained with safety, and a speed of 50 miles an hour is undoubtedly practicable if the stopping points are not too frequent. The first effect of subway or elevated systems operated under such conditions must be to greatly increase the availability and consequent value of centrally located property in the metropolis. The second effect will be a similar increase of availability and value of property at present situated at a considerable distance outside of the city, that is, in New Jersey, Long Island, Westchester County and beyond. It is an interesting inquiry, however, as to what effect will be upon intermediate localities, such, for instance, as those included in the four boroughs of the city without Manhattan. To my mind the natural tendency will be to depress rather than to increase values in these localities unless a large foresight shall have provided in advance for local convenience, beauty, sanitation and economical living conditions.

Right here we are brought face to face with the object for which this convention* was called, which I understand to be the consideration of the conditions under which the great Long Island section of New York City shall be developed. Such conditions include the planning and development of an adequate system of streets and avenues which shall make the whole region readily accessible, both as regards its local and long distance requirements; and essentially not a conglomeration of petty private real estate developments connected together by an unrelated street system. I do not think it is an extreme statement to say that heretofore in the history of the city the unorganized influence of real estate men and development companies has done more to interfere with a rational municipal evolution than any other cause. This is the first instance that I know of where a general conference has been called of those best qualified as experts to judge of growing needs incident to the city's development. It is very important that public improvements in connection with parks and highways should at least be planned and definitely determined upon in advance of private improvement, even if the finances of the city will not permit of their immediate realization. In this connection it is most essential for Long Island that lines of seashore and soundshore parks should now be planned for and whenever possible acquired by the city while land is cheap. In my judgment the city now has no greater opportunity for park development than the acquisition of the Rockaway site. Rockaway is likely to be lost just as Coney Island was lost to the city as a consequence of official neglect. As far as practicable the location of civic centers should be arranged for and provision made for the grouping at such centers, about open squares of public buildings, such as school houses, court houses, fire engine houses, libraries and churches. Convenience and beauty will alike be served by such a policy. Of course it is impossible to foresee the precise conditions of development, but foresight can in large measure give such direction both to public and private improvements as shall in the final outcome provide municipal conditions far more desirable than would otherwise have been obtained.

If the essential factors of decent living are not now anticipated and provision made for their accomplishment, I am inclined to think that the substitution of cheap, high-speed passenger transportation will place the land within the four boroughs at a disadvantage as compared with the central district where land will, of course, continually tend to become more valuable on account of its intensive use, and also in comparison with the readily accessible outlying districts where there is plenty of cheap land, light and air, and which are also likely to be better organized because organized later. In other words, the undeveloped parts of New York City should now be most carefully organized if they are to successfully encounter the competition of outside localities.

The metropolitan district of New York City is not confined to New York State, but includes the five northern counties of New Jersey, Long Island and the southern Hudson River counties. That is, the political boundaries of the city do not constitute its social or economic boundaries, and Jersey City, Hoboken, Bayonne, Plainfield, Newark, Passaic, Paterson and the contiguous towns and unsettled parts of this great northern New Jersey district are de facto a part of the city. The War Department of the United States Government has recently recognized the waters of the Passaic and Hackensack rivers as "constituting part of New York Harbor." All of the great western transportation lines of the country, with the exception only of the New York Central, reach New York City through New Jersey, and have their terminals on the western bank of the Hudson. The fact that each of these lines, together with the numerous trolley and subsidiary steam lines of that locality are each year affording better opportunities for homeseekers from Manhattan should be constantly borne in mind, and the further fact that tunnel facilities under the Hudson River are likely to be developed much more rapidly than similar facilities under the East River should not be lost sight of.

It is apparently cheaper and easier to tunnel the bed of the North River than that of the East River, consequently tunnel connections which constitute in fact modernized quick transportation as compared with that afforded by bridges, is likely to be provided more promptly to New Jersey than to Long Island. This is a portentous fact of special significance to those interested in the development of Long Island. The Bronx and Westchester section does not have this problem to contend with, since there is no wide stream to tunnel, and this fact has heretofore constituted a decided advantage which is now likely to be lessened by the future conditions of transit to New Jersey.

All of the tunnels projected by the Rapid Transit Commission to Long Island should be started without delay, even if necessary before the precise lines of subways connecting with them shall have been determined upon. The city has been very remiss in its duty to its Long Island citizens in this particular, and both the city and the State are likely to lose population to New Jersey as a consequence of such neglect. It is the declared intention of the Pennsylvania Railroad to utilize its tunnel primarily for its through business as distinguished from local business. The Steinway tunnel is intended for trolley cars only, and this service does not constitute rapid transit. The city tunnel now being built from lower Manhattan to Brooklyn will be overcrowded at the start, and will not materially or permanently relieve conditions at the Brooklyn Bridge. The Brooklyn Bridge itself is nearly if not quite taxed to its full train-carrying capacity, and its availability for additional train service can be extended only to a very slight degree. Transit conditions between the City Hall sections of Manhattan and Brooklyn must of necessity be very inadequate for a number of years to come, since, with the exception noted, the construction of the necessary tunnels which should connect these two most important civic centers has not even been begun.

It is essential that the three great localities lying to the north, east and west of lower Manhattan should be provided with equal facilities for access to, and egress from, that great center, otherwise districts lacking such facilities will be seriously handicapped in competing for population.

Rapid transit to and from lower Manhattan, together with the observance of a co-ordinated plan of local improvements, are the essential factors to be considered in connection with local development. In many respects the Long Island section has more to commend it to homeseekers and to manufacturing interests than any of the other outlying districts, and if public and private improvements are now planned with foresight, and if such plans shall become well established and grounded in public opinion—which is the only way to make such planning effective—Long Island will not only maintain its position, but it is likely, in suburban competition, to attract capital and citizens from other less favored localities.

Personal.

Stephen M. Wright, the builder, who died on September 22, at his residence at Glen Head, L. I., was a well-known figure in the association affairs of the trade, and latterly no doubt was thought of more in connection with these society interests than as an active contractor and builder. He was for a long period prominent in the affairs of the Mechanics and Tradesmen's Society, and when the National Association of Builders was more active he was also for a time Secretary of that body, and during another era in his life Mr. Wright was the Secretary of the Webb Home and Academy for Shipbuilders at Fordham. Likewise he was long prominently identified with the Building Trades Club, and at the time of his death was a member of the house committee of the Building Trades Employers' Association. For the General Society of Mechanics and Tradesmen he had a strong regard, and during 12 years he was the Secretary; for one year he served as President, and continued either an officer or committeeman up to the time of his death. Mr. Wright will be remembered as a man of intellectual power, as a systematic business man and as a clever executive. Above all he was a man of fine principles. His family of Wrights is long settled in these parts, as his grandfather Stephen built the hull of the "Claremont" for Fulton, as is said, and a great-grandfather, Thomas, was a soldier of the Revolution and a Sugar House prison victim. Mr. Wright was but 65 years old.

Bryan L. Kennelly has returned from a vacation, having made an extended trip on the Continent of Europe.

—The twentieth anniversary of the New York Lumber Trade Association will be held at the regular annual meeting Oct. 10 at the association rooms, 18 Broadway, Manhattan. It is the custom of recent years to precede with a luncheon, served by Delmonico, at 1 o'clock. It is the desire to have every member present at this meeting, as an appreciation of what the association has done for the trade during the past twenty years, and to show their present interest. This meeting should be a record breaker in regard to attendance.

Reclamation of Marsh Land

By WALTER J. GREACEN*

IT IS IMPOSSIBLE to travel over Long Island without being impressed by the extent of the Island that is not yet included in the sphere of your development operations, and the conviction grows that there is land out here and to spare for all your real estate schemes of to-day and many days to come.

A peculiar point of view, you will think, for an advocate of waterfront development with something to say on the economy of reclaiming the waste corners of the Island, but it will suggest a thought. I want, viz.: that values depend on location rather than area. When a client brings you a property to sell, your first question is, not how many acres, but where is it situated? Not how much of it is under cultivation, but how far from the railroad station? And how many trains a day? And you know better than I that a foot of waterfront on Newtown Creek is worth an acre out Greenport way—and one can buy up a township down East for the price of a villa site on Great Neck, where I have been spending the summer.

Now this thought reversed is a paramount idea in land reclamation. If you have a good location, improve it. If you have a hopeless-looking, mosquito-breeding marsh in a spot that has a future—make dry land of it. There are few places in the world to-day where a man can get so big a return for his investment as in the waste marshes of Long Island. Not that reclamation is a cheap or low-priced operation; quite the contrary; it means a considerable outlay, and can be done most successfully on a pretty large scale, and the dredging and filling only done economically by a few large companies who have sunk fortunes in plant and spent a lifetime in acquiring the high degree of technical skill required to operate them to advantage. Do not understand, or be misled in this matter; out of the fleet of seventeen dredging plants owned by our company, no less than seven have been acquired under the hammer from people who had good land schemes but who did not "know how" well enough.

The work is not cheap, but fairly costly, and the profits that I have mentioned must be looked for, and will be found in the greatly increased value of the improved property. Suppose the marsh land costs $500 or $1,000 an acre, and suppose you must spend, relatively, $1,000 or $1,500 on improving it, what does that amount to if your finished property can readily be sold for five, six or even seven to ten thousand dollars an acre?

These figures sound big, but in reality they are conservative, and, if possible in these few minutes, I would like to set you thinking along lines in which such profits can be realized.

There are three distinct purposes for which marsh land is being advantageously reclaimed—terminal and manufacturing sites, residential tracts and amusement resorts. As marsh lands under the first caption, I would suggest the headwaters of Newtown Creek, Flushing Bay, Jamaica Bay and other localities where room for railroad terminal and wharfage is greatly in demand, and where factory sites with deep water channel, properly bulkheaded front and outlet by railroad connection or trucking street bring a hundred to three hundred dollars a front foot.

The localities mentioned are interesting, too, for immediate improvement, so that they may be ready to act as a port of entry for the quantities of building material, coal, supplies, etc., that will be called for in the development of Long Island, to-day, I believe, just beginning. As an illustration of such a property, finished and in use, I might point you to the fine coal-shipping terminal and storage tracks of the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad at Port Reading, N. J. A year ago it was a salt marsh which the company had bought at a nominal sum (I do not recall the exact price per acre which the company's real estate agent told me they paid for it), and after six months of work they have a fine deep-water channel and turning basin in Arthur Kill, and a hard, sandy yard, four or five feet above tide, on which tracks were laid, and large quantities of coal stored as fast as our pipes could be removed from the fill. The adjoining property is now held at a high valuation, and the railroad yard is considered one of the best coal-shipping points on the coast. It was reclaimed from a marsh by merely dredging a basin in Arthur Kill and depositing on the property less than a half million yards of material thus procured. The point to be noted is, that while the original marsh was of small value, and the cost of improvement comparatively insignificant, the value of the improved property is very great.

We have not time to multiply examples, but you men who have in mind the lines of extension to be followed by the railroads, trolley systems, ferries, etc., have a great opportunity, and will appreciate the present psychological moment for investment. My illustration shows the possibilities along the line of transportation progress, and the opportunity is as good for manufacturing and shipping interests. Any waterfront man in New York will tell you of the clients he has on his books ready to pay almost any price for improved property on deep water within ten or twenty miles of New York City, and it is interesting that you cannot persuade a manufacturing concern to take hold of unimproved property, no matter how cheaply you may offer it. They will tell you they have troubles in their own business and want an improved site which they can put to immediate use.

Every time I go along the south shore I wonder how your wealthy residents, and, in fact, any of you, ever endure the hordes of mosquitoes that make life a burden, and the carefully screened houses would seem to indicate that you do not find their presence altogether a joking matter. There is only one sure cure for the mosquito: Cover your marshes, fill them just above tide, and your mosquitoes are absolutely gone. An average of 5,000 cubic yards of filling pumped upon each acre of swamp land would give your beautiful country entire freedom from this distressing plague, and this brings us to the second purpose for which you may advantageously reclaim your marsh lands, viz., for summer residence.

I am sure there is nowhere in this country so well situated a stretch of seashore as the south coast of Long Island—New Jersey cannot compare with it for coolness, accessibility and natural advantages—stretching from west to east it has a perfect exposure to the prevailing summer winds which are southerly and blow in fresh and cool from an unlimited stretch of the Atlantic. With the outer bar to break the surf and provide the delightful sailing conditions of Great South, Shinnecock and other bays, the south shore is ideally located to develop such residential schemes as flourish in New Jersey, and fortunes can be made at it.

Let me give you an example with which many of you are perhaps familiar. At Cape May, N. J., 150 miles from New York and more than half that distance from Philadelphia, an enterprising syndicate of Pittsburg operators are successfully floating the biggest scheme on the Atlantic coast; with no greater physical assets than the waning popularity of Old Cape May, and a three-mile stretch of clean, hard beach, they are building out of the marsh a city capable of accommodating 30,000 people. Eleven to twelve hundred acres of land are being filled well above high tide by depositing on them over seventeen million cubic yards of sand, which is dredged from the rear of the tract, where there will thus be formed a sheltered harbor thirty feet deep. A great hotel, an admirable sewage system and very extensive landscape improvements are being made, and the tract divided into over seven thousand lots.

The character of the marsh land was just what you have on Long Island, and the original cost of the property very small—the improvement will run into several million dollars—but if the lots can be successfully marketed, and I believe these sales are progressing very satisfactorily, you can easily figure that a remarkable profit is in sight for those who had the courage and foresight to undertake this venture.

Now if this scheme is successful in Southern New Jersey, are not the prospects for such an operation infinitely more interesting and practical on Long Island, with its many advantages of climate, beautiful scenery, protected waters for sailing, and especially its close proximity to and accessibility from New York, this greatest city, whose tremendously increasing population look to you for their outing places and pleasure grounds? New York's better class of population supply the greater part of the funds that support all these resorts from Long Branch to Palm Beach, and there should be big money in a well thought out, carefully restricted venture of this kind on Long Island. The conditions on your south shore are ideal.

In a smaller way, I can show you a dozen towns from here to Southampton whose good people tramp through a mile of tall grass and swamp to reach their boats and bathing beaches. Fill in these marshes and you will open to development the most interesting and valuable sections of these towns and bring streets and cottages down to the shore of the bay with absolute freedom from mosquitoes. Such operations in towns of any life whatever cannot fail of success.

Now as to the third purpose for which you may advantageously reclaim the marshes—for recreation and amusement resorts—nothing draws the crowds from a hot city on summer nights and days like the motto "Swept by Ocean Breezes." Coney Island and a dozen lesser ventures near New York, Revere Beach and Nantasket in Boston Harbor, Savin Rock at New Haven and other smaller but profitable resorts, illustrate the immense money-making possibilities in such amusement developments. All over the world to-day the people seem to have an insatiable appetite for amusement. Havana, Cuba, has just opened a phenomenally successful Luna Park, and our company is completing several fine improvements of this kind on the Pacific Coast, on which the waterfront is already valued at $150 to $200 per lineal foot. There seems to be no limit to the number of these resorts that our American people will support if advantageously located. A salt marsh can easily be filled above tide level, and the filling material procured from lagoons and canals dug through it by the same operation. With the addition of good landscaping and some oriental architecture an up-to-date amusement park can be put on the market, ready for renting at fancy figures to those who make it their business to supply the public with the various kinds of excitement and bunco that make these places popular.

You have several locations on Long Island where such developments should prove successful. They need not necessarily draw their patronage from New York or Long Island City, but from Jamaica and Flushing, or any point where a considerable area and population may be reached by the trolley lines. The location should be on the waterfront far enough from towns to give the people a good, cool trolley ride, going and coming home. This idea may be worked out on a large or small scale, as conditions and location warrant. We have laid out and completed plans for many improvements of this kind, and found owners and trolley people quick to see the value of the suggestion and ready to back such schemes with necessary funds and support.

But in addition to the specific purposes which we have discussed, there is a broader and more general reason for filling the marshes. Roughly, seventy thousand acres, or more than 6 per cent of the total area of your island, is waste land, useless salt marshes, more or less covered by the tide, a scar on the beauty of your landscapes, the breeding place of the mosquito. Nothing will so beautify your island and increase the value of your shore front property as removing these distressing marshes which have so long injured Long Island's good name and stood in the way of her progress. And to this convention, called together to study the broader and more general needs of the island, and devise ways and means to develop her attractions and promote her interests, I say, among all the problems that confront you, there are few more important, few that will do more to improve the island, few that will pay you better, than clearing up your waterfront, abolishing your mosquitoes, reclaiming your waste land.

Needs of Long Island.

President Kempner, of the Long Island Real Estate Exchange, is sending out the following letter to members defining objects for which the Exchange should strive:

The Long Island Realty Convention has passed into history, achieving its main object by ordering the framework of a permanent association as expressed in the report of its committee on organization, a copy of which is contained in the enclosed return envelope. That splendid gathering of the real estate forces of Long Island, by its size no less than by its representative character, conclusively established the fact that reputable realty operators are ready and willing to co-operate in a spirit of harmony for the protection of their business interests.

Moreover, it must have impressed every one present that the formation of a society composed of such a vast body of substantial business men as were gathered there, could but signify the establishment of an influence whose potential possibilities for good would be immeasurable. In giving this ocular demonstration and object lesson of the gigantic strength that could be created by and inhere in a union of forces, the convention proved worthy of all the effort expended in bringing it about.

The Long Island realty interest represented at this convention were quick to grasp the opportunities that awaited the advent of the Long Island Real Estate Exchange. The report of the committee on organization mentions some, and I will endeavor to point out a few others—a few of the larger objects for which the Exchange could strive, if approved by the Board of Governors.

First and foremost among these I would suggest that the Exchange advocate the construction of a GRAND BOULEVARD, running through the geographical centre of the island, from one end to the other.

Secondly, I would suggest the creation of A CENTRAL MARKET OR TRADE HEADQUARTERS for the sale of real estate in close proximity to the terminus of the Long Island Railroad in Brooklyn or Long Island City, by locating the new Exchange there, housed in its own office building of modern type.

Thirdly, I urge the formation of a BUREAU OF LAND CULTURE, through whose agency the idle and uncultivated land all over the island could be systematically farmed.

Fourthly, I propose a REALTY AND BUILDERS' EXHIBITION at Madison Square Garden for the display of everything relating to modern house appliances, landscape architecture, road and street building, and the planning of town-sites, and all other things bearing on and essential to the real estate industry.

Each one of the above-named suggestions would require an extended explanation to bring out its benefits, but to state them briefly, I would say that in regard to the first proposition, its realization would add incalculable millions to Long Island property values, not to speak of the rare opportunity for sport and pleasure that so great a driveway would afford, and which would make this island renowned the world over; in regard to the second, that it would concentrate and confine the real estate business in a particular section as a sort of wholesale district, thus rendering it possible to economize materially in rental and advertising expenses; in regard to the third, that it would so hasten the development and settlement of the island that the growth expected in many decades in the ordinary course of events could be attained in a few years, and, lastly, that by an exhibition of the character proposed an intense interest would be awakened in all matters pertaining to the home and to home building that would naturally result in home buying and land investing on a largely multiplied scale. It must be self-evident that in respect to all of the propositions put forth herein, much more could be added to show their utility and far-reaching importance.

In issuing this letter I am prompted by the desire to show that there are things to do, things of great import, which come properly under the scope of the real estate man's work, if he would be up and doing and watchful of his own best interests. That such things can only be successfully carried out by large bodies of men compactly organized and acting in concert for the common good needs no elaborate argument.

By the establishment of our Long Island Real Estate Exchange we have created the medium through which we can take time by the forelock, and make headway at the accelerated rate of speed required by modern conditions. Would you not like to be one of the number that will constitute this pushing, progressive and enterprising body of real estate operators? If so, kindly send in your application for membership at your earliest convenience.

THE REALM OF BUILDING

Columbia's New Chapel.

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY'S new chapel, now nearly finished, with its dome rising to a height of 90 ft., has been so placed as to balance Earl Hall, which occupies a corresponding location to the west of the library building, and the three domes seen from 114th st will form a harmonious arch with the great dome of the central building rising in the centre. The chapel is of the simple Renaissance architecture of northern Italy. It is cruciform in the interior, having its seating capacity centralized under the dome with shallow nave and transepts. The dome is 50 ft. in diameter and will be crowned with a sixteen-sided lantern. Above the great lantern is a small stone lantern surmounted by a stone cross. The dome is tiled in green. Red brick and Harvard sandstone, like in the other university buildings, have been used in the exterior of the building. The interior is finished in light brick and terra cotta. The dimensions of the chapel are 150 ft. by 80 ft., and it will seat, with the choir and galleries, close to 1,000 persons.

Passing between massive stone pillars on the front of the building, entrance is through an open vestibule leading directly into the chapel. At the right and left of the vestibule in the abutting towers are staircases leading up to the galleries in the transepts. The main entrance to the chapel is through the vestibule, but there are entrances at each of the angles of the pillars supporting the dome. The interior of the chapel is entirely of masonry, and depends for its effect on its structural treatment. There are no modern tricks of construction, but the chapel has been built in the spirit of the time to which the design belongs. Everything about it is real, and without pretense—an example of good, old-fashioned construction.

The flooring is of marble and mosaic, and free of seats, except in the choir and galleries, after the fashion of the continental churches.

A quaint feature, unusual in this country but common in Europe, is a little triforium gallery which runs around the dome between the inner dome and the exterior wall. It has thirty-two slender columns supporting the upper dome. Access to this gallery is by a spiral stairway in one of the angles of the transept. In the keystones of the arches supporting the dome are the signs of the four great evangelists.

One of the most attractive features of the chapel is the choir. It is unusually deep for the size of the building and will, in fact, be used for a morning chapel. It will seat some 140 persons and will contain stalls for the use of the heads of the faculty. The choir stalls and the wainscoting in the rear of the chancel are of Italian walnut, and will be the only wood employed in the building. The organ has been divided and placed on either side of the choir. The architects are Howells & Stokes, with McKim, Mead & White, the architects of the university, as consulting architects.

A secret conference of window glass manufacturers was held at Pittsburgh Wednesday, for the purpose of devising plans to abolish the jobber and form a selling pool.

The New York Fireproof Works, manufacturers of metal cover doors, window and trim, have removed to their new plant at Nos. 997 to 1003 East 133d st, between Cypress and Willow avs.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. loaned to the Hendrik-Hudson Co. $875,000 for four years at 5½ and 6 per cent. on the property situated in the east side of Riverside Drive and occupying the whole front between 110th and 111th sts, where an 8-sty fireproof apartment house is to be erected.

The Brunswick Site Co. has borrowed from the Equitable Life Assurance Society $2,500,000 for four years at 4½ and 5½ per cent. on the property situated in the east side of 5th av, occupying the whole front between 26th and 27th sts, a plot 197.6x157.6, where the company is erecting a 12-sty loft and office building of brick and steel construction.

The P. M. & W. Schlichter, architectural marble workers, of 624 and 626 West 47th st, are receiving numerous inquiries about the new German marble being introduced in this country for which they are the sole importers and sale agents. These marbles are the Formosa, Unique, Ural and Bongart sorts, also black and white, and are coming in general use where a fine effect is desired. The company has just installed some Formosa marble pilasters in St. Andrew's Methodist Episcopal Church on West 76th st, between Columbus and Amsterdam avs, which highly pleased the pastor and board of trustees of that church as well as meeting with the approval of the architects, Messrs. Cady & See, of No. 6 West 22d st.

Several months ago the officers of the Sanitary Compressed Air-Vacuum Co. issued a circular stating that they had brought suit against the Vacuum Cleaner Co. for damages and injunction for infringement. In answer to this the Vacuum Cleaner Co. makes the following announcement: "The suit referred to in the circular reproduced above, as having been brought against the undersigned company, is based on patent No. 769,618, filed June 3, 1904, and granted Sept. 6, 1904, to Augustus Lotz, president of the Sanitary Devices Manufacturing Co., of San Francisco, Cal. Since that suit was begun an interference has been instituted in the United States Patent Office between the said patent to Lotz and an application of Mr. David T. Kenney (the president of the undersigned company), filed Nov. 29, 1901. The following is an extract from the opinion of the Examiner of Interferences, stating his conclusion in that interference: 'Judgment of priority of invention of all the counts of the issue is awarded to David T. Kenney, the senior party.' It may be interesting for the public to know that Mr. Kenney operated the apparatus involved in the interference in San Francisco in Mr. Lotz's presence in January, 1903, sixteen months before Mr. Lotz filed the application for his patent."

—Michael Cohen, St. James Building, Broadway and 26th st, the well-known stone dealer, constantly carries on hand large stocks of building stone, as well as chilled steel shot and diamond crushed steel, carborundum bricks for hand rubbing of all kinds, Meyer's German cement and liquid for repairing marble, sandstone and granite, etc., Dugan's invisible patcher, for patching all kinds of limestone; also Nash's cubing book. Good Taste in Country Houses.

The pictures illustrating an article in Country Life in America for October, on this subject, were selected by four architects, themselves successful designers of country houses, namely, Guy Lowell, of Boston; John M. Carrere, of New York; Wilson Eyre and Charles Barton Keen, of Philadelphia.

The following is the selection of Mr. Lowell:

The house of Samuel J. Magarge at Bryn Mawr, Pa., designed by Frank E. Mead and Charles Barton Keen, formerly associated as the firm of Mead & Keen.

A house at Dedham, Mass., designed by James Purdon, Boston.

Mr. Herbert D. Croly's house at Cornish, N. H., designed by Charles A. Platt, New York.

The home of Mrs. George Lee, Beverly Farms, Mass., designed by Wm. Rantoul, Boston.

The Sampson house at Magnolia, Mass., now occupied by Mr. Philip Stockton; C. K. Cummings, Boston, architect.

The selection of representative country houses made by Mr. Carrere, of Carrere & Hastings, New York, is as follows:

Mr. H. S. Schladermundt's house at Lawrence Park, Bronxville, N. Y., designed by Walker & Morris, New York; Mr. Benj. Morris's house at Greenwich, Conn., designed by himself; Mr. William Low's house at Lawrence Park, Bronxville, designed by William A. Bates, New York; house of Mr. Thomas Hastings, at Port Washington, L. I., altered to suit his own design.

In addition to furnishing this list, Mr. Carrere remarked in a letter: "What is even more interesting than individual houses is the whole group of houses built by Mr. Ellicott, on the one hand, and Wyatt & Nolting, on the other, at Roland Park, Baltimore, Md., and the whole group of houses built by Mr. William A. Bates at Lawrence Park, Bronxville, N. Y. In both cases the charm consists in the fact that one idea has been developed in perfect harmony, that the houses all hang together and all fit the grounds, and are really a most charming ensemble and yet individual and interesting in themselves. Recently at Lawrence Park the stucco epidemic has been making itself felt and the thing is being spoiled. I also think from another point of view that Charles Platt has designed some charming houses and gardens. I cannot mention any by name, but there is a fine group of them at Cornish, N. H. The interest in his houses is that they are designed from the painter's point of view to make a picture from whatever quarter you look at them. Pray don't misunderstand me as classing these houses as the best, but among the best."

These houses chosen by Mr. Carrere do not fall into one distinct class, though the Morris and Ellicott houses are on slightly similar lines.

Here is Mr. Wilson Eyre's selection:

"The Orchard," owned by Mr. James L. Breese, at Southampton, Long Island, N. Y.; McKim, Mead & White, architects, New York.

The home of Mr. Charles J. Osborn, at Mamaroneck, N. Y., designed by McKim, Mead & White, New York.

Mr. F. W. Vanderbilt's house at Rough Point, Newport, designed by Peabody & Stearns, Boston.

Mr. Elmer Grey's home at Fox Point, Wis., designed by himself.

The home of Mr. Herbert Underwood, also at Fox Point, Wis., designed by Mr. Grey.

"Sherrewogue," at St. James, Long Island, the home of Mr. Devereux Emmett; McKim, Mead & White, architects.

"Marble Hall," Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont's Newport house, designed by the late R. M. Hunt, New York.

As a perfect example of original Colonial, Mr. Eyre cites Mount Vernon, the home of George Washington.

In this selection there is also a variety of styles, and it is perhaps unnecessary to try to classify them in any single group. Mr. Eyre shows a slight leaning, perhaps, toward English forms.

The last selection of country houses—that of Mr. Charles Barton Keen—is as follows:

The home of Mr. D. S. Newhall at Strafford, Pa., designed by McKim, Mead & White, New York.

House owned by Mrs. Comegys at Chestnut Hill, Pa.; Cope & Stewardson, architects, Philadelphia.

Mr. H. J. Verner's house at Bryn Mawr, Pa., designed by Newman & Harris, Philadelphia.

The home of Mr. Frank Cheney, Jr., at South Manchester, Conn., designed by Charles A. Platt, New York.

The house of Mr. Charles L. Borie, at Rydal, Pa., designed by Wilson Eyre, Philadelphia.

These houses represent not only different styles but different materials and exterior finish. They are moderate-priced modern country houses, in all of which a particularly artistic handling of the surrounding grounds is noticeable.

In concluding the article, which gives pictures of each house, the writer, Mr. Sherwin Hawley, makes these remarks:

"That there are excellent country houses in the United States these pictures, I think, prove conclusively. That there are many poor ones is, alas, an undeniable fact. We could feel greater pride in our domestic architecture if such houses as these were to be met with more frequently. There is the conventional two-story-and-attic house of fifty years ago, with its machine-made piazza, and the even worse attempt at Queen Anne cottage architecture that has cumbered the ground for almost as long. The builders of these houses seemed to feel in duty bound to crowd on all the jig-saw ornament possible, and mill-made brackets, cornices, mouldings and railings.

"Much of this architectural degradation is due to New World commercialism and should consequently be considered prayerfully and with humility. There is nothing quite so hideous as an entire street lined with houses all alike with the possible exception of a few superficial details. No aisle of elms or maples will ever serve to relieve such a street of its bourgeois hideousness. It ought to be possible to secure an injunction restraining real estate companies from perpetrating such crimes against good taste.

"Wherever matters are improving we find a tendency toward greater simplicity. We need a William Morris in this country to preach the gospel of beautified utility and to wage his crusade against all meaningless ornament. If he were an American I fancy he would not look far beyond the Colonial style before beginning his work, and would therefore be in sympathy with the designers of these houses."

City Finance—Work of the Advisory Commission.

It appears not to be known generally that the city government is being served in an advisory capacity by a commission on taxation and finance, which, although a new body, has already done work of importance. The attention of the Record and Guide has been called to a report of the commission recently issued, containing two bills which were adopted by the Legislature at the last session, and under which the Board of Estimate has already authorized an issue of $36,000,000 of bonds. Of this commission Mr. Edgar J. Levey is chairman, and Mr. Lawson Purdy is secretary. Other members are Edwin R. Seligman, Francis Lynde Stetson, Morris K. Jessup, Secretary Haag of the Board of Estimate, the Receiver of Taxes, Corporation Counsel Delany, E. M. Shepard, Charles T. Barney, John L. Cadwalader, Frank J. Goodnow and Frederick A. Cleveland.

In the report will be found a statement showing the uncollected taxes for the years 1898 and prior at October 1, 1905, and a statement of uncollected taxes for the years 1899 to October 1, 1905, in which is shown the actual levy, the amount collected, discounts, cancellations, uncollected balances, and the amount provided in tax levies for deficiency in the product of taxes. The commission has analyzed these tables and explained the reason why under the provisions of the Charter and Tax Law of the State a large amount of taxes is in arrears, of which more than one-half is uncollectible. The commissioners have made an estimate of the exact sum uncollectible and it amounts to $33,791,172.95. Of this amount over $30,000,000 is on account of uncollected personal taxes. About one-third of the tax levy on personal property each year is uncollectible. This will continue to be the case, it is said, so long as we have our antiquated system of imposing taxes on all forms of personal property in the same manner as upon real estate. In practice, through what may be no fault of the department, many persons are assessed for personal property who have no property and from whom in consequence no tax can be collected.

By skillful methods of financing the city, which the commissioners approve, it has been possible up to the present time to carry on the city's affairs without increasing the city debt on account of the large deficiency, except as it has been necessary to issue a somewhat larger amount in revenue bonds than should be issued. The limit, however, has been practically reached, and unless provision is made for the existing arrears and for preventing the accumulation of arrears in the future the financial department of the city will be seriously embarrassed.

The city was confronted with two problems. First, to provide for the existing arrears, and second, to provide for an annual clearance of future arrears. To provide for existing arrears the commissioners proposed an act directing the Board of Estimate and Apportionment to authorize corporate stock of the city of New York to be issued to an amount equal to so much of the deficiency on the first day of January, 1905, in the product of taxes theretofore levied and deemed by the Board to be uncollectible, as shall not have been provided for in a prior tax levies or by the issue of corporate stock of the city of New York.

The second problem, consisting of the annual deficiency in the product of taxes, has been met by providing that the Board of Estimate and Apportionment shall annually insert in the budget a sum equal to so much of the deficiency on the preceding first day of January in the product of taxes theretofore levied and deemed by the Board to be uncollectible, as shall not have been provided for in prior tax levies or by the issue of corporate stock of the city of New York, or by such corporate stock authorized by said Board to be issued. This is accomplished by an amendment to section 230 of the Charter which shall take effect October 1, 1906. This act repeals the section of the Charter which authorizes and directs the Board of Aldermen to increase the tax levy to make good a deficiency in the product of taxes, a provision of law which is quite inadequate and requires an estimate of future conditions instead of a dealing with past and known quantities. But as that section will not be repealed until October 1 the Board of Aldermen in August, 1906, increased the tax levy for 1906 by the usual amount added for the deficiency. At the meeting of the members of the Board of Estimate in October they will insert in the budget for the tax levy of 1907 an amount which will provide for all uncollectible arrears not theretofore provided for up to January, 1906. Thereafter every year the Board of Estimate and Apportionment will provide for all deficiencies in the collection of taxes so far as the same are uncollectible up to the first of January preceding.

In their report the members of the advisory commission have explained exactly how they arrive at the amount of the uncollectible arrears, and the method of financing the city by which it has been enabled to pay its bills in spite of the large arrears. Also they have explained how it may be determined that taxes are uncollectible, and the method of computing the city debt.

Brooklyn Trolley Contemplations.

Notwithstanding the recent statement of President Edwin W. Winter to the effect that his company did not need to extend its service to make the lines profitable, and would not open any new routes until the borough officials had receded from their stand, which he called hostile, property agents are just as busy as ever obtaining consents for new lines, and Vice-President and General Manager Calderwood declares that the lines will be built if the franchises can be obtained.

The new routes call for another road to Coney Island, and they tap large tracts of land that are awaiting transit facilities for their development.

In addition to the main line of the new system, which is now run from the Bath Beach train station at 39th st there are to be two branch lines.

The activity of the B. R. T. in planning new lines, in spite of President Winter's statement, is taken to mean that, although the lines at present are on a paying basis, competition in Bay Ridge would seem such a drain on the system that extensions would be necessary.

It is proposed to have the new tracks meet the present lines of the company at 25th av and 86th st, a short distance north of Coney Island. From there they will run up 25th av to Stillwell av; thence to 79th st and west to 7th av. They will be laid along 7th av to the point where the thoroughfare meets 8th av and 73d st, after which they will run in a straight line up 8th av to 39th st, terminating at that street. Transfers will be given to Bath Beach and Culver line trains.

The additions to this system will help open up other territory and make other convenient ways of getting to Coney Island. Tracks will be laid on 13th av from 39th st to Bay Ridge av. These will take passengers from the Bath Beach trains to Coney Island, and using the tracks of the Bay Ridge av cars part of the way. A spur will also be run along 42d st from 8th av to 2d av. This will go under the Bay Ridge elevated structure at 3d av and will transfer passengers to the trains at that point.

As Mr. Moffitt Sees It.

William H. Moffit, president of the William H. Moffit Realty Co., says that those who have any suspicion that the Long Island boom of last spring is over and look for a slump in that market will be disappointed.

"Long Island is in a state of gigantic transformation, and is bound to have a great advance in the value of real estate. There is no possibility for an abatement of the boom, for land is going higher, transportation is going to be quicker and car fare is going to be cheaper. The man or woman who gets in on Long Island now and buys as much as he or she can conveniently pay for by instalments or otherwise will reap a big profit by taking advantage of this splendid opportunity."

October Architectural Record.

The Architectural Record for October will be exclusively a country house number. In it will be found an attractive collection of houses more or less characteristic of their respective localities. California is well represented by a number of interesting bungalows by Greene & Greene, as well as by some less characteristic houses by Myron Hunt and Elmer Grey. Examples of suburban dwellings in the Middle West are those by Robt. C. Spencer, Jr., and by Pond & Pond. Effective garden treatments on a modest scale are the establishments of the Rev. Thomas Hutcheson at Warren, R. I., and the F. C. Culver place at Hadlyme, Conn., both by Chas. A. Platt. The number is superbly illustrated and should be of considerable public interest, apart from its interest to the profession.

PRIVATE SALES MARKET

South of 59th Street.

CANNON ST.—E. V. C. Pescia & Co., 206 Broadway, sold 133 Cannon st, a 6 1/2-sty loft building for Messrs. Brodowsky & Worth to Marcus Rosenthal.

Smith & McNell's to Expand Further.

FULTON ST.—Alexander P. W. Kinnan, of the firm of J. Romaine Brown & Co., has sold to Thomas R. McNell, of the Smith & McNell Hotel Co., the properties at No. 233 Fulton st and No. 197 Washington st, forming an L from Fulton st to Washington st. The building at No. 197 Washington st is at present occupied by the Smith & McNell Hotel. This is the first time that the property has been transferred since 1835, it having been purchased at that time by Mr. Kinnan's grandfather, the late C. V. B. Ostrander, who was for many years president of the Merchants' Fire Insurance Co. Smith & McNell's is known the country over, and probably is patronized by more people than any other dining place in the metropolis. Messrs. Smith & McNell were both watchmen in Washington Market when they opened a coffee and cake shop, which has grown into the existing premises. In view of the opening of the Hudson tunnel line it is understood that Mr. McNell will enlarge the place still further, and eventually make an entrance from Fulton st.

NEW CHAMBERS ST.—Harry L. Rosen bought the 5-sty building northwest corner of New Chambers and Roosevelt sts, a triangular lot of 2,500 sq. ft.

SULLIVAN ST.—M. Wingenfeld sold to the Rosehill Realty Co. 51 Sullivan st, a 3-sty frame building, 21.6x70. The company owns the adjoining southeast corner of Broome st.

19TH ST.—Charles E. Duross sold the 3-sty dwelling, 441 West 19th st, 25x92, for Edward McInnune to the Prudential Real Estate Corporation, which gives the company 100 ft. frontage on 19th st, close to the new dock improvements.

For a Loft Building.

20TH ST.—M. & L. Hess sold for the Realty Holding Co. 24 West 20th st, 25x92, to a purchaser who is preparing plans for the erection of a 10-sty store and loft building.

St. James Building Sold.

The St. James Building, southeast corner of Broadway and 26th st, was transferred on Wednesday, Sept. 26, 1906, to the Pittsburgh Life & Trust Co., by the Security Trust & Life Co. of Philadelphia, for $3,150,000. Of this amount $1,359,000 is represented by a mortgage on the property. The St. James Building, a 16-sty structure, was erected 10 years ago on the site formerly occupied by the hotel of that name. It covers a plot 94 ft. on Broadway and 109 ft. on 26th st. It is understood that the transfer is incidental to the sale of the Security Trust & Life Co. of Philadelphia, the real estate being one of the assets of the former corporation. The Building Trades Employers' Association, as well as a number of builders, architects and material firms, have their offices in the building.

37TH ST.—Jacob J. Tabolt sold the property at 444 West 37th st, on lot 20x98.9, which he bought at auction recently.

39TH ST.—George Nicholas bought from Rebecca F. Riggs the 4-sty and basement building, 15 West 39th st, 21x98.9. This property is in the rear of the New York Club, and has not changed hands in 25 years. Douglas Robinson, Chas. S. Brown & Co. were the brokers.

48TH ST.—Montgomery & Seitz sold for M. Brown 234 East 48th st, a 3-sty dwelling, 18.8x100.

Wm. Rockefeller Adds to His Holdings.

54TH ST.—William Rockefeller bought from James J. Goodwin 9 East 54th st, a 5-sty dwelling, 25x100.5, 200 ft. east of 5th av. Mr. Rockefeller has owned the northeast corner of 5th av and 54th st since 1876, and bought the adjoining avenue house in 1884. In 1901 he bought 5 East 54th st, and in 1904, when the St. Regis Hotel threatened to break through into that street, he bought 3 and 7. The Goodwin house abuts on the easterly portion of John Jacob Astor's holdings, so that the purchase by Mr. Rockefeller effectively shuts the St. Regis out of 54th st.

3D AV.—John Peters & Co. sold for Adam A. Schopp 56 3d av, between 10th and 11th sts, a 3-sty building with stores.

North of 59th Street.

65TH ST.—Mandelbaum & Lewine sold through J. Edgar Leaycraft & Co. to Charles E. Hackley 158 and 160 West 65th st, two 4-sty dwellings, 36x100.5.

74TH ST.—Slawson & Hobbs have sold for Lillie J. Earle the 4-sty high-stoop dwelling, 145 West 74th st, 20x60x102.2.

78TH ST.—Samuel C. Baum bought from the McCoom estate 307 East 76th st, a 4-sty tenement, 25x102.2, adjoining the northwest corner of 1st av.

REAL ESTATE NOTES

Jacob A. King, West End, N. J., is a good one to get into communication with for a Long Branch transaction.

The Wants and Offer department of the Record and Guide is spoken of as one of the most effective in the metropolis. Every notice printed therein seems to score.

J. C. Bolger, formerly with the Edward McVickar Co., has opened offices in the Haight Building, 156 Broadway. Mr. Bolger will transact a general real estate business.

Julius Scott has just returned from Europe on the steamship "Kaiserin Augusta Victoria" and would be pleased to have his clients favor him with a call at his office, 219 West 116th st.

Mr. Henry R. Steele, formerly treasurer of the Title Insurance Co. of New York, has opened offices in the Mail and Express Building, where he will conduct a general real estate business. Associated with Mr. Steele is his brother, Irving E. Steele.

The Arrow Can Co., 35 Warren st, is placing on the market a specially constructed engineer's can. This can is the result of a study of the weak and strong points in the different kinds of cans now made, and is designed to correct the faulty construction of such cans.

Samuel V. Braisted, senior member of the firm of Braisted, Goodman & Hershfield, of 2783 Broadway, real estate brokers and agents, has withdrawn from that firm and associated himself with Joseph Keller under the firm name of Braisted & Keller. They have opened offices at 100 West 116th st, where they will conduct a general real estate business.

At the sale of Morris Park lots, in the Vesey Street Exchange on Thursday, the best bidding was for lots in the southwestern portion of the tract, on Barnes, Matthews, Muliner, Fowler, Neil and Bronxdale avs. The highest prices were obtained for lots on the Pelham Parkway, ranging from $3,500 for an inside lot to $4,900 for the southeast corner of Muliner av. Few intermediate lots were sold. Lots on the north side of Bronxdale av brought from $1,500 for an inside parcel to $3,775 for a corner. Prices on Matthews av, between Bronxdale and Neil avs, ranged from $925 to $1,075. On Muliner av, between the same streets, the prices were from $675 to $1,175. In the same block on Fowler av the extremes were $575 and $1,010. Neil av prices were between $1,075 and $2,050.

Old Prophecies for Real Estate.

Mr. J. Clarence Davies has had reprinted a pamphlet that was originally published in 1860, entitled "The Value of Real Estate in the City of New York—Past, Present and Future, as Illustrated in a series of Letters to the Evening Post, in 1858, 1859 and 1860—By a Retired Merchant." Mr. Davies has one of the original copies in his possession and he has had it reproduced, thinking it might be of interest to those having to do with New York realty as well as throw some light on present and future conditions. The first article in the book is as follows:

PROSPECTIVE RISE IN REAL ESTATE.

September, 1868.

To the Editors of the Evening Post:

I wish to express through your columns a few predictions in regard to the future value of real estate in the city of New York, which have been made within the past week, by one whose judgment has for a long period been found by experience to be more reliable than that of any other man within the scope of my acquaintance. This person, while he has ever been much more sanguine in favor of the constant advance in real estate than most other men, has been found, in reviewing his opinions for the past thirty years, far behind the reality. His former opinions having been so reliable, gives me great confidence in his predictions for the future.

First. In general terms he predicts that real estate on this island will bring three times its present value upon average—located between 90th and 30th sts, and 5th and 4th avs—before January, 1864.

Second. He predicts that Yorkville, in 1864, will be more valuable than Murray Hill now is.

Third. He predicts that Yorkville, in 1864, will be the most valuable part of New York for residences.

Fourth. He predicts that every lot fronting on the Central Park, 25 by 100 ft., will before 1870, bring $25,000, as there will be no residence in the world equal to it—a perfect garden of 750 acres, elegantly ornamented in part with fountains, flowers, trees and drives—between two great rivers, with Croton and gas in every room, and in the centre of one of the greatest cities in the world.

Fifth. He predicts that Harlem River, from the North to the East River (now being made navigable), will soon be the great depot for coal, wood, lumber, brick, grain, hay, lime, fruit, vegetables, etc., etc.; and that it will be lined the whole length with canal boats from the Lakes, which will never go below Harlem River, to discharge their cargoes. The present business of this kind now done at Whitehall must be located on Harlem River. Whitehall will then all be needed for the increasing foreign commerce. At the present moment, all the grocers above 20th st can go to Harlem River in less time, and much easier, than to Whitehall. Nearly all the vacant ground, to build on which building materials will be wanted, is now on average above 40th st, and in point of time and facility to builders, nearer to Harlem River than to the lumber depots in the lower wards.

Sixth. He predicts that the city of New York will extend thirty-five streets from river to river, within six years, commencing January first next—towards Harlem River—and will extend seventy streets, before January, 1870, which will cover the whole island up so far as 110th st. In confirmation of this, history records the fact that for seventy years past New York has increased every five years twenty-five per cent.; thus, if we now have 800,000, by the same rule we shall increase 200,000 before January, 1864. Take the ground that New York is now fully built up to 40th st (including in the account what is built above, south of Yorkville), and that our streets will not average over 800 lots—allow for churches, parks, etc., say 100 lots—leaves 700. Thirty-five streets will give 24,500 lots, and 200,000 population will require (say 8 to a house) 25,000 houses. Thus, seventy streets will be required for 400,000 people, and they may surely be relied upon, if the past is any guaranty for the future. This calculation is made without allowing for the great influx of all kinds of manufacturers, which must congregate at the upper end of the island, and without estimating the benefit New York is to derive from the introduction of steam on the canals, which has been well said "will be equal to the canal itself."

Seventh. He predicts that lots around Mount Morris Square, between 4th and 6th avs, and 120th and 125th sts (now selling at say $700, and about as dull sale as lots were at the same price in 1825, around Washington Square, which are now worth $8,000), will be more valuable in 1870 than lots will then be around Washington Square.

Eighth. He predicts that men of wealth, from all parts of the United States and Europe will be drawn to New York for the purpose of enjoying a residence around Central Park.

Record and Guide Quarterly

The annual number of the Record and Guide Quarterly contains all the legal records for the past year concerning real estate and projected buildings, arranged alphabetically and numerically, with invaluable annotations. These are supplemented by tables of important transactions, with typical prices, covering the past quarter of a century or more, accompanied by expert comments; also by a list of realty corporations created during the past two years, with officers and the enterprises in which they are engaged. The whole makes a volume of reference which no real estate man can afford to be without. It should be on every desk and in every library. Its cost is as nothing compared to its value as a time-saver. This important work can be obtained, with three quarterly numbers, for the comparatively small sum of $20. It is published by the Record and Guide, at Nos. 14 and 16 Vesey St., where interested parties may see it and have its uses explained to them. If you cannot call, drop a postal card to the Publisher, or call him up on telephone, 3157 Cortlandt.
